Holiday for Debts, Beggars and Mobs, Two Trips in One, We Need No Mikado.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

NEVADA HAS declared a "business and bank holiday" extending until November 12, and covering the whole state. Lieut. Gov. Griswold, acting in the absence of Gov. Frank B. Balzer, said he thought the holiday would be good for business, banks, bank depositors and the entire people of Nevada.

Until November 12, no debtor in Nevada need pay anybody anything, no bills, wages, mortgages, interest, nothing.

The main idea is to give certain banks a chance to strengthen their position.

WHAT WOULD be the result if all debts, bills, obligations of every sort in the United States were suddenly cancelled, not for twelve days, but forever? That will not happen, but it is a question that could not be answered offhand.

Among the ancient Hebrews, all debts were cancelled, once in so many years, everybody starting afresh.

IN LONDON pathetic beggars and angry mobs have changed their methods. In old days the mob talked until the police came, then went away. Now a mob marches on Buckingham Palace, a thing unheard of. Mob leaders demand the right to enter the House of Commons and argue directly with honorable members.

Also, much worse, members of the mob carry supplies of large marbles. When police approach on horseback they drop these marbles, causing horses to tumble and fall as they step on the small spheres.

Also the mob put down planks with sharp spikes projecting, to puncture the tires of motorcycle police.

A BEGGAR in the old days, asking for a penny, said "Thank you, sir," if you gave, or refused. He doesn't do that any more.

You may see photographs of a beggar in tatters running beside an open carriage with the king and two of his sons in it, begging directly from the king himself.

EDWARD F. HUTTON, able young business man, who broadcast two of the few good speeches made on the Republican side during the campaign, met President Hoover in New York, on Monday, and at parting told him a story which may be new to you.

"A colored gentleman, persistently hanging around an airport, confessed to a pilot that his only ambition was to go up in the air. The kind pilot took him up, looped the loop several times, rolled over, then brought him down. His passenger said solemnly:

"'Boss, I thank you for those two wonderful rides.'

"Why do you say two rides?" asked the pilot.

The passenger replied:

"'Yes, sir, two rides. My first and my last.'"

The writer is not able to tell just how the story applies to modern politics. Perhaps you will know.

IN JAPAN, formerly, no subject might see the Mikado. When he passed, on his way to worship his ancestors, everybody remained indoors or fell flat on their faces. He was too holy to be seen.

In the United States apparently it is forbidden to talk about the Supreme Court, although it is a creation of the people of the United States.

There is much excitement because Gov. Roosevelt casually said that the Supreme Court is made up largely of Republicans. It is, naturally and properly, since Republican presidents have appointed a majority of the court.

THE PRESIDENT who has the power to appoint Supreme Court judges, or a candidate, who may have that power, should be allowed to mention them, or even say what he thinks about them.

Even judges are human, fallible, those that possess a sense of humor are glad to know what a presidential candidate or anybody else thinks of them.

This country needs no grand llama, or mikado, too holy for the people to look at, and doesn't intend to have any.

IN NEW YORK, victims of the depression select a street corner, wait for red lights to stop traffic, then approach automobiles, asking help.

One man with a good earnest face approaches with flowers for sale. You shake your head as you have done many times already. Another, with a face not so good but pale and worried, comes close to the automobile window with nothing to sell.

He holds his hands together on his breast, as though in prayer, turns his eyes upward, says not a word. You open the car door and give him something.

Why does the man offering flowers get nothing, and the man folding his hands in prayer get money?

Psychologists will tell you.

HERE AND there an employer tells his workers what he thinks about the election. Any employer threatening workers, coercing, or trying to frighten them, is a bad citizen.

But every American has the right to tell every other American or group of Americans what he thinks about public affairs and candidates. Even the fact that a man employs thousands of other men and pays them wages should not deprive him of the right to express his opinion.

YOUNG PLANS ROOSEVELT SPEECH

Industrial Leader to Talk for Nominee Tomorrow Night

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Owen D. Young, noted lawyer and industrialist, will make his first appearance as a speaker in the presidential campaign at the Metropolitan Opera House tomorrow night on the same program with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Young's address, which will be brief—about 10 minutes—will be on the air at 10:15 p. m., immediately preceding the speech of Roosevelt.

In making this announcement today, James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, remarked that this is the first campaign since 1896, when Bryan and free silver was an issue, that every outstanding Democrat of the nation supported the ticket.

FARLEY CHEERFUL

Farley was in an optimistic and expansive mood. He exulted over the speech which Senator Carter Glass made in Washington last night, asserting that Glass "riddled the Hoover defenses." Farley said:

"I am interested to see how Mr. Hoover and his campaign leaders will seek to get out from under the withering fire of Senator Glass' speech. Senator Glass, regarded as the greatest authority on the fiscal affairs of the United States government, literally riddled the Hoover defenses. The people of this country are now wondering what will be the next lot of alibis which will be advanced by Mr. Hoover and his leaders."

Farley characterized the speech of Newton D. Baker, of Ohio, in Brooklyn last night on the tariff as "a masterly effort which cannot be successfully refuted by our opponents."

The Democratic chairman added that reports which have come to

SEEK WIFE'S EX-HUSBAND IN BEATING

Ligonier Doctor Set Upon on Leaving Patient

LIGONIER, Pa., Nov. 2.—Vengeance, after 11 years, today was given as the motive for the attack on Dr. E. E. McAdoo, 42, physician, who was beaten last night by his wife's first husband, according to the state police.

Dr. McAdoo was leaving the home of a patient in Stahlstown when he was set upon and beaten unconscious. In critical condition, he was unconscious in his home here today.

State police are searching for Arthur Hauger, 45, of Stahlstown, who was divorced by the present Mrs. McAdoo more than 10 years ago, the police were told.

Hauger has been charged with the attack. The police said that he lay in wait outside the home of a cousin—Elmer Hauger—whom Dr. McAdoo was treating, until the physician departed.

The doctor was beaten about the head. The wounds indicated a blunt instrument was used. Several stitches were required to close the wounds.

Hauger escaped after the attack. He, too, has been married since the divorce of 11 years ago.

Mr. Hoover, Man Without a Country, Meet Abraham Lincoln, American

MR. HOOVER DECLARES sententiously that the preservation of the American form of government is at stake in this election.

Mr. Hoover wrote over his own signature in an article printed in the Yale News:

"The crowd only feels; IT HAS NO MIND OF ITS OWN WHICH CAN PLAN.

"The crowd is credulous. It destroys, it consumes, it hates, and it dreams; BUT IT NEVER BUILDS.

* * * * *

"POPULAR DESIRES ARE NO CRITERIA TO THE REAL NEED; that can be determined only by deliberative consideration, by education, by constructive leadership."

"THE CROWD" is Mr. Hoover's contemptuous description of the American public and as a natural consequence of this attitude Mr. Hoover approves and encourages class government by the favored and superior few.

Abraham Lincoln, who founded the Republican party, had a different ideal of American government. He defined it as a "government of the people, by the people, for the people."

He did not distrust the American people. He was one of them.

If Mr. Hoover is right, then Abraham Lincoln is wrong, and the Republican party should cease to quote Mr. Lincoln's inspiring utterances, since it does not believe in them, and should substitute Mr. Hoover's flatulent banalities.

The question to be decided is whether our government shall remain as Mr. Lincoln visioned it, a "government of the people, by the people, for the people," or whether it shall become a government of special interests, by special interests, for special interests.

The question is, whether the government shall be a government to protect the people or a government to exploit the people.

The question is, whether the government shall become a government by Wall Street, which has robbed the people through dishonest speculation and overcapitalization, or whether it shall be a government controlled by the American public and operated in the interest of the American public.

Truly the preservation of the American government is at stake and the issue, too, is whether the government shall be controlled by the international bankers for the benefit of foreign nations or whether it shall be controlled BY LOYAL CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE BENEFIT OF THIS COUNTRY.

MR. HOOVER may not particularly honor Abraham Lincoln, who founded the Republican party. Mr. Hoover was a DEMOCRAT under Wilson and a Republican under Coolidge and has spent nearly all of his life outside of this country, neither a Democrat nor a Republican nor an American.

Therefore he cannot have any very deep political convictions and may not have any very sincere patriotic convictions.

But if Mr. Hoover, as a hybrid Republican, does not approve of Abraham Lincoln's ideal of Republican government, let him look to Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic party.

He will find that Jefferson's ideal of American government was a government for "the greatest good of the greatest number."

MT. LEBANON PUSHES WAR ON RATES

'Write-Ups' and Loan Attacked, Company Cuts Discounts

That the South Pittsburgh Water Company loaned over $1,000,000 to an affiliated corporation without proper security, thus increasing bonded indebtedness, interest charges and capital invested in plant at the expense of the rate payers, is alleged in a complaint filed with the Public Service Commission against the water company by Mt. Lebanon Township.

Attorney George P. Kountz, who, with Attorney Samuel A. Schreiner, will represent Mt. Lebanon in the rate fight, declared that aid is being sought from 25 other municipalities in the South Hills territory served by the water company.

SECOND COMPLAINT

A complaint against the water rates has also been filed with the Public Service Commission by Dr. John G. Ricketts and Fred V. Cassell, of Mt. Lebanon.

The complaint of the township was forwarded to Harrisburg yesterday by Attorney Kountz. It attacks the new rate filed by the water company October 4 as "exorbitant, unfair and unjust."

The $1,000,000 loan must have been made either to the West Penn Power Company or to the American Water Works and Electric Company, according to the complaint. The loan was made in 1930, it is alleged, and at the end

'JAFSIE' CLEARS LINDY SUSPECT

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh kidnaping case, visited police headquarters today and failed to identify Arthur Barry, jewel thief, captured in Sussex County 10 days ago.

Barry, who has been held here on the possibility that he might have had some connection with the kidnaping, was placed in a lineup with several detectives. Dr. Condon looked at the men and said he knew none of them. When Barry was pointed out to him he said he had never seen him before. Dr. Condon said:

"The man I gave the money to was much taller."

Barry looked relieved. He said:

"Dr. Condon, I want to thank you. You could have dropped a big lemon into my lap right now, and you didn't. I want to repeat again that I know nothing of the Lindbergh case."

SCHOOL PAIR'S ROMANCE ENDS

Betty Lewis, a former student at exclusive Winchester School, daughter of J. E. Lewis, has sued Harry C. May, Jr., son of a prominent broker, for divorce. She charges desertion.

Betty was 16 and a sophomore at Winchester when she eloped to Wellsburg, W. Va., in December, 1929, with young May, then in the sixth form of the senior division at Shady Side Academy.

Her father, president of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company, verified the divorce action today. He said the couple had been separated for more than a year.

When young May's mother was asked about the disagreement today in her Squirrel Hill home, she said:

"If it's so, it's news to me. But I'm glad to hear of it."

When the young couple was married friends said their romance began after they had met at a school dance.

HOOVER DECIDED ON COAST TRIP

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—President Hoover apparently has decided to carry his warning against the "inchoate new deal" of the Democrats from coast to coast on the final—and hurried—campaign trip.

White House officials guarded his plans carefully today but there was every indication election day would find him in his Palo Alto, Cal., home casting one vote for his own retention in office.

Arrangements are being made, it was learned, for a quick dash through the West and over the Rockies from Minneapolis, where the President winds up a hectic Mid-West speaking tour Saturday night.

TRAIN SPEECHES

This would place him in Palo Alto around noon next Tuesday after a series of rear platform appearances through the "open spaces."

It is rumored that, win or lose, Mr. Hoover will return to Washington via the Panama Canal aboard a battleship. No one in

McCloskey Backed On Glassford Bid

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—While no comment was forthcoming from Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, plans for reorganization of Johnstown's police department with the former Washington chief in charge received the approval of City Council today. Mayor McCloskey announced yesterday he would invite Glassford to come here as chief of police.

Swearingen's Resignation Accepted

HARRISBURG, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today accepted the resignation of Judge Joseph M. Swearingen, of Pittsburgh.

Under the retirement provision accepted by the Judge, he will receive his salary for the remainder of his elective term.

GROWERS FAVOR ROOSEVELT

By COLE E. MORGAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—After three weeks of losing ground, Gov. Roosevelt has staged a comeback in Minnesota that promises his holding to his early advantage in that important grain belt commonwealth.

New returns tabulated today from the midwestern farm area, in the nationwide postcard presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States, showed the Democratic candidate scoring majorities in the current week's new ballots from Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Montana and Wisconsin. President Hoover had the best of the week's returns from Iowa, Kansas and South Dakota.

The eight states lined up the same way last week except that Minnesota was on the Hoover instead of the Roosevelt side in the week's response.

Dealt 'Death Card,' Pinochle Player Dies

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—William Morris, theatrical manager, picked up one of the cards just dealt to him in a friendly pinochle game at the Friars' Club today. It was the ace of spades, known to fortune tellers as the "death card."

A moment later Morris' head slumped to the table, his face blanched, the cards dropped from his nerveless hands. He was dead from heart disease.

Prince Murat Dies In France at 76

Zoo 'Broke,' Erie Plans Wild Animal Hunt

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 2.—(INS.)—The city zoo, containing animals valued at $10,000, is bankrupt and the wild beasts can neither be sold nor given away.

As a last resort to rid the taxpayers of the burden, Mayor James P. Rossiter today proposed a wild animal hunt in which the beasts would be released to be shot by hunters.

His plan stipulates that hunters be restrained from shooting until a half hour after the animals are given their freedom. Lion hunters would be forced to confine their shooting to lions, while those seeking a bear skin could fire only at that animal.

The hunt would at least provide entertainment for Erie residents, the Mayor explained.

PLIGHT OF U. S. LAID TO RULE OF HOOVER

Secretary of Treasury 'Steals' Speech Copy, Radios His Defense

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Senator Carter Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, closed a scorching radio attack on Hoover administration financial and economic policies last night with a sharp castigation of Secretary of the Treasury Mills.

He accused Mills of a "breach of confidence" in obtaining an advance copy of his speech in order to prepare an immediate reply. Mills went on the air at 11:30 o'clock upon conclusion of Glass' one-hour address. The debate was over the nation-wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

DENOUNCES MILLS

Glass asserted he would have been perfectly willing to have faced Mills in open debate, but denounced the Secretary's "backstairs method of controversy."

When he went before the microphone Mills sought to assuage Glass' feelings, saying there was nothing unusual in his obtaining an advance of Glass' speech and explained that advances of his own addresses had frequently fallen into Democratic hands.

Mills spent half the day preparing an answer to Glass. The radio time was obtained for him [illegible] the last minute. The Secretary entered a general blanket denial of Glass' charges against the administration, and particularly the assertion that President Hoover has espoused inflationary legislation that would have "rocked the foundations of our banking system."

UPHOLDS SECRECY

Mills repeated the country had been in danger of being forced off the gold standard, but said this grave condition had to be kept secret at the time, in replying to Glass' denial that any such contingency had ever arisen.

Directly blaming the administration for much of the country's present woes, Senator Glass, the war-time Secretary of the Treasury, charged that:

Secretary of State Stimson's contemptuous treatment of the Senate resolution warning the State Department to stop approving worthless foreign bond issues, "entitled him to impeachment."

Secretary of War Hurley should have been "booted out of office" for a campaign statement that a Roosevelt-Garner victory would force the country off the gold standard.

LOAN POLICY ASSAILED

Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans in certain politically debatable states, notably California, "make some people wonder why the Republican party should trouble itself to raise a campaign fund."

Grimm's Fairy Tales and Aesop's Fables never taxed the imagination as President Hoover has repeatedly done to "regain the lost favor of the American people."

Glass heaped sarcasm and ridicule on the Republican effort to remain in power after its "profligate waste of the taxpayers' money."

Denouncing the era of speculation, Glass said that Hoover and Andrew W. Mellon "jumped into the stock pit as cheer leaders for the speculators."

Every worthwhile effort to combat the evils of the depression had its beginning in Democratic policies, Glass said.

Mrs. Edison Urges Victory for Hoover

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, widow of the inventor, urged the re-election of President Hoover during a brief address yesterday at a tea given in her honor by the women's division of the Pennsylvania section, Engineers' National Hoover Committee. She said:

"We are all home folks, like the Hoovers, and with them are fighting for our homes. He represents American traditions and ideals and when we have a good thing why should we throw it over?"

him from New England since Gov. Roosevelt's two trips into this territory convinces him that "New England will take its place with the other sections of the country and support the Democratic nominee."

WORKS ON SPEECHES

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt prepared today for the final drive of the presidential campaign, confident that his four-day invasion of New England, coupled with Al Smith's previous visit to that section, has put the northeastern industrial states "in the bag" for the Democratic national ticket.

The Governor remained at the executive mansion disposing of state business and working on the three final speeches of the campaign which he will deliver in New York City beginning tomorrow night.

He will speak from the same platform with former Gov. Smith in Brooklyn Friday night and in Madison Square Garden Saturday night. Tomorrow night he will address a meeting of "Roosevelt Republicans" in Metropolitan Opera House.

RETURNS HOME

The Governor returned to the executive mansion late last night after a thrilling 300-mile automobile ride, most of the time in the driving rain, through Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

For two hours last night the nominee played hide and seek with a score of reporters and a half dozen Massachusetts and Connecticut state police, who lost him when he took a "short cut" through the foothills of the Berkshires.

Stimson Denies Foreign Loan O. K.

The President continued today with the job of preparing his final argument for election over Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The first will be made tonight at 11:15 E. S. T., over a long-distance telephone connection to California, where the speech will be broadcast as a highlight of "California day."

Tomorrow, the executive takes to the road again with his prediction that "Democratic victory next Tuesday will be followed by destruction of the American system," and his dire picture of such a future wherein "the grass will grow in the streets of a hundred cities, a thousand towns; the weeds will overrun the fields of millions of farms."

Friday morning will find him delivering a 15-minute address at Gary, Ind., in one last effort to win over the 14 Hoosier electoral votes.

NO CHICAGO SPEECH

From Gary, the presidential special will hasten to Chicago, but only for an operating stop in the yards. Mr. Hoover has abandoned the idea of a speech there after much deliberation.

Then come rear platform appearances down to the heart of Illinois at Joliet, La Salle, Ottawa, Peoria and Pekin, and winding up about noon at Springfield. In the state capital, Mr. Hoover will deliver one of his three final major addresses.

JOHNSON CALLS HOOVER 'FALSE PROPHET'

G. O. P. Senator in Stirring Plea for Roosevelt

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2.—Picturing President Hoover as a false prophet, United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson called upon his fellow Republicans last night to put welfare of the nation above party and support Roosevelt and Garner.

Senator Johnson spoke before enthusiastic Republicans and Democrats who jammed the Philharmonic Auditorium to capacity. Almost as many as gained admittance were turned away for lack of standing room. He said:

"The choice must be made this year between two clashing philosophies of government.

"One, represented by President Hoover, believes in the divine right of big business to exploit all the rest of the people. It is the philosophy of government of the Mellons and the Vares, the Morgans and the Millses.

ROOSEVELT PHILOSOPHY

"The other, the Roosevelt philosophy, speaks the hopes and the aspirations of this common humanity, demanding for rich and poor, high and low, big and little, the same rights in government.

"For three tragic years in government we have had false prophecies and broken promises.

"The fact is that the President was utterly unable to understand American psychology or the American people.

SPECULATED ABROAD

"He had lived in a different atmosphere; his environment had been one utterly at variance with ours; his activities had been confined to the London stock market, where the only philosophy was, as he early in his career expressed it: 'The great science of getting the most money out of some other human being.'

"At Des Moines, he finally decided not only to acknowledge the depression, which he had constantly denied, but to make a political asset out of it.

"Immediately after the Des Moines speech came the drive upon the American dollar abroad and immediately thereafter, too, came the drop in securities at home."

Campaign Ethics Draw Thomas Fire

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, branded the campaign between Republicans and Democrats as a "contest in vituperation" in an address at a political rally in convention hall here last night.

The conduct of the two major parties in the present political campaign, he said "is in itself proof of the breakdown in morale and intelligence of the whole capitalistic system."

HARDING ABUSE DENOUNCED BY DAUGHERTY

Ohioan 'Most Tolerant' Of Presidents, He Tells Clubmen

COLUMBUS, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Warren G. Harding was a tolerant but sadly abused President, Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general in the late President's cabinet; declared in a speech here today commemorating the sixty-seventh birthday anniversary of Mr. Harding.

Daugherty, in one of his few public appearances since he retired from the cabinet, asserted "no man suffered from the so-called 'freedom of the press' as did President Harding. That the abuse came after his death is all the more shameful."

Speaking at memorial services conducted by the Columbus Kiwanis Clubs, Daugherty said President Harding was one of the most tolerant of statesmen who respected every man's religion, and regarded any church as better than none. Daugherty said:

"We do well to recall the past, for, while the magnitude and benefits of the work of the Harding administration may have been somewhat dimmed by the frenzy of suspicion, malevolent accusations and gossip, yet Time, the unfailing dispenser of justice, impartially reveals as it swings onward.

"His successors remind you that not a single policy inaugurated by President Harding has been removed or set aside."

MARION CEREMONY

MARION, O., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—The sixty-seventh birthday of Warren G. Harding was observed today with a ceremony at the stately tomb near the edge of the city where the bodies of the late President and Mrs. Harding lie.

The program was in charge of the Boy Scouts of the Harding area, comprising five counties. The scouts are sponsoring plans for an annual pilgrimage of residents of this vicinity to the tomb.

'Ohio Gang' Seeking His Defeat, Says Ingalls

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 2.—(INS.)—David S. Ingalls today broadcast a charge that "the old Ohio gang," a handful of men "posing as Republicans," have launched a campaign to defeat him in his candidacy for the governorship of Ohio. He said:

"It's the old 'Ohio gang' that defamed Harding and killed Frank Willis.

"They have shown their hands within the past five days, but still have their heads covered as usual. For more than two decades they have made their living, and in each instance an excellent living, through their jungle methods of politics."

of 1931 only $400,000 had been repaid.

Two increases in the item of fixed capital installed amounting to $500,000 each in 1924 and 1926 were "write-ups," not representing any real additions to the values of the property, it is alleged.

REVENUE GAIN

The company's operating revenues in nine years have increased 105 per cent while its operating expenses have increased only 30 per cent, according to the complaint. The company's surplus in 1922 was $89,216 compared with $1,863,460 in 1931, it is stated.

Many of the company's consumers receiving bills for the November quarter are wondering why their cash discount is less than for the August quarter, when they used less water.

The discount system was changed with the rate, water company officals explained. Under the old rate, the maximum discount for cash payment was 2 cents per thousand on the first 12,000 gallons, or 24 cents. Under the new rate the maximum cash discount is 2 cents per thousand on the first 10,500 gallons, or 21 cents.

The new rate filed by the company eliminated the former service charge, but set up a new minimum rate exactly equal to the old service charge. The saving to the consumer was in the amount of water received under the minimum rate, and amounts to $1.86 a year.

Elect Roosevelt, Mrs. McAdoo Urges

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo, youngest daughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson, in a radio speech last night, called upon American women to vote a Democratic ticket Tuesday as a protest against "the present administration's theory that the one cure for an evil condition is to ignore it."

Besides urging the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. McAdoo advocated the election of her husband, Democratic senatorial candidate in California.

Supt. Walsh Pleads For G.O.P. Ticket

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh urged support of Hoover and the entire Republican ticket last night at a meeting of First Ward citizens in the basement of the City-County Building. Walsh is Republican ward chairman.

Hoover's Walking Advice Is Hardly Kind to Mr. Ford

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Let's do a little shadowing boxing with Mr. Hoover in Madison Square Garden.

Where was Herbert at the time?

"My conception of America is a land where men and women may walk in ordered liberty—"

That's gratitude. After Henry had told his workingmen to vote for Herbert.

"Where people shall have leisure and impulse to seek a fuller life—"

Choice of home-made gin or speakeasies.

"The poorhouse has vanished from us—"

That's Harry Houdini's old trick. He also made an elephant disappear.

"A spirit unfettered, youthful, eager, with a vision stretching beyond the farthest horizons with an open mind, sympathetic and generous—"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

Necessary to elect (electoral vote) 266.

Van Dyke and Martin Both Claiming State

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—"Gov. Roosevelt will come to the Philadelphia line with a big lead."

That declaration was voiced here by Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman, while on a visit to this city. He said:

"The Roosevelt plurality in the upstate sections will more than wipe out anything Philadelphia can do for Hoover. That means that Pennsylvania will go Democratic.

"I have traveled through every part of the state. There is not a county where President Hoover's supporters are not fighting in a desperate effort to save themselves and their candidates from defeat. In some of these counties the sentiment shows a 6-to-1 advantage for Roosevelt."

HARRISBURG, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, today predicted President Hoover will have a half-million plurality in next Tuesday's election in Pennsylvania. He said:

"Pennsylvania is responding magnificently to the call of President Hoover to maintain American foundations, and my reports and my visits to counties show campaign conditions highly gratifying.

"The visit of the President to Philadelphia demonstrated the heart of the people of that great district is with him, and in Allegheny, Schuylkill and other large counties the march to back up the Chief Executive is most impressive.

"Pennsylvania is not only going to give Hoover its electoral vote by a great majority, but we will elect our state ticket and a Republican delegation in Congress."

RENO, Nev., Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Cash was king in Nevada today.

Reno's most famous industry, the "divorce mill," operated on a strictly money basis, with checks drawn on the banks which closed under terms of the statewide 12-day banking "holiday" refused.

Gold and silver came out of the "family sock" to buy the necessities of life—and to keep the gaming wheels spinning, and the "divorce mill" in action.

Wagers were low at the gambling casinos, and they were all made in real money.

Four of Reno's five banks were temporarily closed under terms of the debt moratorium.

By airplane and train came fresh funds to the sum of $1,000,000 to the First National Bank, which has elected to keep its doors open in spite of the legal respite tendered by the state to provide for a readjustment in business and banking conditions.

Gov. Fred B. Balzar, now in Washington attempting to negotiate R. F. C. loans for banks closed under the proclamation of Lieut. Gov. Morley Griswold, is the man on whom the citizenry centered its attention.

It was generally admitted that, unless loans are forthcoming to the banks, Nevada faces a severe financial crisis.

SEES FATHER'S FAVORITE FOR FIRST TIME

Helen to Get $50,000 Annuity, Will See Son Each Year

International News Service.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 2.—For the first time in his life, Crown Prince Michael of Rumania has met and talked to Mme. Magda Lupescu, the titian-haired divorcee for whom his father, King Carol, once renounced his rights to the throne.

The meeting, it was learned today, took place a few days ago at King Carol's castle in Sinaia in the lower Carpathian Mountains. The King was understood to have brought about the meeting to prove that the continued presence of Mme. Lupescu in Bucharest does not disturb the harmony of the royal family.

Mme. Lupescu presented Michael with a number of birthday gifts, with which the young prince was overjoyed. For more than an hour, he chatted with his father's favorite and companion in exile, and if he thought there was anything strange in the meeting, gave no evidence of it.

An official communique was issued this afternoon outlining the settlement reached by Carol and his divorced wife, Princess Helen. Under terms of the pact, Princess Helen will have the custody of Michael for one month of the year. He will be permitted to visit her in Switzerland or Italy, but not in England. The annual reunion of mother and son will take place during Michael's summer school vacation.

Princess Helen will receive an allowance of $50,000 a year from the civil list.

In addition to the one month abroad, Princess Helen will have partial custody of Prince Michael for three months of every year in Bucharest.

LONG SEARCH FOR VICTIMS AFTER THREE HAD BEEN KILLED BY COLLAPSE OF HOTEL EUREKA, ATTACKED FOR KINDLING WOOD AFTER FIREMEN LEFT

RICH JEWELER'S SLAYING LAID TO BLONDE

Arrest of 3 Clears Mystery Killing In Speakeasy

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—A night life mystery—the puzzling death of a rich jeweler from Paris—was declared solved today with the arrest for homicide of a blonde woman and two male associates in what police called a "hit-and-run" speakeasy venture.

Achille Mirner, vivacious Frenchman, here on a business trip, wondered what Broadway after midnight was like. Last Saturday, with about $1,800 wadded in his pocket, he went forth to find out. A few hours later he staggered back to his hotel, moaning and bearing evidence of a beating. Monday he died of his injuries.

'HIT-RUN SPEAKIE'

Detectives, linking the beating with the apparent loss of his $1,800, learned he had been drinking in a "hit and run speakeasy"—the sort of resort that fleeces all customers, then moves to a new location a jump ahead of the police.

Last night an attractive 22-year-old blonde, who said she was Mrs. Eleanor Thompson and an entertainer, was arrested. With her were taken Lawrence (Salty) Ganz and Herman Newbury.

ATTACK ADMITTED

After hours of questioning, the detectives said they learned that Mirner and a friend, Jerome Bernheim, diamond dealer, arrived early Sunday at the speakeasy. The two customers stayed two hours, drinking whisky, then were presented a bill for $157.

Mirner paid. As he and his companion started out, Mrs. Thompson invited Bernheim to her apartment, but left him at its door.

Mrs. Thompson returned to the speakeasy, she said, to find the jeweler on the floor bleeding. She did not know how he was injured, she insisted. Her male companions also protested innocence, but all three were booked for homicide.

JOBLESS ARMY IN LONDON DISBANDING

Rioters Thwarted by Police in New Outbreak

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Balked last night in their third attempt to enforce their demands by violence, the unemployed "hunger marchers" who straggled into London last week turned homeward today.

W. A. L. Hannington, the Communist agent who organized the march of the idle from Scotland, Wales and the industrial centers of England, was in jail. His associates, who precipitated a riot in Parliament Square last night, also were in the hands of the police.

Twenty-seven men were arraigned this morning. Two were sentenced to six months at hard labor, several were fined small amounts, and other cases were held over for a week.

MASS ATTACK

Meantime, the historic precincts of Parliament Square were in the hands of police after a mass attack by thousands of jobless had precipitated the bloodiest of four recent riots.

The disorders began at dusk in the heart of the capital and quiet was not completely restored until nearly midnight. Scores suffered minor injuries.

Thus was brought to a climax a series of disturbances that began, as last night, in a march on Parliament to protest against the government's application of the dole system.

All told the seriously injured in these four outbursts have numbered more than 100, including 15 taken to hospitals last night and released after treatment.

Despite the arrest yesterday of Hannington, who was to have led a deputation toward Parliament, the jobless marshaled their strength last night as they had threatened.

SERIES OF BATTLES

And, likewise, the police responded with strong-arm methods. The police won in a series of battles that raged along Victoria embankment, Pall Mall, the Strand, Trafalgar Square and Whitehall.

The police got the jump on the demonstrators when the jobless drifted toward Parliament Square in small groups from many directions just after dark. Their thousands were augmented by thrill-seeking spectators.

There were boos and catcalls as the bobbies on foot pushed back the throngs into Whitehall toward Trafalgar Square and away from the House of Commons. One charge was made at the Cenotaph, Britain's most sacred monument, when the crowd attempted to grab up wreaths.

LAWYER SHUNS $9,000 ESTATE

Attorney George P. Kountz was revealed as having refused to be named beneficiary of half the $18,000 estate of his friend, Philip Anthes, former druggist, of 400 South Craig street, by the latter's will filed for probate today.

Mr. Kountz

Anthes, a widower, bequeathed his estate to his sister, Elizabeth Anthes, and named her executor. The will sets forth:

"Whereas, I am indebted to George P. Kountz, my attorney and friend, for all that I have in the way of estate and further by services rendered, it was my desire to give him one-half of my estate, but on his request I have not done so, having full confidence in my sister, Elizabeth, to see that he is properly compensated."

Kountz declined to discuss the will.

Clark Sentenced To Pay Suit Costs

Having withdrawn his motion for a new trial in his conviction on three charges of assault and battery resulting from a Fourth of July squabble, L. C. Clark, Mt. Lebanon Township commissioner, was under sentence today to pay the costs, totaling about $500.

Costs of Earl Gangewere's case against Clark charging driving while intoxicated were divided between prosecutor and defendant when the sentences were imposed yesterday. Clark was acquitted on the latter charge.

Body of Rich Man Found in Trough

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—A medical examiner's report was awaited today on the death of John Drier, 58, wealthy horticulturist, who was found submerged in shallow water in a trough on his estate in Queens last night.

Police said it was possible he had a heart attack while standing by the trough and fell into it. There was a deep gash on his forehead.

4 HUNTERS DIE, SCORE WOUNDED

While casualties in hunting accidents throughout Pennsylvania were reported to be steadily increasing today, only one hunter from Allegheny County suffered injury, according to a check of hospitals in the Pittsburgh area early today.

Elsewhere in the state four persons were reported dead and more than a score injured.

JOHN GETSY, 16

Master John, 118 West Third avenue, Homestead, buried to his chest in the collapse. Firemen rescued him. Three, including father and son, died. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

POLITE BANDIT ROBS GAS MAN

A gentleman robber who chatted gaily with William Martin, 23, of 539 Greenfield avenue, attendant at the Sun Oil Company gasoline service station at 1513 West Carson street, while he looted the cash register of $18, was being sought today.

Martin told police the robber, who was unmasked, entered the station gun in hand and smiling, said:

"Just remain where you are; I'm not going to hurt you."

Finding the cash register locked the robber with a chuckle said:

"I guess you will have to open this thing."

Martin complied, he told police. He added:

"And as he left he said, 'Thank you.'"

It was Martin's third experience with bandits this year.

Fred Armbruster, of the Dithridge apartments, reported to Oakland police that his apartment had been entered by thieves and a suit of clothes and topcoat valued at $50 had been stolen.

Yale Bans Students Who Earn Own Way

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Temporarily, at least, the day of the penniless student who earns his way through college is past, in the opinion of James Rowland Angell, president of Yale University.

Addressing the Yale Club, of Chicago, he said there was no place at Yale now for freshmen without adequate funds for living expenses.

Castle Shannon Man Cut by Razor Dies

Robert Juskewich, 39, a miner, died today in St. Joseph Hospital from a wound inflicted Sunday morning with a razor, according to a coroner's report. Juskewich was found by his son in their home at No. 3 Mine, Castle Shannon.

Burnstine Leads Sims In Bridge Cup Finals

Psychic Bids Bring Team From Behind In Startling Play

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(Universal).—The contract bridge team headed by David Burnstein lead the group captained by P. Hal Sims by the narrow margin of 225 points when the first half of the finals for the Vanderbilt cup ended last night at the Ritz Carlton.

Thirty boards were played in the session and the remaining 30 of the 60 scheduled will take place tonight.

To gain their lead the quartet, which includes Burnstine, Howard Schencken, Richard Frey and Charles Lochridge, staged a startling reversal in the last 15 boards of the night's play.

When the first 15 were over the Sims aggregation, whose other members are Willard Karn, Harold Vanderbilt and Waldemar von Zedtwitz, lead by 1,535 points.

At this point, however, the tide turned and fortune ran the Burnstine way, enabling his side to register a gain of 1,760 points on the second group of hands. Psychic bids played a large part in the Burnstine gain.

One of last night's interesting hands which enabled Von Zedtwitz and Vanderbilt to pile up an early lead for the Sims team follows:

Burnstine
North
S—6, 5, 4, 3, 2
H—9, 6, 5
D—Q
C—Q, 9, 4, 3

Von Zedtwitz
West
S—Q
H—Q, J, 10
D—A, K, J, 8, 4, 2
C—K, J, 6

Vanderbilt
East
S—A, K, 10, 9, 8
H—A, K, 2
D—9, 6
C—8, 7, 2

Schenken
South
S—J, 7
H—8, 7, 4, 3
D—10, 7, 5, 3
C—A, 10, 5

Von Zedtwitz arrived at a contract of six diamonds. When North led a heart, which West won with the queen, it looked like an easy contract to make, but when North failed to follow to the second round of diamonds it looked as if Von Zedtwitz must lose a diamond and a club.

He avoided losing one of these tricks, however, by leading the spade queen and then a heart, winning with dummy's king. The ace of spades was played from dummy, South following and West discarding a club. Then the spade 10 was played and South was in a hopeless position—if he ruffed, West would over-ruff, take out South's last trump and return a heart to dummy's good spades; if he did not ruff West would discard all his clubs and lose only a diamond. Since the diamond play was a sure loser, South chose to discard, West threw off his clubs and then lost the diamond trick.

12 Shot in Clash Of Reds and Nazis

HAMBURG, Germany, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Twelve persons were shot, several of them seriously wounded, in a street clash between Nazis and Communists here today.

CLARION POWER HIT BY RULING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—The Clarion River Power Company and the Pennsylvania Electric Company were today directed by the Federal Power Commission to revest in the former concern all of its property and rights as of a date prior to a so-called "foreclosure sale" of the Clarion River Power Company to the Pennsylvania Electric Company last March.

The order was based on the decision of the commission that when, as in the case of both the Clarion and Pennsylvania concerns, the two were subsidiaries of one parent company, the Associated Gas and Electric Company, sales of one company to another could not be termed "involuntary."

The order set a precedent described as "far reaching" by commission officials. It was designed to protect investors in the securities of the concern "involuntarily" turned over to another. In such cases, the commission held in effect, the security holders should not be made to suffer from the transaction.

Fire Razes Dwelling In North Versailles

A vacant six-room house in North Versailles avenue, North Versailles Township, was destroyed by fire early today. Firemen of Oak Hill, Dixon avenue and West Wilmerding fought the flames.

The house, a two-story frame structure, had been unoccupied for two weeks. Constable William Brady, of North Versailles Township, estimated the loss at $4,000.

DEPUTY KILLED IN BANDIT HUNT

LAPEER, Mich., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—A deputy was shot and killed, a bandit suspect wounded fatally and another officer wounded seriously shortly after noon today in a gun fight which ensued when the officials went to a farmhouse north of here to question the occupants about a bank robbery last July. Three persons were arrested.

Deputy Sheriff Harvey Tedder, the father of 10 children, was slain as he walked to the door of the farmhouse to question the occupants. Benjamin Dillon, 20, was shot in the head when the officers returned the fire. He died at the Lapeer Hospital. Undersheriff Frank Greenan was shot in the arm and side.

Scott Dillon, 26, a brother of the slain man, was arrested, as were the mother, Mrs. Claudia Dillon, 52, and Miss Marian Halliday, 17, who had been living at the farm home.

Family Asks Police Hunt Missing Man

Eugene Heinen, 55, machinist, of 1314 Howard street, who started out last night to collect a bill for repairing an automobile failed to return home and relatives have asked the Missing Persons Bureau to search for him.

SWAN DESERTS PARK FOR RIVER

"Dial Telephone" has flown the coop.

And "Willie the Weeper" is weeping.

Dial Telephone is a swan. And today she was sailing serenely down the Monongahela, having deserted her mate, Willie the Weeper.

Dial Telephone lived in the Kennywood Park pool. She escaped yesterday and was seen taking to the Monongahela.

Brady McSwigan, amusement park executive, today offered six rides on the roller coaster as a reward for the return of the swan. When he was asked why he had given the birds such unusual names, McSwigan retorted:

"We had to name them something, didn't we?"

'BIG BUSINESS' GOAL OF GANG

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—How the buccaneers of the underworld have spurned the vice, liquor and gambling rackets in an effort to dominate certain fields of legitimate business came to light today following raids which trapped 19 notorious gangsters.

Huge profits are no longer to be made in the criminal lines of activity, authorities claim, so big business has now become the objective of Al Capone's old mob.

From other sources came reports that the "underworld directors" were also interested in other lines of business and that they had already made a big start toward conquering their newly-chosen field.

Frenzied efforts were made today to get the "big shots" out of jail.

Prisoners arrested in raids were, as is customary, close-lipped in their cells today. However, some of them talked about "bum raps" and asserted the police had nothing on them. That they are backed by immense resources was evidenced by the efforts made to obtain their release.

Huntington Heiress Sued For $150,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—(Universal.)—A $150,000 breach of promise suit was brought against Clara Huntington, sculptress and daughter of the pioneer Henry E. Huntington, in Superior Court here today by Harry Wilson Kerr.

Acting as his own attorney in the suit, Kerr alleges that April 15 last Clara Huntington, at her Palo Alto home, promised to marry him as soon as the probate of part of an estate in which she was interested had been completed.

Few Party Shifts In British Election

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Total party representation for municipal offices of 300 boroughs throughout England and Wales will remain materially unchanged, it was revealed today in returns from yesterday's elections.

Laborites scored a net gain of 15 seats at the expense of both Conservatives and Liberals. This was only a moderate advance.

Stencils Solve Hospital Mixup of Babies

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Sun-tan stenciling of infants recently adopted at General Hospital here to prevent baby mix-ups, has solved its first problem.

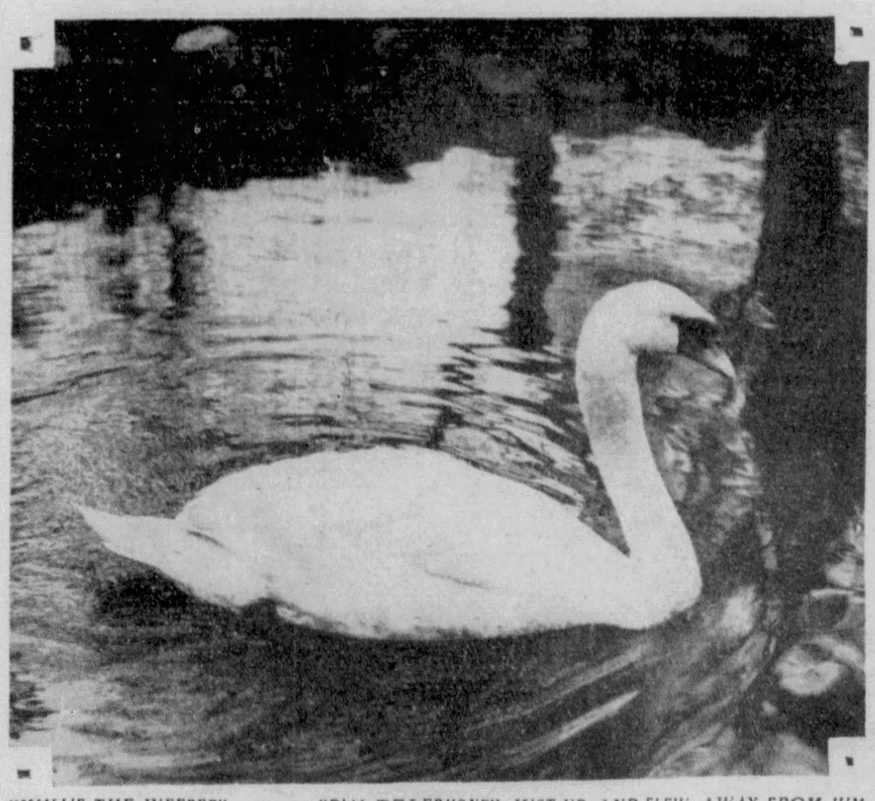
Mrs. Pauline Zatin, mother of a child born October 24, had left the hospital today, carefully guarding a sleeping baby.

During the night, a nurse picked up a baby she supposed belonged to Mrs. Lydia Negri and found, with consternation, that the number painlessly tanned on its arm immediately after birth was not the Negri number. Records disclosed she held the Zatin baby.

An ambulance was called hurriedly and the baby taken to the Zatin home and exchanged for the child which proved to have the Negri number.

The two mothers were blissfully ignorant of the exchange until it had been righted, thanks to the stenciling. Otherwise, there would have been trouble brewing today. The Zatin child was a boy, the Negri child a girl.

WILLIE PINING FOR HIS LOST MATE



"WILLIE THE WEEPER" . . . . . "DIAL TELEPHONE" JUST UP AND FLEW AWAY FROM HIM

Willie, the only swan left in Kennywood Park today—simply because his mate has flown the coop and was last seen sailing serenely down the Monongahela River towards the sea. Ominous: Today is the second day of the hunting season. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

RALLIES SLATED TONIGHT BY DEMOCRATS

State Senator Nathan Straus, of New York, will head a battery of Democratic speakers in a series of meetings tonight in the Pittsburgh district. Senator Straus is scheduled to speak at Taylor Allderdice High School. Chairman of the meeting will be James L. O'Toole, Jr., and Henry Ellenbogen, candidate for Congress in the Thirty-third District, also will speak.

An open air meeting is scheduled for Butler street and Penn avenue. In addition to advocating the election of Gov. Roosevelt, there will be speeches on behalf of Mrs. Anne E. Felix, Democratic congressional candidate in the Thirty-second District. Other meetings:

Homewood Carnegie Library—Ellenbogen, B. B. McGinniss and Prof. Fitzhugh Lee, of Duquesne University.

Hillsdale School, Dormont—Dr. George B. Hatfield, of the University of Pittsburgh, and John Murphy.

Walman's Hall, 1568 Electric avenue, East Pittsburgh—Peter J. Demuth.

Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence announced Adjt. John B. McClannahan, of Overbrook Post, 1620, Veterans of Foreign Wars, had notified him the veterans' organization had adopted a resolution supporting Roosevelt and Garner, "believing that only in their election will the American people of all classes be benefited."

Prisoner Gives Perfect Reason For Flight

CLEVELAND, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—No trifling whim was the motive when Michael McLaughlin, who is 52 and deaf, ran away from the Warrensville workhouse. Michael's motive was deep and fundamental.

Municipal Judge Frank S. Day, when McLaughlin was haled into court, demanded:

"Why did you run away?"

As the deaf prisoner failed to hear, Prosecutor Dennis J. Lyons shouted directly into McLaughlin's ear:

"Why did you run away?"

Michael's answer was a retort perfect:

"I didn't like the place."

DOCK OFFICIAL POSTS BOND

S. A. Michalski, city dockmaster, has posted a $5,000 bond with the Controller's office to insure faithful performance of duties. Under an old ordinance he collects tolls on the municipal dock at Eighth street and turns in 25 per cent to the City Treasurer.

Two city auditors have been assigned to check the books of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, which handles coal over the dock.

It is the dockmaster's duty to collect on coal at the rate of 16 cents for 100 bushels, the city getting one-fourth.

SUCCOP BOND ACTION WAITS FULL STUDY

Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner today said thorough study of court records, texts and briefs relating to the trial of former City Supplies Director Bertram Succop will be made before steps are taken to collect a part or all of the bonds amounting to $60,000, posted by Succop when he assumed his directorship.

An apparent loss of more than $69,000 was hinted a year ago when Succop's records were audited by a citizens' committee. Benner said he would have to study the records to determine whether the testimony covers such losses and to learn whether they are recoverable.

Benner said he would be unable to start suit until the criminal action against Succop has been disposed of finally. His conviction of malfeasance in office has been appealed to Superior Court.

Benner said that even if Succop's conviction is upheld it may not be sufficient to collect on the bonds, as the surety company is likely to maintain there is no evidence Succop derived personal gain from the alleged losses.

Benner was expected today to give Council a report on the status of Succop's bonds, requested by the members after they received a letter from John D. Houston, wholesale grocer, charging collection by the city for any losses.

Six-Day-Old Baby Weighs 1 Pound, Six Ounces

CLEVELAND, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—A new claim to the championship of featherweight babies was discovered here.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Senz, of Brecksville and, at six days of age, tips the scales at exactly one pound six ounces.

She'll have to stay in an incubator for a while, but hospital attendants said she is normal, healthy and has every chance of outgrowing her title.

INDEPENDENTS LIST MEETINGS

The Independent Voters' League of the Eleventh Legislative District lists meeting each night for the remainder of the week on behalf of Matthew A. Dunn for Congress in the Thirty-fourth District, and George L. Ewing and Dr. Herbert T. Johnson, legislative candidates. Father James R. Cox, who retired as presidential candidate of the Jobless party and asked his followers to vote for the Democratic candidate, Franklin D. Roosevelt, will speak at many of the meetings.

The schedule follows:

Duquesne at 4 this afternoon and West Elizabeth at 5:30, with Father Cox speaking at both meetings.

Tonight Dunn will speak at Duquesne, and another night meeting will be held at Coal Valley.

Thursday, parade and rally at Clairton High School; Friday, West Run School and Homestead Park Municipal Building, both meetings at 8 p. m.; Saturday, 117 Grant street, Duquesne, 8 p. m.; Sunday, West Homestead Rumanian Hall, 2 p. m.

Cross-Blending

WHAT IS IT . . and how does it improve cigarette taste?

YOU'VE heard how fruit of one variety has been crossed with fruit of another to produce a new and more pleasing flavor. The loganberry, for example, is a cross between the raspberry and the blackberry.

Chesterfield's Cross-Blend gets the same result—better taste—by a different method.

It welds together the different kinds of several varieties of tobacco. Many types of Bright tobacco, a great many types of Burley tobacco, and numerous grades of Turkish tobacco are all merged into one—Chesterfield tobacco.

This welding or Cross-Blending goes beyond ordinary blending or mixing tobaccos together. It actually makes every kind of tobacco in Chesterfield partake of the qualities of every other type.

It's the Cross-Blending of fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos that gives Chesterfields a distinctive, better taste.

They are milder. They have a flavor and aroma which, we believe, you will like.

POLITICS TOPIC FOR DEBATE

Issues and views of the Republican, Democratic and Socialist parties will be debated by students of the University of Pittsburgh, Princeton and the University of Virginia in an intercollegiate political symposium under the auspices of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters in Schenley High School auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Friday night. The symposium was arranged by the University of Pittsburgh Debating Association and will be the first time Pitt ever has had relations, either scholastic or athletic, with either Virginia or Princeton.

Members of parties not represented by the debaters will be permitted to outline their policies from the floor. Genevieve M. Blatt and John P. Bracken, Jr., will represent Pitt. Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the County League of Women Voters, will serve as chairman.

38 RAIL VETS RETIRE

Dean of Group Quits As Engineer After 51 Years' Service

Hiram B. Rambo, 70, headed the roll today of 38 veteran employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad who retired from active duty. He has been in the service of the railroad 51 years.

In his home at 583 Celeron street, the veteran engineer commented on the mechanical improvements that have been made since he took his first railroad job in 1881. Rambo said:

"Train wrecks are almost a thing of the past with the equipment they have today."

John C. Burgess of Homestead Park, is a close second to Ramo with 49 years' work to his credit and is followed by Alexander Thompson, of 3401 Ridgway street, retiring after 48 years in the railroad's service.

HOOVER LAUDED IN SPEECH BY FIRESTONE

AKRON, O., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Asserting "President Hoover has met and overcome conditions more serious than any President since Abraham Lincoln," Harvey S. Firestone, chairman of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, urged his re-election last night in an address delivered over an NBC-WEAF radio network. He said:

"A change in administration always creates uncertainty and delay. President Hoover is entitled to our confidence and support to carry out his plans for relief and recovery.

"We do not need a change in administration. We need a change in attitude. In place of despair, we need courage. In place of fear, we need confidence."

Speaking first from the "viewpoint of the farmer," and then "as a manufacturer and businessman," Firestone said:

"I cannot urge you too strongly to study the character and look into the background and accomplishments of the man whom you choose to head this great enterprise (the government of the United States)."

HOOVER BROKE FAITH-NORRIS

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, in another campaign speech in support of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, last night charged President Hoover with violating his promise to the American farmer to give him prosperity and place him on an equal basis with the manufacturer.

Bitterly denouncing the President, Norris declared that in the last campaign President Hoover received millions of votes because he had expressly promised that if he were elected he would propose a measure which would bring about farm relief. Norris said:

"President Hoover promised prosperity to the farmer. The answer is the lowest prices the farmer has ever received."

Mr. Hoover, Man Without a Country, Meet Abraham Lincoln, American

great leaders of the Republican party nor in the ideals or utterances of the great leaders of the Democratic party will Herbert Hoover find any conception of government which corresponds to his ideal of government by and for the favored few, nor any expression of sentiment which approaches his complete contempt for the intelligence of the American people, whom he cynically calls "the crowd."

PERHAPS MR. HOOVER may find his ideal of an aristocratic government in some of those European nations where he spent so many years of his life; but even the European nations, since Mr. Hoover spent his life abroad, have materially changed their ideas of a government by royalty and aristocracy, with the divine right to rule.

Truly the preservation of the American form of government is at stake and the best way for the voters to preserve the American government as the founders created it is to reject the class government idea of Herbert Hoover and adhere to the patriotic principles and policies of Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Hoover and his friends—Mr. Morgan and Mr. Insull of the power trust, Mr. Grundy of the depression tariff, Mr. Dawes, special and peculiar beneficiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Mr. Montagu Norman, alias Skinner, governor of the Bank of England—may mean well, but they seem to have no understanding of the fundamental principles of American free government.

Franklin D. Roosevelt and his friends will have a better understanding of American principles and of the rights and needs of the American people.

Long Views Upheld By Hoover, He Wires

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Senator Huey P. Long (Dem.), of Louisiana, one of several Roosevelt supporters whose "political philosophy" was criticized by President Hoover in his New York speech, today telegraphed the President that a portion of the executive's speech indorsed "everything for which I stood in the fights I made in the last Congress."

Hoover's 'Audacity' Scored by Morrison

ALLIANCE, O., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—United States Senator Cameron Morrison, of North Carolina, in a political address last night, termed "unbridled audacity" President Hoover's recommendation of his reconstruction program to the United States. He declared the President had "utterly refused to initiate or attempt to lead Congress in doing anything to relieve widespread suffering."

BAKER ASSAILS G. O. P. TARIFF AS PERIL

Universal service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The greatest danger facing the United States today is President Hoover's "sudden and violent conversion to the Hawley-Smoot tariff," declares Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Wilson cabinet.

Addressing a crowd of 5,000 in Brooklyn last night, Baker asserted that in the present tariff the Republicans have "declared war against the rest of mankind." He continued:

"I do not believe it is possible for Mr. Hoover and his associates, having proclaimed their idolatry of high tariff, to face a world which is in the process of liquidation and reorganization with any hopefulness of their ultimate achievement."

He described the Republican tariff as "born in iniquity and conceived in sin." The consequence, he asserted, has been to make this country one of the two most isolated nations in the world—the other being Russia.

ALICE SPEAKS FOR HOOVER

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth broke her life-long rule and made a political speech at a rally of Republican women here yesterday.

The daughter of the late President Theodore Roosevelt and widow of Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House, in the 31 words that comprised her speech, asserted:

"The Democrats can't get away with blaming the depression on President Hoover. Because the people are realizing this and waking up to that fact, President Hoover will be re-elected November 8."

Democrats to March In Dormont Tonight

Dormont's first Democratic parade and mass meeting will be held tonight under auspices of the Dormont Roosevelt-Garner campaign committee. The parade will start at 7 p. m., from the Democratic headquarters, Tennessee and West Liberty avenues, march to the Mt. Lebanon line and return to the Hillsdale School for the mass meeting.

FOES OF BONUS PAYMENT POLL CANDIDATES

United States senatorial candidates from Pennsylvania and congressional candidates in the Pittsburgh district have been sent a questionnaire by the executive committee of the Veterans' Equity League composed of veterans, asking their attitude toward immediate payment of the cash bonus payment to veterans.

Specified answers are requested, and the committee, of which Attorney William R. Scott is chairman, plans a mass meeting of the league prior to election, at which the replies will be read. There are about 400 members in this district, affiliated with similar organizations in other cities.

The questions:

Will you, if elected, consistently oppose and vote against any legislation providing for the payment of the outstanding bonus or adjusted compensation certificates prior to the date when they are due, according to their terms?

Will you, if elected, consistently vote against and oppose any legislation which will further increase disability allowances or compensation which is not strictly service-connected, and all overhead payments or expenditures by the government in connection therewith?

Will you, if elected, consistently vote for and support all legislation providing for the repeal and elimination from the statute books of all laws previously enacted which authorize or permit payments of any non-service-connected disability allowance or compensation, and all overhead payments or expenditures by the government in connection therewith?

The Equity League is opposed to immediate payment of the bonus.

North Side Youth Missing, Mother Ill

Disappearance of Paul J. Hopper, 20, of 80 Luella street, North Side, from his home a week ago Monday, was reported today. Relatives said his mother is ill as a result of his absence. He left home Monday morning for work but a brother saw him later in the day at a theater.

WOMAN INJURED BY AUTO DIES

Mrs. Kate Boyle, 78, of 6624 Frankstown avenue, died last night in Pittsburgh Hospital from a fractured skull suffered Saturday when she was struck by an automobile at Frankstown avenue and LaSchall street, according to a Coroner's report.

Vincent Liebdgott, of 7223 Race street, driver, was ordered to post bond for an inquest.

John Veltri, 17, of 906 Sterrett street, was in Pittsburgh Hospital today with a probable skull fracture suffered when he was struck by an automobile at Frankstown avenue and Julius street late yesterday. M. R. Semmer, of 281 Dixon avenue, the driver, was not arrested.

Geography Students To Be Club Guests

Students and instructors of geography and educators of the district will be guests of the Geography Club of Western Pennsylvania Saturday at a meeting in the auditorium of Henry Clay Frick Training School and a luncheon at Webster Hall.

Speakers will include Henry Leighton, head of the University of Pittsburgh geology department; L. C. Davis, of the geography department of Indiana State Teachers College; Miss Jean Steele and Halden Dunbar, Slippery Rock State Teachers College students; Miss Virginia Schauer, student of Osborne School, Glen Osborne; Dr. J. Freeman Guy, associate superintendent of Pittsburgh schools, and Miss A. Louise Aldinger, assistant principal of Manchester School, Pittsburgh.

"—my skin became clear...

—and you don't know what a happy day that was in my life." Then why not pause a moment and reason in a common-sense way the cause of many skin troubles. Such common ailments often result because of a lowered resistance below the skin surface—frequently due to lowered blood vitality.

Increase the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content and more of the life giving oxygen is carried to every part of the body—even to the skin. "Step up" the ability of the resisting cells to devour infectious pimple germs. Then you will have laid the foundation for a sounder physical condition.

S.S.S., in addition to being a valuable general tonic, has the special property of increasing the red-cells and restoring the hemoglobin content of the blood, when deficient. It is time-tested... tens of thousands of unsolicited letters of gratitude over several generations evidence its merit. Don't let anyone "switch" you in your determination to restore your red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content. VETS TO HELP ROOSEVELT

Two members of the Bonus Expeditionary Forces rank and file moved into Pittsburgh today to carry on their personal fight for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's presidential candidacy and to halt a whispering campaign which they allege is being conducted by certain Republicans in an effort to antagonize the Negro vote.

Adjt. Jack Witt and Commander D. E. Nelson, of St. Louis, arrived in their "sign board" coupe.

Adjt. Witt declared:

"I am here to counteract the whispering campaign of the Republicans to prejudice the Negro vote against Roosevelt and their charge that John Garner is unfriendly to the Negro."

Leaf Burners Must Let Firemen Know

ATLANTA, Nov. 2.—If the householders here want to get their leaves raked by promising the children a big bonfire they'll have to make a state occasion of it. Police have ordered that firmen and policemen must be notified five days in advance of any leaf-burnings. A $200 fine and 30-day jail sentence may be invoked against violators.

Tennessee Woman Wins Congress Seat

PULASKI, Tenn. Nov. 2.—When Congress reconvenes, Tennessee will be represented by a woman for the first time. Mrs. E. E. Eslick was chosen over three men at a special election to serve out the term of her late husband. She is not a candidate for the new term.

Kohler Factories Add Working Day

KOHLER, Wis., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Working schedules of all employes in the factory of the Kohler Company today were increased one day a week, Herbert V. Kohler, executive vice president, said.

The increased schedule will prevail through the winter and is in accordance with a suggestion at an industrial rehabilitation conference at Milwaukee recently that industries give more work during winter months.

Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Here is a quick and easy way to take off a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—with never a hungry moment. A way any doctor will tell you is safe and sure.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in a glass of water half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses your system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute. Cut down on butter, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. *The diet takes off fat with food that turns to energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

Don't Miss It Thursday!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Great Progress Made by Science in Curing Anthrax

In 1881 Louis Pasteur, that great French scientist, first discovered a way of combatting a disease known as "anthrax." Even if that were his only achievement, mankind would owe him a great debt for that alone.

Anthrax, also known as "woolsorters' disease" or "malignant "pustule" is an acute infectious disease. It is caused by a germ called "bacillus anthracis."

This germ is found in diseased cattle, sheep, goats and pigs, and is transmitted to human beings who take care of these animals. Farmers, butchers, cattlemen, sheepmen, tanners, woolworkers and others whose work demands contact with diseased animals, are liable to this infection, and occasionally it comes from contact with an infected shaving brush.

The germ may enter through the skin, the lungs or the digestive tract, but the most common form is the skin type, where the infection is easily seen. It consists of a small, reddened and angry-looking sore.

Excision of the infected area must be done as soon as possible, to prevent spread of the disease and the possibility of more serious complications.

When the lungs or digestive tract are involved, the symptoms are not typical. In such cases it may be very difficult to make a diagnosis.

Boiling water will destroy most germs or bacteria. For example, to sterilize an instrument it is only necessary to place it in boiling water for 15 minutes. But if anthrax germs are present, boiling must be continued for at least two hours before the germs and spores are killed. The anthrax germ differs from other germs, in having a covering around it which makes it far more difficult to destroy.

Different methods of sterilization have been advised for materials that harbor the anthrax germ. The law demands that fur, leather, hair, wool and bristles be carefully and thoroughly sterilized. In addition, the workers who handle the raw materials are protected from infection by wearing rubber gloves and aprons. Livestock are periodically examined for the infection, and where necessary a preventive serum is given.

At one time anthrax was a serious industrial disease in certain occupations liable to the infection. There was always a menace of the health of the worker and of the public. Great progress has been made, however, in the cure and prevention of this formerly dreaded disease.

In the City of New York only two cases of anthrax were reported last year. The New York Department of Health rigidly inspects all factories where hides, hair, wool and bristles are used in manufacturing. It is hoped that eventually the disease will be completely eradicated.

Let that COLD Play Only a One-Night Stand!

Drive a Cold Out of the System Overnight by Quick and Proper Treatment

Don't temporize with a cold. A cold—or grippe—can quickly turn into something else. Be quick—be zealous—in your treatment of a cold. A cold can be expelled overnight if you act promptly enough and use the right thing.

First, take a COLD remedy for a cold. A cold is a specific condition calling for a specific treatment. A cure-all is not a dependable remedy. A preparation that is good for a dozen ills and ailments can't be equally effective for a cold. Many popular remedies make the relief of a cold more difficult because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

Second, take a cold remedy administered internally. A cold is an internal infection and, as such, calls for internal treatment. Local, or outside applications, afford only temporary relief and do not reach the real seat of the trouble and do not prevent the infection from spreading within the system.

As Your Doctor Will Tell You—

Correct treatment for a cold is supplied in Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. As your doctor will tell you, no better prescription for a cold could be written. First of all, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine opens the bowels, the first requisite in the treatment of a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Safe for Young and Old

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is safe for young and old to take. It contains no narcotics and does not produce any bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate or make the head ring or swim. In dainty tablet form, it is convenient and pleasant to take, as well as effective. All over the world Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is regarded as the standard cold remedy. These famous tablets come in handy, pocket size boxes and are sold by every drug store in America.

Overnight!

Get a box of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine today and at the first sign of a cold, when the sneezing or headache begins, take a few of the tablets immediately. This is enough usually to stop the cold. Say "NO" to any dealer who tries to sell you a substitute.

Not for days and days have I had such an exciting wedding to talk about as I have today. The fact that the wedding is taking place way out in the west doesn't kill the interest of Pittsburgh's smart set in the wedding at all. For one of its most popular young bachelors will be the bridegroom, and the bride visited here a few weeks ago. And the bridal party sounds like a page from the Pittsburgh social register.

Everyone is pleased with the marriage and the mother of the bride, Mrs. Henry Curtis Selden, of Minneapolis, Minn., and the mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. James Verner Scaife, of Pittsburgh, in particular, for they were close friends back in their finishing school days.

Mary Ellen Selden will become the bride of handsome James Verner Scaife, Jr., this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, in Belford, the country home of the James Ford Bells, at Ferndale, Lake Minnetoka, near Minneapolis. The bride is a niece of the Bells.

Autumn Flowers

The ceremony will take place in the main living room of the home, to be decorated with chrysanthemums in rich autumn colorings. Officiating will be the Rev. Dr. John E. Bushnell, of Minneapolis.

Mr. Scaife's bride is the sixth bride in her family to wear the veil of rose point and tulle she'll have this afternoon. Her gown of ivory satin was worn by her sister, Mrs. John G. Williams, of St. Paul, in June. It has a V-shaped neckline, long fitted sleeves, and floor length flared skirt, extending into a long train in back. Her flowers are calla lilies.

The gowns of the bride's attendants are of lustrous dragon rough, ivory satin having front cowl neckline drapery and cut low in the back and finished with a bowknit. Braided silk thread girdles with rhinestone buckles encircle the fitted waistlines.

Brief fitted jackets of the same material have large collars cut high in front, reaching almost to the waistline in back, and covering the top of the shoulder.

To Carry Roses

With these costumes the attendants will wear bronze velvet turbans, trimmed with bronze velvet flowers, and will carry talisman roses, tied with gold ribbons.

The matrons of honor will be Mrs. John G. Williams, the bride's sister, and Mrs. Sherman Ewing, of Pleasantville, N. Y., a cousin. The bridesmaids include Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife, daughter of the Richard Beatty Mellons; Mrs. Charles Heffelfinger Bell, Miss Sally Louise Bell and Jane Heffelfinger, all of Minneapolis.

Alan Magee Scaife will be his brother's best man, and the ushers will be John G. Williams, of St. Paul; John H. Ricketson III, Alexander Laughlin Robinson, William Christopher Robinson, Jr., Walton Scully, John S. Laughlin, Graham McCargo, Richard King Mellon and Wallace Hurtte Rowe, all Pittsburgh sons, and Howard Paulsen, of Spokane, Wash.

To Visit Europe

For their wedding trip Mr. Scaife and his attractive bride will go abroad, sailing from New York Saturday. In London they will be feted by Pittsburgh's Andrew W. Mellon, American ambassador to the Court of St. James.

They'll return to the States in mid-January, and will live in Pittsburgh.

In addition to the Pittsburghers in the bridal party, folks out West for the wedding include Mrs. James Verner Scaife, mother of the bridegroom; the James Magees, the Rev. Hugh Clarke and Miss Mae Edwards.

New Castle Girl, Franklin Man Married

At a party given Monday evening in the home of Miss Elizabeth Ward, of South Graham street, by Miss Ward, Miss Esther Franklin and Miss Esther Klee, announcement was made of the marriage of Miss Klee's cousin, Miss Irene Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harper Montgomery, of New Castle, Pa., to Dr. D. W. Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Morgan, of Franklin, which was solemnized on July 24, 1931. There were about 30 guests at the party.

Dr. and Mrs. Morgan will be at home soon in Ivy street, East End.

Dr. Alley to Address Peace League Meetings

Dr. Alden Alley, professor of history at Dana College, student of international affairs and field secretary for the League of Nations Association, will come to Pittsburgh November 15, 16 and 17 under auspices of the local branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Dr. Benjamin H. Williams addressed yesterday morning's meeting of the League in Central Branch Y. W. C. A., discussing the machinery of the League of Nations. Dr. Williams said he believes Japan will ultimately accept the Lytton report.

Advertising Experts To Address 'Y.W.' Club

"Behind the Scenes in Retail Advertising" will be presented at Central Branch Y. W. C. A. tomorrow evening in the second lecture on advertising which is being sponsored by the Women's Advertising Club of Pittsburgh. Miss Martina Gilchrist, fashion director for Kaufmann's; Miss Betty Bell, fashion writer at Horne's and Miss Antoinette Bittner, of the advertising department, Frank & Seder's, will be on the program.

Scholarship Association Meets Tomorrow Morning

A meeting of the Allegheny County Scholarship Association will be held tomorrow morning in the Board of Education Building. Members of the association have been invited to attend a tea in the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Friday afternoon, December 16, when several persons will tell of the benefits derived from the association.

First Drama Institute Success With 200 At Sessions

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

If judged by nothing but the attendance and interest displayed, the first drama institute held yesterday at the Hotel Schenley by the Pittsburgh Drama League was a distinct success. More than 200 were present at the dinner last night and only slightly fewer at the afternoon session.

This began with four talks, each having its special appeal. Dr. Carl Cass, of the University of Pittsburgh, demonstrated "The Art of Make-up On the Stage;" Dr. Clinton E. Lloyd, using one of his own plays, showed how to overcome "The Obstacles in a One-Act Play;" George Kimberly, of Carnegie Tech, gave a fascinating demonstration of the wizardry of lighting, and Miss Elizabeth Schrader discussed "Clothes for the Stage," using students as models. The history of costuming is just a question of bulging in different places, she said.

Each round table conference (these were held simultaneously just prior to dinner) had its group of eager listeners. The Rev. E. Lawrence O'Connell talked on the relation between the "Drama and the Church;" Miss Vanda E. Kerst's group discussed "Choosing the Amateur Play;" Ray E. Hurd led the conversation on "Casting and Coaching the Pre-College Play;" Mrs. Albert E. Pettit, "Play Writing." Under the leadership of Mrs. H. Allen Machesney another circle considered "Staging and Lighting the Play," while George Seibel told a sixth group how to obtain "Publicity for the Non-Professional Play."

Chester B. Story, a former president, presided both afternoon and evening, there was a word of greeting from the president, James W. Macfarlane, and music by Miss Marguerite Lang, accompanied by Mrs. Gladys Schade Klaber.

Speaking honors in the evening were divided between Miss Winifred Ward, director of the Children's Theater, Evanston, and Clayton Hamilton, who is heralding Walter Hampden in "Cyrano de Bergerac" and who gave a scholarly address on "Edmond Rostand and the Modern French Drama." Miss Ward's subject, "Creative Dramatics," she described as "the non-exhibitional, informal dramatic activities with which children develop their plays." She told how creative dramatics develop voice and diction and a discriminating taste in literature.

Knoxville Library Club To Hear George Seibel

George Seibel, dramatic and literary critic of the Sun-Telegraph, will address the president's day meeting of the Knoxville Women's Literary Club on Saturday in Mrs. W. D. Heesom's home, Alice street.

Mrs. L. Arnold Watt, the president, will share honors with the past presidents.

A musical program will be presented by Esther Edmundson Mohr, soprano; Miss Stella Phillips, accompanist, and a trio including Miss Margaret Probst, 'cello; Willam Stone, violin, and Earl Wild, piano.

Triangle Club Members To Give Christmas Toys

Each member will bring a ball of carpet rags for the blind and a Christmas toy when the Triangle Club has its meeting tomorrow in Mrs. Frank Evans' home, Franklin avenue. The program includes a paper on Pennsylvania's natural resources, by Mrs. Fred W. Pennington, and a description of a day with the blind, by Mrs. George Humbert.

Superintendent Gives Party at St. Regis

Mrs. Dora E. Roush entertained at a Halloween party in the St. Regis residence for business women, Congress street, of which she is the new superintendent. A buffet luncheon was served.

Juniors Entertain State Heads in Bridgeville

The Bridgeville Juniors' meeting last night was in the form of a covered dish supper and as special guests there were Mrs. Joseph M. Stein, state chairman of juniors, and Mrs. C. C. Taylor, state chairman of work for the blind. Music was furnished by the club's double quartet; "Famous Chefs" was the subject of a paper by Miss Margaret Vance and Miss Mary McClay reported the State Federation convention.

Members of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, University of Pittsburgh, who will motor to Penn State Friday for a week-end house party, are Miss Jane Walton, Miss Elanor Smith, Miss Mary Dyke, Miss Maxine Christenson, Miss Bernice Cassidy and Miss Dent Strock.

* * *

Dr. Samuel P. Franklin will address the Aspinwall Parent-Teacher Association at its meeting this evening. His subject is "Character Education." Miss Anne Duncan's pupils, who won the P. T. A. banner for highest parent attendance, will entertain.

* * *

Miss Rose Caplan is chairman for the harvest moon dance to be given this evening by Beaver Valley Council of Jewish Juniors in the Brodhead Hotel, Beaver Falls.

A. O. H. Auxiliary Giving Card Party Tomorrow

B'Nai B'Rith Auxiliary Holding Card Party

Mrs. J. Prise is general chairman for the annual card party of the B'Nai B'rith Ladies' Auxiliary being held in Kaufmann's this afternoon.

Mrs. A. Cass Sunstein is chairman of patronesses for the benefit theater party which the southwestern district Jewish religious schools will have at the Pitt on Monday. Mrs. Simon Trumpeter is treasurer for the benefit; Mrs. Carl M. Bachrach and Mrs. Julian Kimmelstein are secretaries; Mrs. Louis R. Jacobs, publicity chairman, and Mrs. Jay Feldtsen, chairman of the candy committee.

Dietetic Association To Hear Health Talk

In his talk before the Western Pennsylvania Dietetic Association in the Congress of Clubs tonight, W. D. Culveyhouse, of the Food Chemistry Corporation, will show how deficient alkalinity makes the body a breeding place for disease. His topic, which he will illustrate with a film, is "Food and Its Relation to Health."

Bane P. T. A. Will See Health Play Tomorrow

A child health play will be presented by the Pitsburgh District Dairy Council at tomorrow's meeting of the Bane Parent-Teacher Association. Mrs. Paul Raynor and Mrs. Harry Lewis supervise community sewing for the needy each Tuesday afternoon at the school.

Sewing Campaign Launched to Aid Needy

A special committee, appointed by Mrs. James H. Reed, President of the Woman's Auxiliary Board, Improvement of the Poor, met yesterday and launched a drive to make thousands of articles of wearing apparel for needy women and children. Organizations wishing to participate in the work are asked to send representatives to a second meeting which will be held Tuesday morning.

Mrs. William N. Robinson is chairman of the new committee, other members of which are Mrs. James P. Cassidy, Mrs. Hugh Thomson Kerr, Mrs. William A. Seifert and Miss Velma D. Wilson. The garments are made from government-contributed materials.

* * *

Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, will be guest speaker during the State Federation's radio hour tomorrow at 3:45 o'clock.

Miss Florence Walter Married to R. W. Tate

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Florence Walter, daughter of Frank Washington Walter, of Philadelphia, to Richard Willis Tate, of Pittsburgh and Ventnor City, which was solemnized in Kernstown, Va., on October 1.

COMBINATION COAT AND DRESS FORMS NEW TAILORED SUIT

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 2.—Fully one-third of the costumes paraded in current Paris fashion shows are listed as suits. And suits they are—though not the suits of the type we have been familiar with for years. They may be jacket, skirt and blouse combinations, but many of them are made in such new arrangements that in any other season they would be listed as dresses, or as coats with matching dresses.

* * *

IN TODAY'S sketch is an interesting example of what has happened, in one direction, to the tailored suit. Here it is shown as a costume which can appear on the street as a suit, in the house as a woolen dress, or as a two-piece costume of skirt and blouse. It is so planned that each part depends on the other for certain of its lines, so that by changing the blouse the entire appearance of the costume is altered.

* * *

NOTE, FOR example, the neckline of the jacket. Instead of the familiar collar and rever, the neckline is cut collarless; its opening is wide and deep—sufficiently large to display the plastron of the blouse beneath. The width and depth of the opening extends around to the back, where the plastron of the blouse turns into a scarf collar, overlapping itself at the center-back.

* * *

LIKE MANY of the other new Jane Regny suits, this model is done in diagonal homespun, with alternating stripes of red and black; the blouse, of crepe de chine, is in pale gray-blue.

Dorothy Blaxter First Fall Bud to Make Bow

This afternoon the fall debutante season will open when Dorothy Blaxter, blonde daughter of the Henry Vaughan Blaxters, will make her debut, the first lass to be presented to society this autumn.

Her parents will present her at a tea this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. The entertainment will be more simple than similar fetes were several years ago.

The debutante will be aided by the debutantes who are now in town. Many of the brief list of 15 are at school, and will confine their debutante life to the holidays.

Assisting Mrs. Blaxter will be Mrs. Oliver S. Atterholt, Mr. Blaxter's sister; Mrs. Dudley S. Liggett, Mrs. Charles L. Jones, Mrs. R. Maurice Kennedy, Mrs. J. Hanson Rose, Mrs. J. Farley Walton, Mrs. J. Merrill Wright, Mrs. W. Eugene Gary and Mrs. Allen Kerr.

'Broken Heart' Sometimes Merely Hurt Egotism

Is it a crime not to love?

Should a lad be shot at sunrise because he doesn't return a lady's flaming devotion?

Do you agree with her?

Would you rub a gent out if he refused your come-hither proposals? And if you would, do you think it's love that makes you that way?

"Dear Sally:

"Will you please give me some help? My heart is just broken and I need your sympathy. I am writing this, too, so that a certain person can see what I think of him, and just how cruelly he has treated me. I know he will recognize my story. Here it is:

"A year ago I met him. His name is Jack, and he is just my ideal of what a fellow should be. That being so, I fell deeply in love with him, and I thought he would love me, too, as I longed for him to do.

He used to take me out a lot, and once or twice he said that he loved me. I thought he meant it, but I guess I was just another one of life's fools; for when I showed him how much I cared, he said I was 'getting too serious' and that, because he didn't want to hurt me, he thought we had better quit seeing each other so often. He said I had better go out with others, and maybe find someone who was serious like myself. He said he liked me, but he didn't want to get married for a long time yet.

DISREGARDS HER

"Go out with others? I tried it, but I just couldn't learn to care for anyone but him. I think about him all the time, and about how shabbily he treated me. I look at him, going around, being respected, winning friends who think he is just wonderful—even as I did—and it just burns me up. I long for him, but when I see him with another girl I am simply beside myself.

"Oh, why—why—doesn't he love me, when I love him so? I have tried calling him up to tell how unfairly he is treating me, but nothing seems to do any good. He just won't look at me.

"Oh, I love him so! I love him so! I just can't live without him. I know that I will kill him, or myself some day if he doesn't realize how much he means to me and change toward me. I can't stand it. I am only 20, and he has ruined my very life.

"Please help me. What shall I do?"

"LILA."

EGOTISM HURT

What'll you do?

Give yourself a long, mean look, and then try to act your age.

So you call this love? Don't fool yourself. This daze of yours isn't within a million miles of love. It's just a tantrum because you can't get something that you want.

You're a 3-year-old, yelling for the moon, and chewing your baby buggy because you can't have it.

Your heart isn't broken, but your conceit is all in a rash. Your egotism has been hurt, and you want to punish the one who hurt it. And you call that romance!

If you really loved this man, you might be sad because he did not return that affection, but you'd never be angry with him. You'd respect his courage and his honesty and his fairness in telling you honestly and frankly that he wasn't serious. You'd let him go his own way, and would hope for his happiness.

That's real love. Yours is only squawling selfishness and conceit. And unless you snap out of it, real love will never come your way. Nor would you be fit for it if it did.

Sincerity Thrives Best in Simplicity, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

It is not in the "bright spots" but in the byways of the great city that one sees the best of life.

In the brilliant places so much is pretense and pose. To see and be seen. Nearly everything is just a gesture of the moment to make an important impression.

The man who gives orchids and ermines here may not mean as much really as the young man who takes his sweetheart to a small restaurant for a simple Sunday dinner.

Countless married couples are happy in a love and loyalty that will last a lifetime.

But you won't meet them in the false glamor and gaiety of the "bright spots." They are in the quiet, contented byways.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

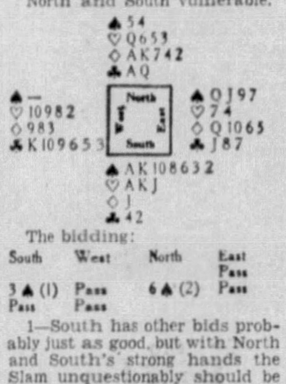
A Grand Coup and an Under-Trump

Bridge players who have had the opportunity to make Grand Coups have experienced an unusual thrill, as the type of hand which permits of trumping high cards in one hand in order to capture otherwise uncapturable trumps is not often dealt at the Bridge table.

However, Mr. Albert Ainslee of Louisville, Ky., not only had the opportunity to make a Grand Coup, after he had failed to make a safety play to insure the making of his Slam contract, but the making of the Grand Coup was accompanied with the additional pyrotechnic of an under-ruff of a trick trumped by an adversary.

East—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
			Pass
3♠ (1)	Pass	6♠ (2)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—South has other bids probably just as good, but with North and South's strong hands the Slam unquestionably should be bid.

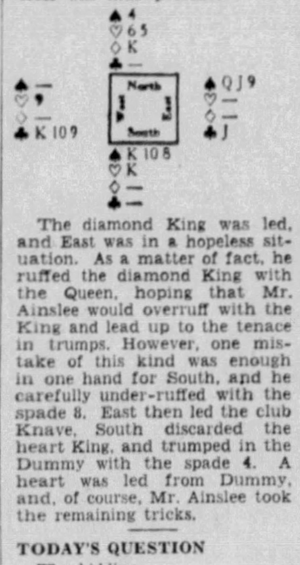
2—Inasmuch as South has guaranteed a trump suit with not more than one loser and 1½ honor-tricks outside, North's Slam bid is entirely justified.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

West opened the heart 10, and when the Dummy was spread on the table, Mr. Ainslee thought that he had not bid enough. If the spades held by the opponents were evenly divided, then seven were assured. Inasmuch, however, as he had not bid the Grand Slam, he should have made a play to absolutely make the Small Slam against any holding, except four trumps, in the West hand, but, becoming a little careless after winning the first trick in his own hand, he laid down the spade Ace, and the situation, which a moment before had appeared to be perfectly satisfactory, became tragic.

However, he set about to repair the damage. He led the diamond, winning it in the Dummy with the Ace, and then returned to his own hand by ruffing a small diamond. He next led the heart Knave, overtaking with the Queen in Dummy in order to ruff a second diamond. His early error came to plague him at this point, and he was forced to take the "unnecessary finesse" in clubs. This winning, he led another diamond from the Dummy and trumped it. Having shortened his own trump holding to the same number as held by East, he now led his last club, winning with the Ace in Dummy. The following situation was thus presented:



The diamond King was led, and East was in a hopeless situation. As a matter of fact, he ruffed the diamond King with the Queen, hoping that Mr. Ainslee would overruff with the King and lead up to the tenace in trumps. However, one mistake of this kind was enough in one hand for South, and he carefully under-ruffed with the spade 8. East then led the club Knave, South discarded the heart King, and trumped in the Dummy with the spade 4. A heart was led from Dummy, and, of course, Mr. Ainslee took the remaining tricks.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♣	Double	1 NT.	?

What should East bid, holding:

♠ K87 ♡ 96 ◇ 64 ♣ K10854

Answer: Pass. East is no longer required to bid after the one notrump bid by North.

Household Hints

Green vegetables will keep fresh if sprinkled with water and rolled up in paper.

When the seats of cane chairs sag they can be stiffened by soaking with hot water and drying in the open air.

The decorated coat hanger is nice to keep handy when expecting a guest. It will keep the guest's wrap in so much better condition than when thrown on the bed. The person with fur on her coat will be doubly grateful for this courtesy, as the nap will have a chance to dry if it happens to be wet.

Informal Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—How does one announce an engagement?

2—How does one invite guests to an informal engagement party? M. M.

1—All that is really necessary to announce an engagement is for the couple to tell their relatives and friends that they are engaged. Seems simple, doesn't it? And it is. Naturally the close relatives are told at once after the decision has been made to make the news of the engagement public. Then the girl and the young man each writes notes telling relatives who live at a distance, and friends who live at a distance. Friends who live near are told either by word of mouth, or by notes. In this way everyone closely concerned with the news has been told. If he wishes to widen the group, the parents of the bride-to-be make announcement of the news in the newspapers.

Engagement-announcement parties aren't necessary, but, of course they are always a delightful occasion. They may be any type of party . . . luncheon, tea, reception, dinner, supper, bridge party, dance.

2—If the news is to be a surprise (and usually this is the case), the invitation is sent like any other invitation for a similar event. Probably the party will be on informal lines, and a note, for this, is always appropriate:

(Written by the mother of the bride-to-be.)

Dear Mary:

We are inviting a few of Jane's friends in to tea on Tuesday, the first of December, and it would make us very happy if you will come. Will you? At any time between four and seven. We'll be expecting you!

Cordially,
Martha Wells Graham.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Superfluous hair can be bleached by applications of peroxide of hydrogen. To one tablespoonful add three drops of household ammonia, no more. The purpose of the ammonia is to hasten the process of blanching. This treatment does not destroy the growth, just makes it less noticeable.

Falling off the diet wagon is about the best thing the fat gals do. They slim down, take off tonnage, give the weighing machine a loud laugh, then slip back into the old enjoyment of good groceries. That's a sad story, heard every day. Trimming down the silhouette requires courage, persistence and a strong will, and the same qualities of character are necessary for the preservation of the svelte shape after it has been acquired. If there is present a tendency to build adipose tissue, the appetite must be trained to be satisfied with foods that do not contain fats, starches or sweets. In course of time the digestive outfit won't be looking for forbidden viands.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

A dash of mustard with black is a grand color scheme. With a suit of black crepon, one woman wears gloves of plain mustard colored antelope without any trimming or stitching. Her bag is of the same antelope and her stockings are also of this tone.

Nothing like leather for trimming, says one couturier. And so he startled Paris with an evening frock having a skirt of black crepe and a bodice of white kid cut in open squares over pale flesh ninon . . . There is a self belt fastening at back with a huge rhinestone clip.

Very two faced are some of the new frocks. For instance, there is an evening dress, a long-sleeved affair, with a very deep back decolletage, while in front the neckline is very, very high. It has a skirt of rough black crepe while the bodice is in the same material in lipstick red.

HOOVER'S B.E.F. CHARGE DENIED BY GLASSFORD

By BRIG. GEN. PELHAM D. GLASSFORD

Former Chief of Police of the District of Columbia.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Washington Herald and Universal Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—It is absolutely untrue, as President Hoover stated on September 10 in his letter publishing the Attorney General's attack on the Bonus Expeditionary Force, that it contained an "extraordinary proportion of criminal, Communist and non-veteran elements."

In making this statement President Hoover exposed himself to the charge that he sought to deceive the people as to his motive in ordering the eviction of the veterans by the United States Army.

Had President Hoover deigned to make himself familiar with the veterans in Washington he would have discovered for himself they were made up overwhelmingly of patriotic, law-abiding American citizens. He would have been utterly unable to publish the libel.

Crime Decrease

Crime in the District of Columbia had decreased during the bonus invasion; there were exceedingly few who were not proved to be bona fide veterans; and at no time were there more than a couple of hundred bonus marchers among the veterans in Washington affiliated with the Communist element.

The general policy of the Communist party is that of pacific non-resistance. On their own behalf they recognize the futility of force as a means of gaining their end. They agitate, picket, hold meetings, make fiery speeches. Their purpose is to provoke the authorities into using force, to make martyrs of them. In this instance the highest authority played beautifully into their hands.

From the outset of the movement the police had the Communists under the closest scrutiny; and never for a moment were they out of control during the period when I remained free to carry out my policy of toleration and constitutional rights. They had their day only when these policies were reversed by the administration.

Red Hopes Realized

The purpose of the Communist element was to create social disorder. Leaders of the Communist party seized upon the veterans' movement as an opportunity to promote discontent. They sought to get control and leadership of the veterans, operating through the Workers' Ex-Servicemen's League. They never had a chance to succeed until the interference of the administration opened the gates to them.

The only reason the Communists have been able to make any capital out of the B. E. F. is because President Hoover reversed the policies I had pursued and, by an unnecessary use of the Army, played into the hands of this element. He thought to make a dramatic appeal for political support to the conservative element in the country. He succeeded chiefly in giving destructive ammunition to the revolutionary elements.

Coincident with the arrival of the first group of veterans in Washington a group of nine men from New York organized themselves as the "Joint Committee of the Ex-Servicemen's League and Provisional Bonus March Committee." They had an office at 905 I street, N. W., Washington, and a directing office at 1 Union square, New York City.

Chairman of the Washington joint committee was Emanuel Levin, a man of intelligence and education and one of the editors of the Daily Worker, organ of the Communist Party of America.

Vets Aid Watch

From the day the Communists opened their offices in Washington they were under close surveillance. Control over them was complete and that control was reinforced by the military police organization of the main B. E. F. camps. The B. E. F. military police worked intimately with the Metropolitan police under my command.

Waters, commander of the B. E. F., was bitterly hostile to the Communists. He disagreed with them in theory and practice. He realized, also, that they sought to overthrow his leadership.

From the point of view of the police, the Communists presented a specific problem. The Communist party is not outlawed. It is running candidates for President and Vice President and for other offices. It appears in the ballots under the emblem of the arm and sickle. It has constitutional rights that must be respected until those rights are withdrawn by due process of law. It is a curious thing that while the avowed purpose of the Communist party is the overthrow of our present social structure, the law confers upon it the protection of the Constitution it seeks to destroy and guarantees it the fundamental rights of free speech, free press and free assembly.

Propaganda Blocked

The Communists sought to carry their propaganda into the camps of the regular B. E. F. The police discouraged this as much as possible. Where the metropolitan police under my command had to stop, as a matter of law, the B. E. F. military police carried on.

The B. E. F. military police was created by the veterans to maintain law and order in the camps and billets; it assisted in directing traffic; and maintained an embargo against the introduction into the camps of liquor and firearms. One of its chief activities was preventing the spread of Communist and radical propaganda.

Of necessity, the metropolitan police adopted the inflexible policy of treating all veterans alike, irrespective of race, religious or political affiliation. One of the first difficulties arose when Waters refused to give rations to the Communist group among the veterans. Since the feeding of the men had fallen upon my shoulders, I insisted that the Communists be fed as were the other veterans. Waters reluctantly yielded in this. Later, when he incorporated the movement as the "Bonus Expeditionary Force Rank and File of America, Inc.," he succeeded in cutting off food supplies from the Communists, when the food had been specifically consigned to his organization. He was within his legal rights in doing this. Thereafter the Communists were fed from supplies directed to me, or to the veterans at large.

Radicals Beaten Up

George Stembler, a rough and uncouth man, and John T. Pace, of Detroit, were the active field agents of the Communists in Washington. Stembler was frequently present at police headquarters to protest against the tactics of the B. E. F. military police in preventing distribution of his party's literature in the camps. Frequently, when his agents invaded the camps, they were seized by the military police and beaten up.

The Communist program called for a mass demonstration on June 8 which was to end with the presentation to Congress of a set of demands made in the name of all World War veterans. To avoid any pretext for trouble I granted a permit for the parade and then set about blocking any chance for its success. Vice President Curtis, however, would not give them a permit to parade in the Capitol grounds, a policy that might have provoked trouble.

Arrangements were made with the loyal veterans in town to hold a parade on the afternoon of June 7. They turned out a most impressive host of men whose condition of obvious need, combined with a courageous bearing and loyal sentiments made a strong appeal to the thousands of spectators. This demonstration so overshadowed anything the Communists could do that they called off entirely the demonstration they had planned for the following day.

Afraid to Parade

A few days later, when a Communist veterans' parade was planned to take place over the same route, they were able to muster not more than 160 men. This poor showing, combined with a report that they might be stoned by veterans as they passed Camp Glassford on the way to the Capitol, resulted in the parade being abandoned before it had commenced.

They were granted permits for meetings any time they applied for them. Words never yet broke bones and speech is a safety valve. My subordinates did not agree and it was often difficult to see that this policy prevailed. As it was, the meetings were never molested by the police, they were attended by not more than 50 bona fide veterans and a maximum of 200 curious onlookers. Such meetings lasted for hours as speaker after speaker repeated in substance what the previous speaker had said. Though they villified in their speeches everything the American flag represents, the flag was always in the center of their meetings.

Every effort of the Communists to infect the veterans with their ideas failed. Their plans, never of a menacing nature, were known beforehand and frustrated by the regular police, aided constantly by the B. E. F. military police.

Publicity Gained

Much publicity was given the several attempts of the Communists to picket the White House. The first took place on July 16. It was a small affair, as usual, and easily handled by a detachment of police officers. The Communists offered no organized resistance and had no intention of resorting to violence. They wanted publicity and got lots of it.

How completely the policies I adopted toward them succeeded was illustrated by an angry statement published in the newspapers as part of a speech made by Emanuel Levin, who blamed me for the collapse of his party's plans. On August 1 Levine said:

"His (Glassford's) method of handling the Bonus Army was the best display of skill I have ever seen. He lulled Waters and his forces to sleep with ease. He used the B. E. F. military police to combat us. He gave them full authority to club us and by this method he kept us segregated."

Hoover's Blunder

It is probable, as police reports indicate, that the rioting on July 28 was precipitated by the Communist element which seized upon the opportunity to capitalize President Hoover's disastrous blunder. The administration's policy was full of danger, not from the Communists' actions, but from the natural reaction of the masses of the veterans, who felt they were being unjustly treated by the government which 15 years before they had taken up arms to defend. As it happened, this real danger did not materialize, in spite of the President's provocation.

As to the rioting, when it did occur, it was completely suppressed within a few minutes. It would never have taken place but for the blundering eviction orders, and but for those orders the B. E. F. movement would have been without the slightest value to the Communist or other subversive movement.

This is the fourth of a series of articles by Gen. Glassford. The fifth will appear tomorrow, Thursday.

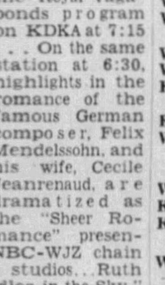
ROOSEVELT Secretary Stimson, James M. Cox BROADCASTS

Presidential Candidate On WCAE

The first of three addresses by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt scheduled to be heard over NBC networks this week in furtherance of the Democratic candidate's campaign for the presidency is broadcast over an extensive hook-up, with WCAE as the Pittsburgh outlet, tonight at 10 o'clock. The broadcast originates in the executive mansion at Albany, N. Y. Gov. Roosevelt's subsequent network speeches are listed Friday at 10 over WCAE and Saturday at 9 over WCAE and KDKA.

James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for the presidency in 1920, deliver a political address in support of Gov. Roosevelt over a coast-to-coast NBC network, including WCAE, at 9 o'clock tonight. Cox, former Governor of Ohio as well as Congressman, goes on the air from Cincinnati.



Mr. Cox

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, speaking from Brooklyn, N. Y., is heard in support of President Hoover's campaign for re-election over an extensive NBC chain and WCAE tonight at 8:30. Scheduled for 30 minutes, the broadcast is sponsored by the Republican Radio League.

Newspaper methods in handling the news on election day and night are discussed by Arthur T. Robb, managing editor of Editor and Publisher, the news magazine of the newspaper world, when he appears as guest speaker during Bill Schudt's "Going to Press" program on CBS-WJAS today from 4:45 to 5 p. m.

Program Pointers

The rapid-fire confusion of words that distinguishes the radio comedian, Roy Atwell, is adopted by Ward Wilson, NBC's "ghost announcer," during the Royal Vagabonds program on KDKA at 7:15 . . . On the same station at 6:30, highlights in the romance of the famous German composer, Felix Mendelssohn, and his wife, Cecile Jeanrenaud, are dramatized as the "Sheer Romance" presentation over an NBC-WJZ chain from the pioneer studios. . . Ruth Etting sings "Candles in the Sky," "'Twas Only a Summer Night's Dream" and one of her lyric laments during the musical quarter-hour with Nat Shilkret's orchestra on WJAS at 10 tonight.

Mr. Wilson

With the presentation of "The Missing Link," a short story from "Sing Sing Nights," the Crime Club inaugurates a new weekly schedule on WJAS at 9:30 tonight. A complete mystery story will be offered during each of the subsequent broadcasts.

Another lot of old-time favorites and recent tunes, including "Hop Light, Ladies" "Carolina Home," "That's Why Darkies Were Born" and "All-American Girl," compose the Corn Cob Pipe Club program on WCAE at 10.

"Myrt and Marge" celebrate their first anniversary on the air with an elaborate program on WJAS at 7 tonight.

Colds can be ABORTED
(with lemon juice)

Don't waste time with cold remedies that only relieve a cold. If you want to end your cold, abort it. The lemon juice treatment will do it. Squeeze two full-size lemons in a large glass of very hot water and drink without sugar. First, take three tablets of Pape's cold compound an hour apart. This clears the head, dries the nasal passages, reduces any fever. The lemon juice then drives all cold symptoms right out of the system. Bedtime is best. This treatment will abort the worst cold, overnight. One cold compound tablet will check a cold at any time, for several hours; then when night comes you can get rid of it by abortion. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound. It's perfectly safe. Try it, and you'll never go back to half-way remedies.

Listening In On Radio Gossip

Audrey Marsh, the pretty blonde soprano who plays the part of Mary Lou in the radio "Show Boat," kicked over one of the stage's most sacred traditions and went whistling and singing on to success. You can't tell Audrey there's anything in superstitions—because it was while that young lady was humming and whistling (certain portent of evil, according to the theatrical folk) in her dressing room that a radio producer overheard her and arranged for an audition . . . and she's been lucky ever since. On the stage Audrey was seen in Christopher Morley's "After Dark" and in "Abie's Irish Rose." She entered the cast of the latter production at the age of 16 . . . No—if you should ask—Audrey is not the Andrea Marsh featured with Ted Weems, although the Weems songster's name used to be Audrey. You see . . . one's a blonde and the other's hair is auburn . . . and one's a soprano and the other's a contralto . . . and so on . . .

Surprising and gratifying is the way soothing, cooling Zemo relieves the torture of itching Rash and Eczema in about five seconds. Used by millions, Zemo is so wonderful because of its rare ingredients not used in cheaper remedies. Apply Zemo to Pimples, Ringworm and Eczema—for quick relief and clear skin. Zemo is worth the price because you get relief. All druggists 25c, 50c, $1. Extra Strength Zemo, double results, $1.25.

Radio Celebrating Twelfth Birthday Today

Radio broadcasting, the international industry which had its infancy in Pittsburgh, celebrates its twelfth birthday today.

Exactly 12 years ago—on November 2, 1920—KDKA, from a studio housed by a crude tent on the roof of the East Pittsburgh K Building of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, put on the air the election returns which swept Warren G. Harding into the presidency.

Originally, the station broadcast with a power of less than ½ kilowatt and used nine tubes, the largest of 50-watt power. The present transmitter has a power of 400 kilowatts—eight times the amount, now used by the station.

KDKA broadcast the first church service January 2, 1921; President Hoover's first speech (for funds for European relief), January 15, 1921; the first radio address of Andrew W. Mellon, James J. Davis and the late John W. Weeks, all members of President Harding's cabinet, March 19, 1921, and the first Trans-Atlantic broadcast (to Manchester, England), New Year's Eve, 1923.

The necessary experiment which led up to the initial broadcast was made by the late Dr. H. P. Davis, vice president of Westinghouse, and Dr. Frank Conrad, assistant chief engineer, also of Westinghouse. Due to this preliminary work, Dr. Davis is known in radio history as the "Father of Radio Broadcasting."

Speaking on the topic "Adolescent Minds," Angelo Patri discusses the quirks in the minds of growing children which generally alarm parents . . . WJAS from 7:45 to 8 p. m.

Jay Dennis and Ted Reese, a new comedy song and patter team make their radio debut over an NBC-WJZ network, of which KDKA is the Pittsburgh outlet, at 8:30 tonight with a quarter-hour novelty program.

Shields Discusses Political Situation on WCAE

Mark Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, discusses prospects, issues and personalities of the coming elections during his weekly political talk from the studios of WCAE tonight at 6 o'clock.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, speaking into twin microphones in the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms, relays the latest news flashes to WCAE and WJAS listeners daily at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

A special program for the children under the direction of Jane A. White, assistant curator of education at Carnegie Museum, is listed on WCAE at 5.

Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, interviews Gib Marsh, Sun-Telegraph outdoors writer on the big game hunting season as a highlight of the Trained Seals broadcast at 7 tonight on WCAE.

PAPER CONCERN HELPS CHARITY ASSOCIATION

Another firm today joined with the Tom Collins Company in donating a percentage of receipts from sales in Allegheny County to the Pittsburgh Association For the Improvement of the Poor with announcement that the Pennsylvania Paper Stock Company will give the association 50 cents per ton on all excess tonnage for three months.

The paper stock company's decision was announced in a letter from Newell J. Lewis, president of the firm, to Harry W. Shepard, general manager of the Improvement of the Poor.

Lewis said:

"We propose taking tonnage received at our plant for the month of October as a basis to turn over to your association 50 cents per ton on all excess tonnage received during November, 1932, to and including March, 1933.

"Further, any business or industrial concerns not at this date accumulating waste paper for commercial use desiring to do so on behalf of your association will have our entire service facilities at their disposal. We will turn over to your association the market value of the material received."

Shepard last Sunday announced a plan of small donations from each sale of products in the Pittsburgh district had been accepted by the Tom Collins, Jr., Company of Cincinnati, beverage manufacturers. The Cincinnati firm is donating ½ cent on each bottle sold in Allegheny County, without increased cost to the consumer.

Shepard today said he was gratified with the paper firm's enrollment and hoped other firms would join the movement.

Michigan Man, 85, Weds Sixth Time

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Nov. 2.—Charles Fresard, at 85, still is a firm believer in the institution of matrimony. He has just taken his sixth bride, Mrs. Marie Sprandburg, 63. It is the second marital venture for the new Mrs. Fresard.

Checker Players Not Immune From Gambling Raids

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Chicago's lonely checker players are faced with the glum prospect of remaining lonely. For playing checkers is gambling and gambling is against the law. When Louis B. Scully requested Corporation Counsel Earle R. Downes' opinion on the legality of establishing a Lonely Checker Players' Club, he was advised not to expect immunity from raids. Being a law-abiding gentleman, Mr. Scully dropped his plan.

N. Y. Candidate Sees Omen in Road Sign

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Mizell Wilson, who wants to go to Albany as a State Senator, says he has an omen of success. Wilson, a Democrat, drove recently to Somers to campaign against Senator Walter W. Westall, Republican. En route he got lost on a dark road.

His wife said:

"Mizell, where are you going?"

WASH OUT YOUR K-I-D-N-E-Y-S— SLEEP FINE

No More Getting Up Nights

So you feel achy all over, miserable and blue? Your head feels "crowded" your nerves quiver, you have pin-and-needle cramps—your appetite has gone and you feel weak as a cat. Don't fill your stomach with tonics or laxatives or rheumatism remedies. How can they help if it is your kidneys.

The job of the kidneys is to strain the uric acid and other poisons out of your blood. They purify your blood, that's it. Now you must not let those acids stay in the kidneys or they'll get back in the blood and poison your whole body. That's why your kidneys must pass 3 pints of "water" a day. Let them fail and you know it. Your appetite goes back on you, so does your pep, your sleep, and your nerves—your back hurts, your ankles and feet may swell up and you feel cranky and sick.

Now see what a wonderful change takes place after you start on Foley Pills. Kidney action increases at once. Out go those acids. Burning stops. Sleep is sounder, and none of this getting-up business. You feel like "somebody."

Your druggist has Foley Pills. Sells a lot of them, because most people know how good they are. Don't cost much either—but they certainly do a grand job. If they don't, your money back any time you want it. ©1932

...and this dentifrice helps combat it!

SCIENTIFIC research has now definitely proved that germ acids cause tooth-decay. It has found that certain germs, lactobacilli, produced by fermenting food-particles in crevices of the teeth, create acids which attack the tooth-structure.

Protect your teeth from decay. See your dentist regularly. And guard your teeth at home by brushing them at least twice every day with Squibb Dental Cream, the 5-way dentifrice.

1 It cleans effectively and safely.

2 It polishes well and safely—with complete freedom from grit.

3 It prevents bleeding of the gums the safe way—by keeping them healthy, and avoids using dangerous astringents. Frequent bleeding of the gums no dentifrice can cure. The dentist should be consulted.

5 It combats the germ acids that cause tooth-decay.

A great manufacturer, speaking to his son, said: "I heartily advise you to look ahead, plan wisely, and save. I have found from my own experience and from personal observation that those who practice thrift are the most successful. Save steadily and you develop confidence, hope, courage—the moral support of money in the Bank."

Here's Cipher No. 3. It's long—but don't be scared. "The longer the message, the easier to decipher" is a saying among experts. And, just as a hint, the cipher letters "JUCB" (end of second line) spell "LAST" in message. "Bogie" 1 hour and 6 minutes.

Ciphers Too Hard? Some Say They're Too Easy; War Message Now

How Pittsburghers do take punishment! Dozens of calls to the Cipher Editor since the first cipher was printed Monday have asked for more and more and more.

Who said these ciphers are too hard? Why, some even claim they're too easy.

But today's will stump a lot of folks. Cipher No. 3 should break over your head and beat around your ears and take plenty of study.

If you study it carefully, however, you'll see it's not so hard as you think. It's a war message with a word of cheer for allies of England.

But there are few clues and no prizes in the Sun-Telegraph cipher series. None of the puzzles is too hard for you and the fun you'll get out of them will more than make up for any prizes you might want. Work them every day and call the Cipher Editor at GRant 6500 if they vex you as they should.

Here's Answer To Cipher No. 2

Cipher No. 2 was easy, but a lot of you folks fell down on it. Many telephoned the Cipher Editor for hints, but he's hard-hearted, even if he is always glad to hear from you. Here's the answer to yesterday's:

Can you decipher this message? If so, you are pretty smart. Watch for a harder one soon.

It was done by taking two alphabets, placing one under the other so that the "a" of the lower one was directly below the "f" of the upper letters. The upper alphabet corresponds to the cipher, the lower alphabet gives the answers.

City Seeks Ruling On Permit Claim

The city law department has been asked to give an opinion on the claim of L. M. and S. Bennett for $2,700 as reimbursement for expense of remodeling and restoring premises at 5432 Center avenue, which they had sought to turn into a dog and cat hospital. A building permit was granted but neighbors protested against such an institution and the permit was revoked.

HECKLE O'TOOLE ON BONUS

Members of the John Baird Atwood Post, V. F. W., yesterday asked James L. O'Toole, chairman of the speakers' committee for the Allegheny County Democratic organization, when the soldiers would get the bonus.

The speaker repeated Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's declaration that the Democratic presidential candidate was opposed to payment of the bonus until the national budget is balanced.

One of his war veteran listeners asked:

"When will that be?"

He replied:

"Much sooner under Roosevelt as President than under Hoover."

Local Democrats Give Rupp Every Aid

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

As the state and national campaign nears its end stories are heard that the Democratic state organization, Joseph F. Guffey, Roosevelt leader in Pennsylvania, and the Pennsylvania and the Allegheny County Democratic organization are paying little heed to the fortunes of their senatorial candidate, Lawrence H. Rupp, but are concentrating only on the presidency. Concrete reasons are advanced for this alleged attitude.

Before outlining the story, and explaining how similar situations exist among Republican organizations in the predominantly Democratic South, let it be clearly said that I have seen no evidence whatever that any of the groups listed, or Mr. Guffey, have let Rupp down. Certainly he has been given every chance in Allegheny County to parade his claims. By Allegheny County Democrats he was furnished a made-to-order and catchy slogan, and any weakness in his campaign is due to Mr. Rupp himself. He has been given all the aid an organization could furnish.

What reason would Democrats have for ignoring their senatorial candidate? What advantage would they gain? The answer to that is simple, and is interpreted plainly in terms of potential patronage.

Suppose Gov. Roosevelt is elected President, but both United States Senators from Pennsylvania, and the majority of Congressmen, through whom patronage flows, remain Republican? These Republican members of Congress will have nothing to do with the awarding of jobs. They will not have any influence in restaffing the Federal Building, or in naming successors in the event of vacancies in any federal judgeships.

* * *

Guffey Would Be One to Be Consulted

Mr. Guffey, the original Roosevelt man of the state, an indefatigable worker for the New Yorker before and since the national convention in other states as well as Pennsylvania, would be the one to be consulted first about appointments. He would occupy the same relationship to the national government that County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern has had with relation to the state government of Mr. Pinchot—but with much less interference, and probably with more success than has attended all of the efforts of McGovern.

The situation would not be the same should Rupp be Senator, unless he and Guffey remained in complete accord. If Rupp desired to be autocratic he might create considerable commotion. There is a principle of "senatorial courtesy" in the Senate, and appointees objectionable to Senators frequently are obstructed, particularly when they are objected to by a Senator of the same political faith as the appointing agency.

It is a well-known fact that in many southern states, where the Republican organization is even less of a real force than the Democratic organization of Pennsylvania, the National Committeemen from those states, or whoever functions as party leader, do not wish senators of their party creed. They would have to divide patronage, something few politicians do willingly. Indeed, the Republican party organizations of the South are kept alive only through this patronage distribution, and for no other purpose.

The reason we do not see the system so actively here at home, is that the Democrats are not in the saddle at Washington so often as are the Republicans, and a Democratic leader here, except for a period such as that of the Wilson administration, lives on expectations rather than actual substances.

Rupp Urged to Make More Fighting Campaign

This recital explains the basis of the imputations of those raising the present story. But again it must be said that the supporting evidence is all to the contrary. It is common knowledge that by some of the accused Democrats Rupp has been urged to make more of a fighting campaign. Few hearing his speeches would realize he is running against Senator James J. Davis.

His whole point of attack is the Hoover administration. He practically ignores Davis. Presumably Mr. Rupp believes there are many reasons why Davis should not be re-elected. But he isn't telling the people about them. What might have turned out as embarrassing circumstances for the sitting Senator have been ignored entirely, except by spokesmen for the state organization and the Allegheny County organization.

At the North Side Carnegie Hall meeting Attorney James L. O'Toole, Jr., coined what might have been a devastating phrase when he said Jim Davis was the only man "who had ever milked the Moose." It was repeated later by County Chairman David L. Lawrence. Only a phrase, perhaps, but in political campaigns phrases often are more effective than profound discourse on high-sounding issues.

At the big meeting at Forbes Field, Rupp spoke, but only about the Hoover administration. It was good material for Roosevelt, but not useful against Davis, who seems set to run ahead of the President, in view of all the circumstances.

Repeating a former observation, if there is a lack of fire in the Rupp campaign it is due to Mr. Rupp himself, an unfortunate circumstance, because he appears to be a man of ability.

KERR'S REPORT AWAITED ON ALDERDICE

Houston to Delay His Appearance In Council

It was Council's move today in the controversy with John D. Houston, wholesale grocer, on whether the office of Budget Controller was unnecessary and a waste of taxpayers' money, as Mr. Houston charged in a letter last week.

Houston temporarily refused to accept invitation of Council to appear at a public hearing to substantiate his charges, declaring he would wait until Controller James P. Kerr reported to Council on whether his office could perform the duties of the budget controller. If Kerr reports that his office is able to do the work which Robert Alderdice performed as budget controller, Houston believes it will be up to Council to eliminate the position.

PROMISES WITNESSES

In a short communication sent to City Clerk Robert Clark yesterday, which was to be read in Council today, Houston said he would wait until some action had been taken on the job of budget controller and then he would be glad to appear at a hearing, bringing with him witnesses who, he says, will tell of other unnecessary positions. These witnesses, Houston says, will help substantiate his charges that "35 per cent of the city payroll is graft."

The reading of Houston's letter in Council Monday brought about a heated argument between President of Council John S. Herron and Councilman Robert Garland. It was decided to hold over the letter and invite Houston to appear today for a hearing.

SUCCOP SUIT ARGUED

Council has ordered Controller Kerr to make his report on whether his office can do the work of Budget Controller and his directed Assistant City Solicitor Robert Benner to report on what steps the city has taken to collect from bondsmen for former Supplies Director Bertram Succop, for losses suffered by the city.

Council also requested the present supplies director, William R. Dunlap, to answer Houston's charge that specifications had been changed after bids had been asked on certain city purchases.

Solicitor Benner said that the Law Department is considering filing suit to collect for any losses, but he first must review the testimony of the Succop trial and the briefs to determine whether any losses are recoverable.

Although Houston has signified intention of remaining away from today's hearing, it is likely Alderdice will be present to make further statements in his own defense against the allegations of Houston.

Sleuths Assert He Was Accused to Balk Testimony

To prevent her father from testifying against her in her forthcoming trial on a charge of arson, Pauline Alfinoff, of Harwick Cross Roads, Harmar Township, conspired to cause his arrest, county detectives declared today.

Named in conspiracy charges by detectives, in addition to the daughter, were Mrs. Helen Broski, wife of Frank Broski, and John Meyers, a friend of the Alfinoll woman. They were lodged in the county jail in default of $2,000 bail for arraignment today before Alderman Thomas M. Geary.

The trio was alleged to have caused Broski's arrest on a surety of the peace warrant. Broski was released by Judge Frank P. Patterson as he was about to enter county jail.

The daughter was indicted with Albert Zaleski and James Swartzoff, following the destruction of a heavily insured house in the Orr plan, Harmar Township, last May.

'Y' GIVES IDLE MEN SCHOOLING

Announcement of a series of special classes for unemployed men was made by officials of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. today. Designed especially for the high school graduate, the opportunity is intended to maintain and improve the morale during the depression.

Members of the faculty, who have volunteered their services, are college graduates. There will be no charge and students will not be required to be members of the association. Classes will be held from 8:30 to 11:25 a. m., Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Afternoon activities will include swimming and other athletics.

DENTAL SOCIETY TO CONVENE

The Odontological Society of Western Pennsylvania will hold its fifty-first annual meeting in the William Penn Hotel November 8 to 10. The society is made up of dentists of eight counties of Western Pennsylvania.

The convention will be made up of commercial exhibits and demonstrations, scientific exhibits, clinics, papers and symposiums.

One of the exhibits will show work accomplished in free clinics for the unemployed in Western Pennsylvania, the largest being the Emergency Dental Clinic in the Jenkins Arcade, which has taken care of more than 3,000 patients. The work was done by 300 volunteer dentists and the supplies bought by the society.

RIIS FIRED BUT HIS IDEA WINS

Although former Director of County Parks Paul B. Riis has been dismissed from the county's service one of his ideas has been approved by the commissioners.

Chief Clerk W. T. Rees explained he had found a letter yesterday from Riis which had slipped into the back of a file. It asked authority to spend $2,300 to grade and widen the entrance to North Park at Babcock boulevard and Pearce Mill road.

Director Alexander Marion concurred in the recommendation, so the commissioners authorized the Highway Department maintenance forces to do the work.

Kiwanians to Hear Canal Route Talk

The Allegheny River Canal route will be discussed before the Kiwanis Club of Pittsburgh tomorrow noon in the Hotel Fort Pitt by Leon Gavin, secretary of the Oil City Chamber of Commerce.

Three nominees in next week's election who have withdrawn from the club's ticket are Ed Jones, Harold B. Smith, William Burress.

Pay Voted for Tools Stolen on City Job

George Russler, a carpenter of 3323 Beechwood boulevard, will be paid for tools, valued at $56.03, stolen last May while he was employed on the Mt. Washington roadway extension. Council, after reading a letter from him, directed payment.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

There should be a moratorium on candidates' speeches. They have both called each other everything in the world they can think of. From now on they are just talking themselves out of votes. The high office of President of the U. S. has degenerated into two, ordinarily fine men, being goaded on by their political leeches into saying things that in their right minds they wouldn't think of saying. Mr. Hoover said: "Any change of policies will bring disaster to every fireside in America." Of all the conceit. This country is a thousand times bigger than any two men in it, or any two parties in it. These big politicians are so serious about themselves and their parties. This country has gotten where it is in spite of politics, not by the aid of it. Yours, WILL.

CHAPTER XVIII.

A friendly argument with a rather well-known zoologist—a man whom I've known and admired for many years—resulted in as unusual an experiment as I've ever conducted in my long career as an animal collector. In one of those far-far-into-the-night debates I kept insisting that the American bison or buffalo could live and thrive in the tropical climate of Southern Asia, while my friend kept telilng me I was all wrong.

Our discussion took place some six or seven years ago. There was no precedent for my contention or my friend's, no American bison having ever been transported to Asia. In other words, we were both theorizing, my friend insisting that the American bison was strictly a temperate-zone animal which could not stand the humid atmosphere of Malaya or India, while I stuck to my belief that the species was a highly adaptable one and would do well, if properly handled, in much hotter climates than its normal one.

There is only one way to settle an argument such as this, and that is to go ahead and conduct an experiment. Which is what I did.

I was due to leave soon for Asia on an extensive collecting trip. If I could secure them I planned to take a pair of American buffalo with me. Golden Gate Park in San Francisco, whence I was sailing, has a fine collection of these historic animals. Through the courtesy of Herbert Fleischhacker, generous patron of the local zoo, and John McLaren, superintendent of parks, I was able to secure two young males. They were sound and healthy examples of their species and ideally suited to my experiment.

SULTAN SURPRISED

My plan was to present one of the animals to my friend, the Sultan of Johore, and to place the second in the Rangoon Zoo.

The Sultan of Johore, possessor of a private menagerie of his own, and a really distinguished authority on Asiatic animals, had always manifested interest in our buffalo which he was in the habit of referring to as "the American sladang." (The sladang is the powerful forest bison of Southern Asia and is one of the few species of hunted animals that have ever been known to turn the tables

Traffic Deaths Top Last October Toll

Traffic fatalities in October exceeded 14 to 11, the corresponding month of last year, according to a report from the Better Traffic Committee. For the first 10 months of this year 104 deaths were reported as compared with the 138 of the corresponding period of 1931, a decrease of 24.6 per cent.

No children were killed, according to the report. Carelessiess of pedestrians was blamed for most of the fatalities.

Park's Seized Rum Cars Must Park Elsewhere

District Attorney Andrew F. Park will not be allowed to make an automobile junkyard out of the new County Building. The Commissioners rejected his request to be allowed to store confiscated cars in the basement of the new building.

The discussion caused Commissioner Charles C. McGovern in characteristic style to remark:

"We don't want this building all littered up. The Courthouse looks enough like a junk yard. It's full of bootleggers' stills. We just got rid of a lot of junk automobiles in the yard. They used to dump the confiscated moonshine in the courtyard sewer while the payrollers sat by the hour and sniffed the fumes. We don't want anything like that in this building."

So Director of Property and Supplies Ray Sprigle was instructed to find space in the county garages for Park's confiscated cars. The District Attorney's office occasionally seizes automobiles and trucks for violations of the Snyder act.

RADIO, FASHION SHOW OPEN AT STORE

A gala twin show, combining the latest in radio receiving sets for 1933 and a fashion revue of fall and winter styles, is being staged this week at Gimbels.

Revolutionary developments in a large group of popular radios, including the Philco, the Crosley, the General Electric, the Zenith, the Majestic, the Fada and the Stewart Warner, and exhibits of instruments in the process of manufacture are features of the radio show, which opened last night and will continue throughout the week daily from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 8 to 10 p. m.

WCAE JOINS SHOW

WCAE, the Sun-Telegraph radio station, has joined in the celebration, scheduling three popular broadcasts a day starring WCAE artists and emanating from Gimbels fifth floor, the scene of the show. Today's program and participating stars are as follows: 12:30 p. m., Helen Ward, ingenue; Ralph Federer, pianist; Pat Haley, the "Happy Vagabond;" the Paramount Trio and Sally Hughes, blues singer; 3 p. m., Paul Gannon, tenor, and the WCAE String Ensemble; 8 p. m., Richard Koch, baritone; Jean Claskey, soprano, and Pat Haley.

The fashion show, originally scheduled for last night and tonight only, has been extended to include tomorrow and Friday afternoons by popular request. Tonight the parade of mannequins begins at 9 o'clock, with the afternoon showings listed for 3 o'clock.

FASHION REVUE

Presented in eight groups, the revue ranges from swagger and chic sports clothes through woolens in the newest versions, town outfits, afternoon fashions, coats featuring lavish furs in the top-heavy silhouette, the latest in furs, hostess gowns and dresses for formal afternoon and informal evening wear to the most formal of evening apparel. The latest colors and color combinations, the up-to-the-minute trends in lines and design and pointers as to the most correct thing in accessories for all kinds of costumes (such as evening shoes tinted to match the dominant color rather than the accentuating color of an evening gown) are features of the revue. The mannequins are Pitt and Tech co-eds.

'JAIL OR MONEY BACK' MOOD GRIPS BOARD

Basis for either criminal or civil prosecution of those responsible for waste of county funds in the purchase of tar used on county roads and in the construction of the airport is being sought by the County Solicitor's office. A report of Main & Co., submitted to the Commissioners at their meeting yesterday, was referred to the solicitor for recommendation as to what legal steps can be taken to either put somebody in jail or get some money back for the county.

OLD BOARD SCORED

The report scores the old board of County Commissioners, saying:

"By the action of the County Commissioners June 30, 1931, in rejecting the bids and subsequent awarding of the contract to the Koppers Products Company, August 11, 1931, the county was required to pay $52,888.04 more for this class of material (tar) than it would have paid if the low bidder, the Neville Company, had been awarded the contract."

Correspondence between former Director of Public Works Norman F. Brown and his assistant, W. H. R. Kreiling, is reproduced in the report. It shows that after the original bids were rejected the specifications were changed.

BRIDGE TESTED

M. C. Conick, chief auditor for Main & Co., is also working on the investigation of the county's asphalt contracts and its dealings with the Barber Asphalt Company, of which Frank J. Chester, present director of highways, bridges and tunnels, was the local representative.

Another phase of the audit got under way yesterday when county maintenance forces began unearthing the concrete piles of the Moss Side Boulevard Bridge at Pitcairn. The commissioners have authorized expenditure of $3,000 to make test borings on this project which Conick's audit has revealed cost the county $27,000 for material which he alleges never was put in the bridge.

DEATH SUSPECT SAVED BY WIFE

RIVERHEAD, N. Y., Nov. 2.—(INS.)—The murder trial of Victor Downs collapsed today, when the indictment against him was dismissed following the dramatic refusal of his pretty wife, Mitzi, to testify against him.

The prosecutor, L. Barron Hill, who had pinned his hopes of convicting Downs for the killing of Frank Tuthill, old "corn doctor," moved to have the indictment dismissed when court opened.

He had been taken off his feet by Mrs. Downs' hysterical accusation that she had been forced to sign a false statement against her husband.

She had been held as a material witness, but no indictment was returned against her, although in one of the statements issued, now declared false by her, she admitted helping her rum-running husband dispose of Tuthill's body.

It is believed new indictments will be sought, with the platinum blonde charged with complicity.

1,000 TO WORK ON YULE MAIL

Temporary employment will be given approximately 1,000 men at the Pittsburgh Postoffice and branches in handling Christmas mail, according to Postmaster James B. Anderson, who said the extra help required will be about the same as last year.

Anderson said he had received 2,000 applications, and no more could be handled at this time.

Postmasters have been directed by Postmaster General Brown to employ to the fullest extent possible unemployed men who have dependents. Postmasters will cooperate with charitable organizations in selecting temporary help.

23 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 4; diphtheria, 1; whooping cough, 3; mumps, 1; chickenpox, 9, and pneumonia, 5.

Wife Screams While Thugs Rob Grocer

Mrs. Mary Camins, 51, ran to the second floor and from an open window shouted for help when two Negroe bandits held up her husband, Harry Camins, in his grocery store at 2701 Webster avenue, last night.

Ignoring their command to stop, Mrs. Camins rushed from the kitchen in the rear of the store to the second floor. The thugs hurriedly rifled the cash till of $7 and escaped.

Man Racing Death By Train and Ship

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 2.—(INS.)—A race with death over land and sea started here today when Eric Carlson, Salvation Army leader, entrained for New York to take a steamer to Oslo, where his aged mother is dying.

ART

Chinese Textiles On Exhibition

By PENELOPE REDD

An exhibition of Chinese textiles together with decorative objects carved from jade and other semi-precious stones is on view at the Wunderly Gallery through November 12. The exhibition, which is in charge of Mrs. Paul Patton Faris, has been sponsored by Mrs. Charles Runk's art committee for this district of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women. The collection is an appropriate choice for a woman's organization to sponsor, since the technic of weaving and the art of embroidery commenced at the hearthside.

Miss Redd

Minute descriptions of the types of fabrics, of the combination of stitches used, and of the symbolism of the designs, are manifestly impractical. Suffice it to say that Mrs. Faris' collection represents comprehensively the types of fabrics associated with the magnificent court life of the Chinese emperor, Ch'ien Lung, contemporary of George Washington. Although the culture of silk and its weaving are incorporated in Chinese legend, few fabrics date earlier than the Seventeenth Century.

The collection at Wunderly's includes examples of the k'o ssu (cut silk), a tapestry weave which is highly prized. Occidentals know this as "mosaic," because of the inset effect simulated by the design.

Satin, a weave similar to our western fabric, is the usual basis for the embroideries. The satin stitch, with other combinations such as couching, is most often chosen to decorate the background. The loop or chain stitch when exquisitely done is often confused with the famed Peking stitch, in reality an exceedingly fine French knot, is now called the "forbidden" stitch. This name followed a governmental edict against the stitch as a result of the discovery that the embroiders were frequently blinded.

The designs embroidered on the textiles are literally encyclopedias of symbolism. The variations on the symbols of ancient Chinese lore, Buddhist and Taoist religious motifs secularized, and the Hundred Antiques, appear on all types of garments.

Coats and skirts are gay with the beasts of good omen, the Eight Precious Things, the peach for immortality, the pomegranate for fertility, and innumerable other rebus-like designs are all painted with the needle in the most glorious colors, the history of textiles has ever experienced.

Orders Distribution Of $456,254 Estate

By a decree of Orphans' Court $456,254 was ordered distributed to heirs of the estate of Robert C. Porter. Laura M. Ramsey, niece; Edward C. Porter, nephew, and Nancy J. Shannon, niece, each receives $70,764. Eva F. McGhee, also a niece, receives $65,764.

After smaller bequests, $148,197 was directed turned over to the executors for a later distribution.

TENSE HUNTER SHOOTS PIG

It was a tense moment.

And there in distant field was an unsuspecting rabbit.

Elation possessed McGarvey. This was the first hunting trip in his 50 years. Victory was sweet; he would have something to tell the boys when he got back from these Chambersburg woods. And hassenpfeffer!

Mr. McGarvey

With steady arm McGarvey drew the bead on the rabbit. With steady finger he squeezed the trigger.

Shot ripped forth, the rabbit looked up, laughed and scampered off. A pig fell dead.

2 Bandits Hold Up Store in Homewood

Two robbers held up Richard Lindsay, store manager, in a P. H. Butler store at Collier and Kelly streets at the points of revolvers, forced him into the cellar of the building and escaped with yesterday's receipts, Lindsay reported to police today.

The bandits, white and unmasked, entered the place shortly before 8 a. m. Lindsay said he did not know the amout of money they took from the cash register.

SCHENLEY FUND DISTRIBUTED

The fiftieth annual distribution of the estate of Mary E. Schenley, donor of Schenley Park, was ordered today by Judge Thomas P. Trimble, in Orphans' Court.

The distribution, representing income from mortgages and rentals of property in Allegheny County, totals $320,399. Of this sum $267,225 goes to English heirs. There are no heirs residing in America, it is said. There remains to the credit of the estate for income $1,407,345, according to the account filed.

Taxes amounting to $135,820 were paid by the estate to the City of Pittsburgh and $20,309 to the county in the past year, the accounting disclosed.

Hymie Martin Free Of Holdup Charge

MARION, Ind., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Charges of robbery filed against Hyman (Pittsburgh Hymie) Martin in Grand Circuit Court early in 1931 in connection with the holdup of the Gas City State Bank in 1929 were dismissed yesterday because of the failure of J. W. Ball, cashier of the bank, to identify the suspect.

Pittsburgher Heir To Sister's Estate

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Harry Diamond, of 5440 Bartlett street, Pittsburgh, receives the residuary estate of his sister, Nannie Jacksan, under terms of her will filed yesterday for probate. The estate was valued at less than $5,000.

TRAFFIC PERIL SEEN IN NEW BUS LINE

Four lines of traffic at the foot of Castle Shannon Incline endanger persons seeking to make trolley connections for the downtown district, a witness testified today at the continued hearing on an independent bus line application.

W. H. May, of Kambach street, testified before Public Service Commissioner S. Ray Shelby that the incline is inadequate and does not operate between 12:20 a. m. and 5 a. m.

May disclosed the incline service had been reduced in August but restored, without public notice, when May obtained 950 names on a petition to the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

August Villani, who with Adelmo Rossi, is seeking a permit for the Liberty Bus Line, testified he intended to operate two buses between Grandview avenue and the Pennsylvania Station at a 15-cent fare or 10 tickets for $1.25.

BUS WAR GROUP CARDS ISSUED

Stipulating social, economic and educational advantages, application cards today were being issued for membership in the Community Service Association of Wilkinsburg, first group of the Association of Communities organized as a citizens' co-operative move to fight existing 25-cent bus fares.

Temporary headquarters have been opened in Room 211, Penn-Lincoln Hotel, by Executive Director C. V. Shoup. Although membership applications will be received daily, the first concerted drive is planned to open with a mass meeting in Wilkinsburg. It is tentatively set for November 17.

Applications are being asked to mark definite activities desired within the association. Initiation fee of $1 has been set. Activities suggested are: Social — theater parties and entertainment; economic—transportation and insurance; education — lectures and music. Bus transportation will be provided members at the additional fee of $1.55 weekly.

CLARION JUDGE FALLS DEAD

Judge Harvey, elected judge in 1924, formerly was a member of the State Forestry Commission, and for 30 years was known for his work in the interest of development of the Allegheny River. He was a trustee of the Clarion State Normal School for more than 20 years.

Harvey was born in Murrysville, Westmoreland County. In 1901 he was admitted to the bar of Clarion County. Before being commissioned to the judgeship, he was active in business, his interests including oil, gas, coal and water works.

Ship Captains Widow Suicide, Paris Reports

PARIS, Nov. 2. — (AP.) — A burial announcement by the United States consulate today revealed the death from a gunshot wound of Mrs. Joan Parker Rind, widow of the late Capt. William Rind, of the liner President Harding.

The consulate said the body of Mrs. Rind was found on August 26 and that Paris police had informed the consulate it was a case of suicide.

Recovers Auto, Dog, Gun, Shells Missing

Police Sergeant R. C. Brandt, 232 Matthews avenue, Knoxville, went hunting after all yesterday. While getting a cup of coffee, someone stole his machine, with his prize English beagle hound and hunting equipment.

The machine and dog were recovered late yesterday, abandoned in Clover street, but the gun and ammunition were missing.

MAN ZOO BEAR BIT FREED

He wandered to Highland Park Zoo yesterday, he related in Oakland Police Court today, and was feeding peanuts to a bear through the bars of its cage when it bit or clawed him, he didn't remember which.

After his hand was dressed at Homeopathic Hospital, he was arrested charged with drunkenness. He was discharged today by Magistrate W. J. McNamara. He gave his address as Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg.

A year ago last May an Ollie Phillips, described as a former animal trainer, of 807 South avenue, Wilkinsburg, was charged in East End Police Court with stabbing "Gloria," the Zoo elephant, four times with a penknife because "he didn't like elephants." He paid a $25 fine on a drunkenness charge, the records disclosed.

Holds People Unfit If Hoover Loses

READING, Pa., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Congressman James M. Beck, of Philadelphia, former solicitor general of the United States, asserted at a Republican rally last night that if next Tuesday there is "committed the stupendous folly of dropping the pilot, it would impeach the capacity of the American people to govern themselves."

Woman, Daughter Rescued by Firemen

Mrs. Margaret McMasters and her daughter, Thelma, 13, were assisted by firemen to escape from their third floor apartment when fire damaged the building at 835 Linden avenue, East Pittsburgh, last night. The fire started in the basement and caused $200 damage.

Dickinson Defends Hawley-Smoot Act

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Senator L. J. Dickinson, Republican, of Iowa, in a campaign speech here last night commended the Hawley-Smoot tariff act as "essentially an agricultural tariff" and asserted the Democratic party was hostile to farmers.

Widow Asks $75,000 In Ice Box Fatality

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2. — (AP.)—Alleging her husband was trapped in an ice box on the liner President Grant, September 17, with fatal result, Mrs. Donald Mackenzie today filed suit against the Dollar Steamship Lines asking $75,000. Mackenzie was a refrigeration engineer, the suit said.

RAILING HALTS CAR'S PLUNGE

The unlicensed driver of a borrowed automobile narrowly escaped death early today when the machine skidded off West Stockton avenue, near Sherman avenue, North Side, and tore away three sections of a guard rail overlooking the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Police said the automobile came to a stop poised on the top of a 10-foot retaining wall, its front wheels hanging over the railroad tracks.

Police said Lucas told them the automobile had been stolen. Later Michael J. Petrushka, of 39 Doerr street, who said he owned the automobile, told police he had loaned it to Lucas.

Man About Town

Laurette Taylor's daughter, Marguerite, who is on the staff of that $1 magazine, and Tommy Hughes, Jr., were secretly riveted by the City Clerk two Satdees ago . . . The Lupe Velez-Winnie Sheehan fire is blazing again, but Boots Mallory, his newest star, is getting in Lupe's hair . . . Hardie Albright and Marjorie Peterson have it bad . . . Ditto Dolores Rey and John Wayne . . . After all these years, and all those reports, the Wm. Collier, Jr.-Marie Prevost match is in splinters . . . Everywhere you ankle in cinema circles the talk persists that Jimmie Walker will inherit movie czar Hays' throne . . . And if Roosevelt wins, the Hays group won't have a Republican in it . . . The reason Ben Lyon and "Skeets" Gallagher winged their way from the coast was to sign a radio contract.

The Ken Strongs are blessed-eventing. He now footballs for a Staten Island pro eleven . . . Mac Busch and T. Coe Tait have the tremors for each other . . . Virginia Porter is shelving movieville to return to her groom, Mort Millman of NBC—and to stifle reports they had phffft! . . . At the Lawrence Tibbett song recital last week, the ex-Mrs. Tibbett and their two sons occupied one loge, and the present Mrs. Tibbett an adjacent box . . . The Blue-Law State (Maryland) censors admitted "Maedchen" in Baltimore without a deletion . . . Jeanette MacDonald and Bob Ritchie sail any day now. They keep denying they're married. Haw!

O, Mr. Wilstach! By all means include Hi Phillips' simile—Quicker than a radio "comic" can steal a joke! . . . Gina Malo (nee Janet Flynn, of Cincy) is in the J. Buchanan flicker, "Magic Night," due at the Rivoli soon . . . The expose here of months and months ago, that those duels at the German University were phony, is verified in the Oct. 15 issue of the Lit. Dige . . . Barney's, for the first time in 9 years, closed Satdee of its own volition . . . Robert Andrews, author of "Windfall," which will be screen-tagged "If I Had a Million," and Vi Bradley, of Chicago, were secretly sealed here Thursday.

Scallions to Countess Aedita Stuart de Beaumont, a publicity-mad woman, for letting her marmoset (the most delicate of the monkey tribe) make a parachute jump . . . Scallions to those Paramount ushers who beat up a youngster so badly that the victim had to be patched at Polyclinic Hospital! . . . Scallions to the announcer of "News Events of Past" at the Winter Garden for incensing sensitive Irish folk with his alleged comical cracks about them . . . Orchids to the inventor of the Banjo Sour: Pare a lemon, cut it in two, add a large tablespoonful of sugar, then thoroughly muddle it; add white of egg, an ounce of sloe gin, 3 or 4 dashes of abricotine; shake well, strain into goblet, fill balance with soda, decorate with a slice of pineapple and cherry. Now play.

The London Bystander of Oct. 12 asserts that Peggy Joyce's fiance is Commander Geoffrey Rodd . . . That was Oct. 12—this is November! . . . IN LIMELIGHT -:- Hints About Coming Films And News of Stage -:- PICTURE NOTES

Picture Men To Brave Jungle

By HARRISON CARROLL
(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 2.

Another jungle expedition plans to leave Hollywood, its objective the seldom penetrated regions of Java, Sumatra and the Malayan Archipelago.

Backing the hazardous film trek is Carl Laemmle, Jr., and leading member is Chester Bennett, veteran director. Together with Len Roos, a cameraman, Bennett will photograph thrills destined to reach the screen in a feature picture, "Nature in the Raw."

With three other troupes working in far-flung lands, Universal's young chief takes first place as provider of vicarious adventure for the stay-at-home fans of the world.

Vilma Banky

One Universal company now is in Greenland, shooting "S O S Iceberg." Another, headed by the European director, Louis Trenker, has headquarters in the Alps. It is filming "The Rebel," with Vilma Banky as star. Still a third expedition is in Tahiti, making atmospheric shots for "The Black Pearl."

So far, the fatalities in these Hollywood ventures have been small, but each one is fraught with danger. A camera is an unwieldy instrument in a tight spot.

TOWN GOSSIP

In the future, Elissa Landi will not have to worry about the immigration laws. Before her recent trip to Canada, she was in the country on a visiting artist's permit. Now she is in on the regular quota and can stay here unmolested.

Elissa Landi

Hollywood is being very nice to Julian Huxley, distinguished lecturer and professor in King's College, London. He lunched with the usually retiring Charlie Chaplin, he met the four Marx brothers at Paramount, he paid a visit to Irving Thalberg at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, he was entertained by the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences and he took a look at local night life in the company of Buddy Rogers, Mary Brian and Lois Wilson.

One of the Japanese girls hired by Paramount for "Madame Butterfly" uses the stage name of Valerie O'Hara . . . "Call Her Savage" is finished and Clara Bow will soon retire to her ranch to write a book. Later, she may travel. Picture-making, she says, gets tiresome after the first week or so . . . Jean Harlow expects to move into her new Beverly Hills home by Christmas. She is building it for her parents. Meanwhile, the Paul Bern estate will go up for sale . . . They say that the Von Stroheim picture is now down to 12 reels. The ultimate length is nine . . . Leo McCarey reports another of those funny double-bill announcements. The marquee read: "'Love Me Tonight' with '70,000 Witnesses.'" . . . Wallie Beery pilots one of the 60 planes going to Ensenada on the Chamber of Commerce goodwill tour.

Stars in Stanley Feature Film

Warren William, Bette Davis, Joan Blondell and Ann Dvorak are the principals of "Three On A Match," feature film billed for a week in the Stanley beginning tomorrow.

Robinson 'Shark' Film at Enright

Edward G. Robinson comes to the Enright's screen today in "Tiger Shark," story of the work and love of a fishing boat captain.

'Crooked Circle' at Fulton Tomorrow

Opening in the Fulton tomorrow will be "The Crooked Circle," a comedy mystery drama with James Gleanson, Ben Lyon, Irene Purcell and Zasu Pitts.

Ill-Fated Czarina

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Walter Hampden's production of "Cyrano De Bergerac," seats for which will go on sale in the Nixon box office tomorrow, probably is the largest non-musical production ever to make a tour. Seven cars are necessary to transport it. In the play, which is a heroic romantic comedy by Edmond Rostand, there are 121 speaking parts. By doubling in some of them, 75 actors are able to portray the characters. Because of the length of the performance, the curtains are announced for 8 o'clock sharp for night shows, and 2 o'clock for matinees. Mr. Hampden and his company will be seen in the Nixon all next week.

* * *

Betty Hanna, who will make her debut as leading woman of the Edwin Vail Players in the Pitt next week, played the principal feminine role in the William Gillette revival of "Sherlock Holmes" during the latter part of the season of 1930. Among her other recent engagements were roles in the George Tyler production of "Mr. Samuel," with Paul Muni in "Rock Me, Julie," and with Donald Brian and Taylor Holmes in "Joy of Living." Her stock experience has made her a player in Kansas City, Louisville, Dayton and other cities. Her first stock play here will be "The Good Fairy," in which she will have the role originated by Helen Hayes.

* * *

The Y. M. & W. H. A. Cooperative Playhouse will have a special meeting devoted to playwriting and directing tomorrow evening. The studio group of the Playhouse, preparing to present its bill of one-act plays the latter part of this month, has made directorial assignments. George D. Lobinger, assisted by Mildfred Baringoltz, will direct K. Emily Smith's "Polling Place;" Alfred L. Goldenberg, aided by Paula Calton, will direct his own play, "Off To War." The first major production of the Playhouse is set for Sunday, November 20.

Evalyn Knapp Gets Heroine Role

Evalyn Knapp, who recently appeared as the feminine lead in "This Sporting Age" and "The Night Mayor," was signed yesterday for the heroine role in the company's "Air Hostess," a romantic drama of the adventuresome girls who fly the transcontinental air lines for a livelihood.

Football Celebrities On Warner Bill

"The All-American," in which appears many All-America football players of 1931, together with Richard Arlen, Gloria Stuart and June Clyde, opens for a week's engagement in the Warner Friday. The University of Pittsburgh is said to get quite a "break" in the dialogue of this picture.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Finny Forgets.

HE WAS, sad to relate, a reporter. Sadder still, he was quite a stewpot. When he wasn't drunk, he was at least trying to get that way. And he invariably succeeded. As a matter of fact, he spent the best 10 years of his life commuting between his office and the alcoholic ward in Bellevue. It's a sad, sad story.

But we must be brave. We must proceed with our tale by telling you that his name was Joe Finny and that, as a character, he was known far and wide in newspaper circles. It wasn't more than a year or so ago that a terrible thing happened to Joe. He awakened one morning—and found himself sober!

In a moment he knew that something was wrong. In front of him was the foot of the bed, and there wasn't so much as one pink goat leaping nimbly about. His clothes had been folded neatly and placed upon a hanger.

So Joe called up his city editor and said that he was sick. He wouldn't be able to go to work that day. Then, with a woebegone sigh, he climbed back into bed.

But he quickly hopped out again. Someone was in the room! A woman, no less!

"Hey!" he yelled. "Who the devil are you?"

The woman turned. She glared at him for a moment.

"Don't bother me now, you sot," she said cheerfully. "I'm your wife. Don't tell me you've forgotten last night already?"

Within five minutes, George Held tells me, Joe was in a neighborhood filling station. Within an hour he was filled.

Then, and then only, would he consent to speak to anybody. He looked at the bartender thoughtfully.

"Paul," he said, "Hoosa girl I married? Don't tell me ya don't know. A guy like me don't go around marrying dames every night. Whass Mrs. Finny's maiden name?"

"I nivver met the like of her in me life," he said. "Ye brought the child in with ye last night, and divvil a bit I'd say anything because I knew ye were a good customer. But she's a bossy lass. Make no bones about that. She stopped ye from drinking at 12, and dragged ye out all of a sudden."

"'Zat so?" said Joe. "'Zat so? She was telling me where to head in, huh? Makin' a bum outta me, I suppose. Well, gimme the bill, Paul. I'm gonna go home and show 'at baby sumthin'. Juss watch me, Paul. Juss watch me. I'll se ya in an hour.'"

Although it pains me to say it, Joe Finny didn't get out of the apartment again that day. Mrs. Finny didn't feel in a mood for listening, so Joe had to do it.

She told him that he was a lowdown good-for-nothing bum, a drunkard, a lousy newspaperman and a disgrace to his wife. After that, she began.

Now a very strange thing took place. As time went on, Joe Finny found himself falling for his wife more and more.

So he took time out one day to think matters over. His wife hated the very smell of liquor. He loved liquor. He loved his wife. But liquor was his first love. The two were irreconcilable.

"Baby," he said, "I've made up my mind——"

"Never mind that," she interrupted. "You're coming with me this afternoon. You're gonna take the pledge; see?"

And Joe did. He vowed that, from that day on he would never touch another drop of intoxicating liquor. No one noticed that he had his fingers crossed at the time.

In the apartment, Mrs. Finny delivered her final ultimatum. If he ever broke the pledge from that time on, she was finished with him. She'd divorce him immediately and demand due alimony.

So the job of getting cockeyed proved not only costly, but dangerous as well.

The difficult thing would be to keep her from finding out about it in the morning. He knew, only too well, that his habit of throwing his clothes all over the bedroom was a dead giveaway. If only he could get into the habit of hanging up his clothes and getting to bed without awakening her, everything would be lovely.

So that night he tried it.

By 2 a. m. he was in beautiful shape. He had one foot on the brass rail and the other in a cuspidor. His hair was hanging in his eyes, and his eyes were a sight to behold. When he walked into the apartment, he was most careful. Drunk as he was, he remembered about his clothes. He first looked at the bed. His wife was sleeping soundly. Then he undressed, and carefully hung his clothes in the closet. He crawled into bed with a contented look.

Some time during the following afternoon, his wife was screaming in his ear.

Joe sat up in bed. For the first time in his life he got indignant. What did she mean, drunk? Why, he hadn't had a drink in weeks. He didn't know what a speakeasy looked like. The very idea! Drunk, indeed!

His clothes were still hanging carefully on the hangers. Everything was as it should be. Puzzled, he walked into the bathroom. In the mirror he saw his face. Then he understood.

He had neglected to take off his hat when he rolled into bed!

Last night in Carnegie Lecture Hall the String Symphonic Ensemble of Pittsburgh resumed its activities, playing the first of a series of six concerts. There was a large audience and it was well repaid for its applause.

Mr. Lissfelt

The program continues to revive forgotten or other chamber music never before heard in Pittsburgh. There are as well charming shorter works, arrangements of songs or piano music, that fit nicely into such entertainment.

We notice new members of the ensemble who seem to have contributed already to the quality, for surely last night's concert was the best DelBianco has directed for us. There was decided improvement in both volume and attack, and the enthusiasm of the players ran high. We shall look forward to the next concerts of this ensemble with considerable interest.

The Tuesday Musical Club presented its Artist Program (the title with reservations) in the Soldiers' Memorial Hall yesterday afternoon for a large audience. Before the program, Mrs. William Maclay Hall made an eloquent appeal in behalf of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, and Harry Azinsky, assistant concertmaster of the orchestra, played a group of violin numbers—Pugnani-Kreisler Prelude and Allegro, Moszkowski Guitarre and Kreisler Tambourin Chinois, the best music of the afternoon.

Donald McGill, a baritone, who has sang and played much with an American opera company, gave a dozen songs. They say that he once sang well. He seems to be still a young man, and if his voice has gone the way he sang yesterday, then he is only another victim of bad training. But the most astonishing feature of his singing is the total lack of style, marked neither by distinguished diction nor nuance.

Of Ellen Scanlon's cello playing I should like to reserve judgment. Certainly of her first group I could not make head or tail. Neither the Moor nor Ravel displayed anything further than manly tone. Together with the Schumann, it was all as bad a threesome of miniatures as I have ever heard at one time.

and actually stalk the hunter. On all counts this little-known beast and the tiger are the two most dangerous animals on the Asiatic continent.)

Several times in the course of my conversations with the Sultan I found myself answering questions about the American sladang. The subject fascinated His Highness. It was the one American animal about which he could not hear enough. He always referred to the bison in the past tense, and whenever I said, "Some day I'll try to get you one," he could say in reply, "American bluffer! There are none of these animals left." When I told him that there was still quite an American buffalo population, he stared incredulously and asked, "The same sladang as shot by your Buffalo Bill?"

KNOWN WORLD OVER

I finally succeeded in convincing H. H. that there were still quite a few honest-to-goodness bison left on the North American continent. Even when he decided to believe me he sought further confirmation, calling me over to the mantel-piece of his trophy room to look at an old American print in which Buffalo Bill, leaning well out of the saddle, was bumping off buffalo at a terrific rate. There they were, flesh-and-blood American buffalo, with light and slender hindquarters and densely shaggy foreparts.

"Yes," I reassured H. H., "we still have some American buffalo just like those—and some day I hope to present you with one."

I once thought it remarkable that in this remote part of Asia there should be those who were familiar with the Buffalo Bill days and other pioneer periods in our history. I no longer do. Our dime novels, I have learned, have gone round the world and our Injuns and covered wagons and Buffalo Bills of a vanished era are as well known to alert-minded Asiatic old-timers as our skyscrapers are to the new generations.

Secretary Friedlander of the Rangoon Zoological Society had asked me on two or three occasions whether I could secure an American buffalo for him. The species appealed to his imagination, and it was his ambition to add a representative of it to the fine collection of bovines in the zoo of which he is the active head.

With one bison going to Johore Bahru and the other to Rangoon, I was assured of a good test of my theory that this most celebrated of American animals could thrive in true tropical country.

CHINESE HELP BOY

Lal Behudar, my Hindu boy who accompanied me on numerous trips across the Pacific and who had assisted me on many collecting expeditions in India, was in San Francisco. We had arrived there from Calcutta a month before with a big collection of wild animals and birds, and Lal had remained on the coast to await our return to the Far East while I crossed the United States to deliver a number of specimens to the New York and Philadelphia zoos. Usually the trip from America back to Asia was a sort of vacation for him. There being nothing to do, he always traveled as a deck passenger and spent his time sunning himself on the hatch covers and taking it easy in general.

But Lal did not seem to mind when I told him that on this journey back to Asia there would be work. He was familiar with the American buffalo, having seen specimens in Golden Gate Park, and was keenly interested in my experiment.

Our ship was the President Cleveland, and we carried our unusual freight in crates on the aft part of the main deck. It didn't take me long to see that Lal, though he had every intention of taking good care of his charges, planned to make this return trip almost as much of a vacation as ever. He quickly saw the possibility of recruiting his fellow deck passengers—mainly Chinese returning to their native land—as assistants. He lost no time in spreading a story to the effect that it is good luck to work around an American bison. The Chinese are full of superstitions of all kinds regarding animals, and it is not difficult to get them to accept one more.

SOUGHT BY JAPANESE

Soon Lal, in Tom Sawyer fashion, had these Chinamen doing most of his work for him while he strutted around in his white clothes and took it easy. He had the celestials cleaning the crates and feeding the animals their hay and crushed oats and bran. Once he actually had two of the Chinamen fighting for the privilege of carrying water to the beasts. This I considered a real feat, for the water-carrying was probably the toughest job of all, and only a skilled diplomat could bring about the miracle of men fighting to be allowed to do this back-breaking work.

The next day (we stopped over two days) a committee of Japanese representing the Tokio Zoo came on board and tried to buy one of the bison for their famous institution. The Japanese are great animal fanciers and are tireless in their efforts to pick up something out of the ordinary.

When the Japanese made their visit I was in Tokio, which is an hour from Yokohama, visiting friends. I learned afterwards from one of the ship's officers that Lal had had a great time with the delegation from the zoo. He even told the Japs unblushingly how he had himself captured the animals, describing in fanciful detail the various dangers of the exploit. Lal was a fairly able kidder and never lost an opportunity to take a likely looking victim for a ride. After he had worked up the Japs to a real pitch of excitement he told them he was afraid he could not sell. It had been too much trouble to capture the creatures and he couldn't think of parting with either of them.

DAMP-SET YOUR HAIR

NEW HAIR-CLEANING AND WAVE-SETTING DISCOVERY BY OFFICIAL HAIRDRESSER OF UNITED ARTISTS' STUDIO

Damp-setting has spread to every movie lot. Those perfect coiffures you see in the newest pictures were damp-set. You can give your hair this same treatment at home, and make your wave last indefinitely.

★

This astonishing discovery saves hours of time and many dollars spent in frequent washing and waving. It makes any wave last for weeks. It keeps the hair fastidiously clean all the time. And it's all done in two minutes without even disarranging your hair!

★

Here's all you need for the treatment: any small bowl, a tiny sponge or pinch of cotton for a "pat" and about an ounce of Danderine. (If you haven't any Danderine in the house, a bottle costs only thirty-five cents at any drug store.) And here's all you do: with hair combed just as you wear it, dampen locks by patting (not rubbing) in between the waves, to set them. Pat backward where wave goes back; forward where the wave comes toward the front. Keep the little pat just damp, never wet.

★

Do this once a week and you'll always have a ripple in your hair. And never any grease, for Danderine is a solvent and cuts it. Your wave will always look fresh and new; a light finger-wave holds for several weeks. And Danderine is already famous for the sheen and lustre it imparts to any hair.

★

We owe this grand discovery to Beatrice Mabie, in charge of the hairdressing salons for United Artists. Miss Mabie says: "I don't know why Danderine should set a wave so beautifully when applied in this manner. I only know that it does. No other preparation so far as I know, has this characteristic. But if you will be sure to use Danderine, I'll vouch for results."

PITT AND PENN PLAYING SAME SYSTEM

WHEN EDDIE BAKER, Panther football scout, started showing Jock Sutherland and the rest of the Pitt coaches the plays that he hopes Harvey Harman will instruct the Penn quarterback to use against the Blue and Gold Saturday, the members of the Pitt strategy board thought that they were looking at pages torn from their own notebooks. For there wasn't much in the Quaker repertoire of plays that hasn't been used by Pitt at some time or other; if not during the current season, at least while Sutherland has been in charge of football affairs at the Oakland university.

Harvey Harman

Saturday's game will see the Warner system tested against itself, and will be a battle between two of the outstanding disciples of old Pop's school in the East. Sutherland played one year, 1914, under Joe Duff at Pitt, but in his last three seasons there absorbed the Warner style. Coming in the season after Sutherland wound up his college gridiron career, Harman played four years under Warner and got all his football from Pop. The test between two tutors from the same school ought to be interesting.

THEY SAY YOU'VE got to have prep school gridiron experience to stand a chance of becoming a college regular, and that even then you can't hope to amount to much before your junior or senior year. It's supposed to take seasons to make a football player. But Jack Grady, Harvard ball carrier, is a standout to the contrary.

Grady, a senior, never had a football in his hands until last September. Swede Nelson, one of Eddie Casey's coaching lieutenants, met Grady while vacationing on Cape Cod last summer, was struck by his movements in a tennis game and induced him to come out for football on September 15. In three days Grady won a place on the squad, and now he's a star open field runner.

NOW COMES A son of Fred Pollard to show football ability indicating he may yet equal his dad. You remember the original Fred, of course. He was the sensational Negro halfback of Brown University, one of the greatest broken-field runners of all time, who made Walter Camp's all-America team of 1916.

Fred, Jr., is the star back of Senn High School in Chicago, and he leads the City League in points scored. He is a good kicker and passer and also a fine defensive player. Young Pollard is 17, stands 6 feet and weighs 170. He is inclined to enter Northwestern next year, though his dad prefers Harvard or Brown.

THOUGH HIS MAIN duty was to engineer touchdowns rather than to score them himself, Orville Mohler carried the ball across the enemy line 34 times in the two and a half seasons he played for Southern California before an injury forced his withdrawal. He raced to 17 touchdowns in 1930, 15 in 1931 and two this year. His longest scoring run was 68 yards and he had two of 48. Mohler says the greatest thrill of his career was experienced when he held the ball for Johnny Baker to kick the field goal that gave the Trojans their 16-to-14 victory over Notre Dame in South Bend last year after the Irish had led 14 to 0 going into the final quarter.

Nobel Kizer

IN CRUSHING THE New York U. forces 34 to 9 last Saturday, Nobel Kizer's Purdue gridders not only helped the West to retain its margin of leadership over the East this season, but kept clean their own record for intersectional competition in recent years.

Purdue has played six intersectional games in the last five and a half seasons and won them all. In 1927, the Boilermakers defeated Harvard, 19 to 0; in 1929, they took Mississippi over, 27 to 7; in 1930, they beat Baylor, 20 to 7; in 1931 they downed Carnegie Tech, 13 to 6, and Centenary, 49 to 6, and now N. Y. U. has been added to the list.

THE PRIZE STORY of wasted effort and labor lost is told of Paul Rogers, fleet-footed young halfback of the high school team at Independence, Kan. In two games he turned in three sensational long touchdown runs.

One was for 42, another for 48 and the third for 62 yards. But each time the touchdown was nullified and the ball was ordered back because of some foul by his team. Hereafter, it is said, Rogers will run no more than 10 yards, preferring to save his energies.

IF GABBY STREET is at all worried about his managerial future in St. Louis as a result of the signing of Rogers Hornsby by the Cardinals he manages to hide his feelings bravely. In a way, though, he appears to be serving warning on the Rajah that the latter will have to stay in his place. "Rogers is a long way from hanging up his glove for keeps," said Street, "and I have worlds of faith in his ability to come back. I have always liked Hornsby, and I know he likes me in return, so I don't anticipate any trouble from him. He will be just one of my ball players, though, and will have absolutely nothing to say about running the Cards." In view of the fact that Hornsby was signed without Street's knowledge, and that all trade talk involving Cardinal players appears to come from Branch Rickey and Sam Breadon, the suspicion is strong that the authority of Gabby himself in the running of the club is somewhat limited.

IT'S A STRANGE fact that while Los Angeles invites big league baseball clubs to take advantage of its wonderful climate for training, and has induced the New York Giants to work there again next spring, its own club passes up the place entirely and goes somewhere else.

The Los Angeles club, following the action of Hollywood, which trained at Carlsbad two years, is on the hunt for an outside practice grounds. The club officials are on a tour of inspection to select a training place.

WHEN HE'S WRONG, Bucky Harris, Detroit manager, is big enough to admit it. He confesses that he made one of the greatest mistakes of his baseball life when he traded First Baseman Dale Alexander to the Red Sox for Outfielder Earl Webb. "It was a rock, all right," Harris admits.

Hugo Bezdek

A switch in clubs evidently was just what Alexander needed to start him. He launched a hitting drive that made him the champion batter of the American League with an average of .369, some 100 points ahead of Harry Davis, who succeeded him at first base for the Tigers.

HUGO BEZDEK, who attended the Olympic Games, is still talking about the one thing that impressed him more than any other—the advanced age of some of the European champions. "It seems to me that athletes of Sweden, Finland, Germany and other countries where they develop champions do not reach their peak until they are 35," Bez said in going back over the games with Stoney McLinn. "I think the average age for foreign athletes to attain championship skill would be at least 30. In America, with few exceptions, an athlete is burnt out at 30. Usually, he's a has-been at 35. He attains his peak at 25. Champions in nearly all of our strenuous games are mere boys, ranging in age from 18 to 25, generally."

N. CASTLE HAS BEST RECORD OF LIST

By JULIUS LEVIN

Entering the final stages of the championship football races in the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League it is interesting to note that from a membership of 125 schools operating under the league's football banner, only seven have escaped the ignominy of a defeat or tie game.

Of the seven undefeated and untied elevens, three hail from the Class AA Conference, three from the class A ranks and one from the class B division.

NEW CASTLE LEADS

New Castle High, coached by Phil Bridenbaugh and leading the parade at present in the Class AA Conference, has by far the most impressive record of the W. P. I. A. L. members, the Lawrence countians winning seven successive victories, two of which have been achieved at the expense of double A teams.

Beaver Falls, Coach Howard Heckathorne's contender for the class A crown, likewise has scored seven triumphs in a row, but one of the decisions is over an alumni team, which is practically worthless insofar as championship consideration is concerned.

AMBRIDGE IN FRONT

Besides New Castle, Greensburg and Jeannette are undefeated and untied in the class AA group, while Ambridge and Monongahela join Beaver Falls as the unbeaten and untied contenders in the class A fight.

Edgewood High, coached by Wally Pickett, is the lone exception in the Class B fight, the Pickettmen showing five successive triumphs. Every one of the seven teams, however, has been scored upon. The list of undefeated and untied teams and their records for the season follow:

PITT ELEVEN IN TRIM

Pitt's Golden Panthers, who really haven't had time as yet to celebrate their victory over Notre Dame, so hard has Coach Sutherland been working them for the game this week with Penn in Philadelphia, will enter the game with the Quakers in the best physical trim they've been in all season.

Despite batterings on successive Saturday afternoons from Army, Ohio State and Notre Dame, the Pitt players are in fine physical condition. They came out of the contest with the Irish tired, of course, but without a single serious hurt.

Miller Mungas, who started the game and played through three periods at quarterback, likely will direct the Panthers against the Quakers, at the start of the game at least. Bobby Hogan's fine play when he relieved Mungas in the Notre Dame game moved the big Meadville boy back into the first reserve post, and it may be that Sutherland will start him Saturday. Mike Sebastian is a fixture at right halfback, with Warren Heller at left and Weinstock at fullback.

The Panthers will depart tomorrow night, arriving in Philly early Friday morning. They'll be quartered at the Manufacturers' Country Club while sojourning in the City of Brotherly Love and Harvey Harman's unbeaten Penn eleven.

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: DEFEATED IN SPITE OF A 100,000 PLURALITY—In the election of 1888, Cleveland received 5,540,309 votes to 5,439,853 cast for his Republican adversary, Harrison. Although Cleveland thus received 100,456 more votes than Harrison, the latter was elected President, after having polled 233 electoral votes to 168 cast for Cleveland. The reason for this paradox lies in the peculiar election laws of the United States, which make it possible for a candidate with a high plurality in the popular vote to become a minority candidate in the Electoral College. Cleveland lost several states by very narrow margins. The loss of the 36 electoral votes of New York by a margin of only 2 per cent decided the election. THE DEVIL'S COIN—Nickel first was discovered in 1751 by the Swedish mineralogist Cronstedt. It then was found combined with copper. The legation had the color of copper, but not the physical properties of the latter. The baffled discoverer angrily named it nickel (devil), a word akin to the English "Nick" or "Old Nick," which designates the infernal potentate.

TOMORROW: CHAINED KNOWLEDGE.

HICKEY DENIES UMP'S CHARGE

By WILLIAM L. COLLINS
International News Service.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—

"It's a joke, nothing but a joke. And you can quote me to that effect."

Thus did Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American Association, laugh at the charges of James A. Murray, former association umpire, that he had asked Murray to "throw" association games in 1925.

Murray, in a discovery statute hearing before Court Commissioner R. J. Hennessey, at Milwaukee, testified that Hickey told him that he was to officiate behind the plate in a series between St. Paul and Kansas City and that he (Hickey) wanted to be sure that Kansas City won.

The umpire testified that Hickey's reason for the alleged attempt at "fixing" was "for the good of the league."

He declined to honor Hickey's request, Murray testified, and asked for his release. He charged that as an aftermath of the affair, Hickey ran him out of organized baseball, and in his suit against Hickey he asks $25,000 damages.

Hickey refused to take the allegations seriously. He said:

"Murray is in trouble or is broke and disgruntled, and merely is trying to make trouble for me with my league, or trying to get some money out of me."

Murray's $25,000 damage suit against Hickey has been called for trial November 26, at Milwaukee.

WRESTLERS 'EGGED'

GOOSBY BOXES SUBSTITUTE

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Tommy Paul vs. Tony Sciolino, 10 rounds, Buffalo.

Injured in winning over Jack Rosenberg in a bout in New York, Monday night, Paul Delaney, New York middleweight, will not be able to go through with his scheduled 10-round bout against Frankie Goosby, local Negro puncher, in the first half of the double windup at the Arena, on the North Side, Friday night, and Paul Schaffer, of Winnipeg, Can., has been substituted for him by Matchmaker Lew Raymond.

Schaffer comes highly recommended. He has boxed Frankie Battaglia twice and also Phil Ross and Morrie Sherman. He campaigned around Chicago for a time and now is being booked out of New York.

Between Rounds

Joey Costa boxes Bobby Pancho and Billy McMahon meets Prince Saunders in eight-round preliminaries to the Tony Canzoneri-Billy Petrolle lightweight championship fight in New York's Madison Square Garden, Friday night. Danny Dempsey boxes Manny Candia in a six-rounder.

Johnny Birek, former A. M. A. lightweight champion, is back from California, where he went for the Olympic tryouts and turned professional in four-round bouts, and will be ready for action within a week.

Stanford Behind Warner Despite Setbacks

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Stanford University has not lost confidence in the Warner brand of football despite two straight setbacks, and on the campus and in alumni circles the sentiment is for "Old Pop"—Coach Glenn Scobey Warner.

The 13-to-6 defeat last Saturday by the University of California at Los Angeles was accepted in the same spirit as the loss to Southern California a week before as "the breaks in football."

About the only reaction to the defeats was confined to grumbling on the part of a few alumni. Graduate Manager Alfred R. Masters, highest authority of the Board of Athletic Control, the student-alumni body that controls athletics at Stanford, said yesterday:

"We always have a few chronic kickers. Every college has them. They grumble whether the team wins or loses. We are for Warner, win, lose or draw."

Masters pointed out Coach Warner had renewed an agreement not long ago to remain at Stanford for five years, until 1937.

Buck McTierman in his bout with Jimmy Belmont at the Arena last Friday night did not prove serious enough for him to call off his match with Bucky Lawless at Erie tomorrow night. Matty Mathieson and Pedro Lorenzo are in the semi-final.

Jack Dempsey wanted a guarantee of $1,500 to referee the main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night as an added attraction to a Eugene Huat-Jimmy Thomas battle. This, plus the fact that Pee Wee Jarrell, who was the hit of last week's show at the Garden, will not be available until November 21 because of other bookings, has caused the club to consider calling off the show.

PETROLLE NEAR WEIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—There was little question today Tony Canzoneri's world lightweight title would be at stake when he battles Billy Petrolle, of Fargo, N. D., here Friday night. Petrolle weighed in before the New York Commission yesterday and scaled 136½ pounds. This indicated the veteran boxer would be able to do 135 pounds Friday afternoon without difficulty.

HUNTING SEALS' RADIO TOPIC

The small and large game hunting seasons will be discussed by Gib Marsh, writer on outdoors subjects, as the feature of the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 7 o'clock this evening. Marsh will be quizzed in interview fashion by Harry Keck, sports editor.

Gib Marsh

Opening the program, Herb McGee, WCAE announcer, will recite another of his mythical exploits as a member of the Siwash football team, telling of a memorable game with Lollapaloosa. Miss Marian Salmon will be at the piano for the theme song.

Dodgers Release Three, Sign Pair

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—The Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League announced the signing of two new players and the release of three men yesterday.

Buck Halperin, former Notre Dame blocking back, and William Raffel, end on last year's University of Pennsylvania team, were signed.

BOXER IN HOSPITAL

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Injured when he fell from the ring during an amateur boxing bout here last night, Mickey Matello, a featherweight, was a patient in the Methodist Hospital today. Physicians said he had a slight concussion of the brain.

LAYDEN PLANS CHANGES IN BACKFIELD

By JESS CARVER

With Notre Dame and the famous Notre Dame system experiencing rough going right at present, it is up to the dear old Dukes to show that there is something to the South Bend style of football after all as they battle Wash-Jeff here Saturday afternoon at Forbes Field.

Pitt knocked the Irish off Saturday; the same day, two or three Notre Dame system-using elevens met up with defeat, and Monday, Jack Hagerty, taking over the reins at Georgetown, promptly tossed what Notre Dame formations his predecessor, Tommy Mills, had been using, right out of the window.

GAME IMPORTANT

This game with Wash-Jeff means more to the Dukes than any they've played this year, with the exception of the engagement with Pitt. If they take it on the chin from the Red and Black, they'll have a tough time proving their right to major ranking. The 3-to-0 victory over West Virginia will not hold up if Wash-Jeff is able to hang a decisive defeat on the locals for Duquesne did not look any too impressive in beating the Mountaineers in that night game a month or so back. They have to go to town against Wash-Jeff.

The Duquesne coaches, Elmer Layden and Joe Bach, are not missing overturning a single paving block in an effort to have their club right for the encounter. Layden is planning more shifts in the backfield and Bach, while he is keeping the starting line intact, is giving it the extra-duty treatment.

CICCONE AT CENTER

Bach's line is built around Ben Ciccone, possibly the best center Duquesne ever boasted. DeCarbo and Weinberg are at the guards, no one having come along to supplant 'em; Sinko and Niccolai have the tackle jobs in hand, and Abele and Krankota are at the ends. It is likely the forward wall will stack up in the foregoing fashion against Wash-Jeff.

What with Wash-Jeff coming here for revenge for the 1928 defeat and the Dukes fighting to stay in the upper crust, the city's lone football game Saturday ought to be a wowser. There is a word—wowser.

The Tipoff

A high school gridiron rivalry will be resumed Saturday at Philadelphia when Pitt and Penn match their unbeaten elevens. During their prep school days, Pitt's right end, Muggsy Skladany, who answers to the name of Joe at church socials, and George Masavage, Penn's speedy halfback, met several times as members of rival teams.

Skladany has a lot of respect for Masavage. Says Muggsy:

"This guy Masavage can run like a deer and he's plenty tricky. You have to crack him hard and crack him around the hips. He shifts his feet nicely and you can't take a chance of grabbing him by the ankles. Maybe his ankles won't be there when you grab. Then it is just too bad."

It is just about time to do a bit of natdoffing in the general direction of Frank Wolf, the big shot of all sports at Waynesburg. The former Penn State star has built a real ball club around Rab Currie, flashy halfback, and has built it out of material left by the exception of the season, was regarded as ordinary. In fact, it was so ordinary looking that it gave Coach Frank headaches for weeks at a time.

Chatting with your correspondent at a meeting at the Keystone A. C., just before the season opened, Coach Wolf moaned:

"No foolin', we haven't got a thing, not a thing. My club right now looks, and is, terrible. We've Muskingum to open in the opening game, too, and those guys always are tough. Gosh, my backs can't run and my linemen act as though it was just out to give the co-eds a treat. What a swell fall I'm going to be in for."

Having heard Wolf sing the old blue-blue blues before, and then having seen one of his "terrible" elevens in action, we grabbed for a lickin' instead of wasting time consoling the tearful Jacket mentor and offered to bet the Yellow Jackets would win more than half their ball games. The very mention of such success almost caused Wolf to throw a fit. Now it looks like the Jackets and Geneva will fight it out for the Western Pennsylvania Class B title, with the Jackets playing a swell chance to go through the season unbeaten and untied, something on which Coach Wolf may be able to cash in on in the not too distant future.

Next to Pitt, Wash-Jeff is better fortified for fullbacks than any eleven in the district. While the Panthers have three crackerjack plungers, Weinstock, Weisenbaugh and Lueh, the Presidents offer King, Deacle and Demedowitz. Deacle rates as the equal of any straight plunging back in the section and can hold his own with any in the East. He's a powerhouse type of runner, tough as the dickens to stop. It was his plunging that enabled the Presidents to beat the stubborn West Virginia Wesleyan eleven.

The change in Georgetown's coaching system was all bad news for Greasy Neale at West Virginia. It meant all the scouting that had been done in preparation for Saturday's game had to be cast aside and nothing will be known about what to expect from the Hilltoppers.

If Harvard players are superstitious, they will have a hard time being optimistic about Saturday's game with Army. The tradition, backed by years of results, is that Harvard can't beat Army at Cambridge and the Cadets can't win at West Point.

Five of the St. Mary's football players now Eastward-bound for the Fordham game Saturday saw action two years ago when the Gaels triumphed over the Rams. They are Capt. Bill Beasley, who scored the winning touchdown; Angel Brovelli, star of the game; Emory Rubel, center, and Mike Stepnovich and Bill Carpenter, guards.

CARRICK BOOTERS WIN

GRIDIRON 'UPSETS' MERELY STATE OF MIND—HARP

BETTER-KEYED TEAMS BEAT FAVORITES

By Howard Harpster

Geneva College Coach; All-America Halfback at Carnegie Tech, 1928.

The so-called "upsets" in football are just as surprising and just as unexpected today as they were 20 years ago. One would think that after watching a better team go down to defeat at the hands of a relative.y weaker team, year after year, someone would make a study of the existing conditions of the two teams in each case and devise a formula whereby the outcome could be ascertained in advance, thus saving the fans no little amount of shock.

Mr. Harpster

I make no claims at being able to offer any such formula, but my few years of observation of football games with their uncertain results has stamped one impression clearly in my mind and that is that in many cases the proper mental attitude of a team is more important than mechanical superiority.

LETDOWNS FATAL

The most fatal thing to a superior team is what is known as a letdown. In some cases, but not as a rule, the letdown is the result of big-headedness or overconfidence. Generally speaking, however, the letdown which most often ends disastrously results not from being "cocky," but rather from underestimating the strength of an opponent and, therefore, not being in the proper mental attitude for the game.

Although this can be no ironclad rule, it has been my observation that when two teams meet which are of about equal strength, although one is admittedly stronger, the weaker eleven very often will win if the newspapers and general public believe it hasn't a chance. The reason is obvious, for publicity serves to make the superior team believe the game will be won with comparative ease, with the result that it enters the battle lukewarm. The underdog realizes from the public sentiment that the other team is strong, and so it goes into the game with a great amount of fight, bent on putting up a good front. Then, when it finds that the other team isn't as good as it was touted and that there is a chance for a victory, it puts up a harder fight, and the "upset" results.

AT BEST AFTER DEFEAT

If we consider two teams, theoretically of the same strength, it is rather difficult to establish any basis for a victory either way, especially if the past records are somewhat equal. In this case, the players of each team respect the ability of their opponents, and both sides put up a great game. However, if on the Saturday before these two equally strong teams meet, one is victorious and the other is defeated, then, I believe, the defeated team generally is the most logical choice. This is another case of mental attitude being the important factor.

In 1928, Notre Dame beat a very strong Army team. A week later, Carnegie Tech defeated Notre Dame. The following Saturday, New York University came here and won from Carnegie Tech, and, only five days later, on Thanksgiving Day, the Oregon Aggies traveled to New York and defeated the Violets.

Now, that particular year, Oregon had one of the weakest teams on the Pacific Coast and Army had one of the very best in the East, and, although under ordinary circumstances, Army easily would have defeated Oregon, the comparative scores indicated that Oregon was some 70 or 80 points better than the Army. This string of "upsets" I have just mentioned shows clearly the value of being the underdog, and likewise illustrates what I mean by letdowns from an improper mental attitude.

SWIMMERS VIE AT K. A. C.

Allegheny Mountain Association swimming champions in the junior 50-yard free style for women, junior 50-yard free style for men and senior 100-yard free style for men will be crowned at the meet to be staged in the Keystone Athletic Club pool tonight.

Pitt is to have 10 men in each of the men's events, and other teams which are to be represented are Carnegie Tech, Homestead Carnegie Library, Coyne A. C., Butler Y., Willows Pool, Pittsburgh A. A. and the Natatorium.

The size and class of the fields in the various events indicate that new records reasonably may be expected. The list of entries:

50-yard Junior A. M. A. championship—Don McCoy, Downtown Y. M. C. A.; Fred Warren, Charles Chambers, John Reilly, Joseph Madden, William Szawzuk, John Carik, Ray Coggswell, Joe Jones, William Lewis, William Ruke, Joe Schmeller, University of Pittsburgh; Walter Louchaka, Wilmerding Y. M. C. A.; William Manko, Andrew Manko, Coyne A. C.; F. J. Jergel, H. P. McIlvee, Jr., Norman Franke, Norton Leavitt, Carnegie Tech; Clifford Hellard, Clairton High School; R. F. Prince, Keystone A. C.; R. J. McCambridge, Albert Beacon, Civic Aquatic Club; R. McDowell, Uniontown, Pa., Y. M. C. A.; L. P. Brueckel, Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

50-yard Junior A. M. A. championship for women—Tuey Burkle, Keystone A. C.; Emma Martin, Coyne A. C.; Ethel Corbet, Uniontown Y. W. C. A.; Grace Layton, Isabella Murphy, Mae Artman, Ann Bryan, Maretta Croft, Arvella Leathers, Betty Makara, Marjorie Douds, Jane McNamara, Willows Pool Swimming Club.

100-yard Senior A. M. A. championship for men—Russell Lindberg, William Norton, Jr., Herman Addlesberg, Paul Stinner, Albert Labedda, Jack Denny, University of Pittsburgh; Robert Alvin, Downtown Y. M. C. A.

RAMBLERS WANT GAMES

Pitt-Husker Fray May Fill Stadium

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—University of Nebraska athletic department officials are glad the Pitt Panthers defeated Notre Dame in the football classic of last week-end.

Needless to say, economic conditions this year haven't helped football game receipts, and the Husker managers hope to fill Memorial Stadium November 12, when Pittsburgh comes here for the annual Panther-Cornhusker tussle.

Service Polo Teams To Meet Saturday

The 107th Field Artillery polo four will battle the 308th Cavalry riders in the Hunt Armory in an exhibition match Saturday night.

DUKES OPEN COURT DRILLS

Football still may hold the major portion of the spotlight here, but basketball will take at least part of the glow from today on. Coach Charles (Chick) Davies, head coach at Duquesne, will call his Dukes together today in the Red and Blue gymnasium. Both freshman and varsity candidates will be on hand.

The basketeers are to report at 3 o'clock and will be handled by the head coach, since Freshman Coach Full Donnelli is still giving his best efforts to the yearling gridders.

Veteran Recalls Odd Touchdown Of 1900

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—A strange touchdown play after a blocked punt in the first Indiana-Michigan football game in 1900 was recalled here yesterday.

Roy O. Pike, of that year's Indiana eleven, now a Bloomington banker, related the play, which occurred at Ann Arbor. He said he dropped back to punt from behind the goal posts. Aiming too high, Pike booted the ball against the crossbar and it bounded up into the bleachers along the end zone.

Hooster and Wolverine alike scrambled for the free ball, which landed in the arms of a Negro Michigan rooter. He finally tossed it to a waiting Wolverine for a touchdown.

FIVE HARVARD STARS OUT

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Harvard went optimistically through an indoor workout yesterday in preparation for the Army game, although five players missed the brief contact work. The absentees were Jack Crickard, Irad Hardy, Warren Casey, Johnny Dean and Bill Francisco.

It was learned yesterday that Johnny Grady, Crickard's replacement, will be available along with all the others except two centers, Roger Hallowell and Frank Casales.

CHRISTNER GETS DRAW

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—K. O. Uhrlaner, of Akron, O., and Frankie Wine, of Montana, heavyweights, fought to a draw in a 10-round bout here last night.

COACH KOEGAN TO MARRY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—George Keogan, who coaches Notre Dame's baseball and basketball teams, will marry Miss Ruby Jones, of Mishawaka, on Thanksgiving Day.

Keogan has been coaching at Notre Dame since 1922. He was coach at Valparaiso University before he came to Notre Dame. Miss Jones is the daughter of Mrs. Sarah Jones, of Muncie. She is a teacher in Mishawaka High School.

BOWERS CHESS VICTOR

Paul Bowers, former local chess champion, defeated Joseph Firestone in the first match of the Western Pennsylvania championship series. The tourney will be continued tonight. Morton A. Simack, of Homestead, defeated Dorothy Rundle, 16-year-old prodigy, in a special match.

Maxie to b... Scozza

Rosenbloom's title will not be at stake.

Last Saturday's results of football games were similar to the preceding Saturday's, in that it was a day of upsets. Football in this day and age is the most uncertain of all games when it comes to picking winners. The favorite this year has been defeated again and again, and this season looks like the most upsetting in football history.

Eddie Casey

The standout last week was Notre Dame's defeat. Heralded as one of the greatest of all Notre Dame teams, it was decisively defeated by Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh, after two hard games on two Saturdays came back with a terrific punch and now looks like the outstanding team of the East and Middle West. This week Pittsburgh takes on the undefeated University of Pennsylvania, and the Panthers will send Penn down to its first defeat. This would be the most outstanding reverse of the season if Penn should by any chance crash through with a victory.

HARVARD MEETS ARMY

In Boston, Harvard is meeting the strong Army team, a team that with a few good breaks would have beaten Pittsburgh a few weeks ago. The Army is set to win this game. Last week they played the second string men against William and Mary and they are desirous of reversing last year's defeat at the hands of Harvard.

Harvard, on the other hand, apparently is not very strong. Managing to squeak out a victory over Dartmouth and then being soundly beaten by Brown, it looks as if they are in for a hard week-end. But for the reasons just stated, Harvard may surprise by playing over their heads and beat the favorites.

Columbia will play the Middies at Annapolis. The Navy is having an off year, and on the other hand, Columbia is having its best year. I can't see much hope for the Navy and the New Yorkers will continue on their way undefeated and one of the great teams of the country.

COLGATE IS FAVORED

Colgate, the other big team of the East, will take on Mississippi College. While we do not know a great deal about Mississippi, they can hardly be much of a match for the great team of Andy Kerr, and Colgate will win rather easily.

St. Mary's, of California, comes East again to tackle Fordham. For the past two weeks Fordham has been out of gear, and whether they can recover in time to cope with this fine Western team is a question. I rather think St. Mary's will win. New York University will be meeting Georgia in New York. I favor Georgia to win.

Princeton should break into the win column this week in its game with Lehigh. The showing of the Tigers against Michigan was a revelation, and this team is progressing week by week. Yale is going to have a real football game on its hands when it meets the Tiger one week from Saturday.

HUNK EXPECTS WIN OVER K. U.

ANDERSON'S CHOICES

Northwestern over Ohio State.
Wisconsin over Illinois.
Purdue over Chicago.
Michigan over Indiana.
Nebraska over Iowa.
Minnesota over Mississippi.
Notre Dame over Kansas.
Detroit over Marquette.
Columbia over Navy.
Kansas State over Iowa State.
St. Louis U. over Drake.
Dayton over John Carroll.
Western Reserve over Case.

By HEARTLY (HUNK) ANDERSON,
Notre Dame Football Coach.

Michigan apparently has the Big Ten Conference race sewed up, but Northwestern, Ohio State and Purdue still are hoping that the Wolverines will get bumped in one of their remaining games to give themselves a chance to tie for title honors.

Hunk Anderson

There doesn't seem to be much chance of Indiana, Chicago or Minnesota stopping the rush of one of Michigan's finest teams. Any one of them, however, might catch Michigan off stride, play an inspired game, and win.

With this hope foremost in their minds, Ohio State and Northwestern will battle to the last ditch Saturday in their game at Evanston. Both teams are powerful, but both have failed to capitalize on their possibilities when they outplayed their opponents.

I pick Northwestern to take Ohio State because of greater versatility in the backfield. The Wildcat line has developed well, and Coach Dick Hanley has smartened up his team a lot since the first games of the year.

NORTHWESTERN STRONG

Our scouts tell me that Northwestern has a very dangerous passing threat in Rentner and Olson, with Potter, Fencl, Sullivan and Manske to gather them in. Northwestern failed to capitalize on this strength until the closing minutes of the Purdue game, but passes got them a 7-to-7 tie. I think that passes will give them a victory over Ohio State, despite the great work of Carl Cramer, Vuchinich and Capt. Hinchman in the backfield.

The score won't be large. Ohio State showed against the great Pitt team that it is smart and rugged on defense, when it stopped Pitt four times on the goal line in the closing minutes of play.

Stagg fears Purdue this year with a good reason. The Boilermakers have such stars as Pardonner, Moss, Purvis, Hocker and Horstmann in their lineup. They marched right down the field 60 yards to score against Northwestern, which is a feat for any team against the Wildcats. Purdue will take Chicago easily.

WISCONSIN PROSPERS

Wisconsin under Doc Spears, is much too powerful for Illinois. The Pacetti brothers, Bingham, and Smith form the nucleus of what is developing into a great Badger team. In another year or two, Wisconsin will be a strong title contender.

Indiana has developed offensively this year, and is as powerful as ever defensively, but Michigan always can take to the air to pull a game out of the fire. Michigan should win hands down from Indiana.

FANS BOO DRAW

ADRIAN, Mich., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Chet Smallwood, 137, Berberton, O., and Eddie Koppy, 137, Detroit, boxed to a 10 round draw here last night, but the referee's decision drew a chorus of boos from many of the fans who thought Smallwood had won.

Fine Scouting Behind Pitt Grid Victories

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

What price scouting in college football?

Well, behind that neat job was a classic bit of scouting that will be remembered as long as they talk about the game.

Bill Kern, former Pitt lineman and now assistant coach, was one of the unsung heroes of the triumph. For two years he has been following Notre Dame teams, observing their formations, plotting defenses against their plays. This season he saw the Irish in all three of their games before they came here to play Pitt, and from the wealth of data he collected Head Coach Dr. Jock Sutherland and his other aides mapped out their plan of battle which brought such fruitful results.

GET DOPE ON PENN

Above is a picture of four of the assistant coaches and scouts of the Panthers poring over material on the Penn team, to be met at Philadelphia next Saturday. It was compiled by Eddie Baker, one of their number, who has trailed the Quakers all season. He brings back word that Penn, coached by Harvey Harman, another former Pitt star, has been pointing for Pitt, deliberately masking its strength to throw the Panthers off their guard.

Baker reports that, far from trying to run up scores against Dartmouth, Lehigh, Navy and other foes, Penn has been satisfied to get a few touchdowns and then kick on second down and in other ways refrain from resorting to the exercise of its full power. Dartmouth was beaten, 14-7, and an admitted error by an official deprived the Penn team of another score. Navy was beaten last Saturday, 14-0, and, according to Baker, Penn easily could have amassed two more touchdowns. The Lehigh score was 33-6. In its first two games, before settling down, Penn defeated Franklin and Marshall, 38-0, and Swarthmore, 54-0. The season record of the Red and Blue is 153 points, against 13 for five games.

ALL FOES SCOUTED

Ray Montgomery scouted Ohio State, Baker saw Carnegie Tech play Temple in Philadelphia last Friday night, Jess Quatse, Ralph Daugherty, Skip Gougler and Joe Donchess also have seen Tech in action, Montgomery now is shadowing Nebraska, which is to be met Saturday of next week on its home grounds, and Hank Hangartner is out in California spying on Pop Warner's Stanford team, which is to be played here in the closing game of the season, the Saturday following Thanksgiving Day. Andy Gustafson, former Pitt fullback, is another scout and assistant coach who contributes his share toward preparing the team for each test as it comes along.

It is doubtful if any head coach anywhere has surrounded himself with a better staff of lieutenants than Dr. Sutherland. And all of them are former Pitt players who learned the game under his expert coaching.

ETHICAL PROCEDURE

There is nothing unethical about scouting in college football. All of the teams do it openly and the best of facilities are provided the representatives of future opponents upon request. It's an established part of the game.

GRINS From the GRID

By O. W. (Red) Severence
Southern Football Official.
(Written for Associated Press.)
NO. 20.

Madison Bell, head of the department of physical education at Texas A. & M., received his early football experience under Charley Moran when Centre College was knocking over all comers without much trouble.

Coach Moran, with a small but ambitious squad, had to work the boys mighty hard and used to get rough when someone missed a signal or did something contrary to his teachings.

One afternoon during scrimmage, with Tom playing at one of the halfback posts, he and the other halfback got mixed on the signals and each thought the play was supposed to go in his direction.

In their anxiety to carry out their assignments, they turned together and met in a head-on collision. Both dropped to the ground, very limp and completely out.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

By GIB MARSH

Now that the small game hunting season is under way, the big game hunters will prepare to invade the extreme wilderness of the state for the opening of the bear season, November 10. The season will end November 30, just 18 hunting days. This year the game commissioners provided for an exclusive bear shooting period, eliminating the former December shooting session, which extended into the deer shooting season, December 1 to 15.

By this change it is expected that hundreds of bears will be conserved. Last season, nearly 700 bears were bagged in Pennsylvania and the heaviest kill was made during the December shooting season, when the army of deer hunters was in the woods. With 200,000 deer hunters making drives across the mountains, bears were routed which had escaped the observation of the hunters who were in the woods in November. That eliminating the December shooting of bears will conserve them there is no doubt.

BEST BEAR STATE

The Keystone State has been the banner bear-shooting commonwealth of the Union. However, it was observed that the stock would be reduced in serious numbers if the long shooting season, November 10 to December 15, were to be continued. Of course, the northern counties, Potter and Elk, especially, always were regarded as the bear shooting sections, although many are killed in Clinton, Clearfield and Center counties. The natives of those counties usually are successful in bowling over their bag limit, one bear, more than a year old. That is due to their knowledge of their haunts and daily routes over the mountains.

Some large bears are killed every season. It is common to bag them weighing from 250 pounds to 300 pounds, and bears have been killed which weighed as much as 600 pounds. However, a bear weighing 150 pounds is preferred for the table and the fur.

DEER IS PREFERRED

The bear does not have the patrons among big game hunters commanded by the deer. Usually much time is consumed in waiting for the bruin to reach its popular feeding place. It is not sought out by groups of hunters as the deer is, consequently the hunt lacks the thrill and excitement which is enjoyed by the groups of deer hunters.

SEAT SALE BRISK

CLEVELAND, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—More than 50,000 tickets have been sold for the Notre Dame-Navy football game to be played at Cleveland Stadium November 19, Clayton Leroux, secretary of the Cleveland Notre Dame Club, said last night.

GREENWOOD CUE PLAY LEADER

Billy Greenwood, of Pittsburgh, has a perfect record of three victories and no defeats at the sectional three-cushion billiard tournament, which opened Monday at the Crookston rooms, East Liberty, moved into the third day of competition. The winner of the local tourney, which will be concluded Friday night, will meet the winner of a similar event being staged in New York, for the right to compete for the national three-rail championship.

In today's matches, Greenwood takes on Seaback at 7:30 o'clock. At 1:30, Harry Oswald meets Mackin; at 3:30, Seaback plays Kish and at 9:30, Oswald takes on Kish.

Greenwood, playing two matches yesterday, defeated Kish, 50 to 26 in 43 innings, and Mackin, 50 to 32 in 65 innings.

Oswald, playing only one match, set a high run mark of nine as he downed Seaback, 50 to 27 in 46 innings. In the other match of the day, Mackin won over Seaback, 50 to 24. The standing of the players to date follow:

	W.	L.	Hi. Run
Greenwood	3	0	5
Oswald	2	1	9
Mackin	1	2	6
Seaback	1	2	6
Kish	0	3	6

WESTON, PETERS WIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Charles Weston, Kansas City, and Edward Peters and Joseph Moriarty, of Chicago, won their opening matches in the central division three-cushion billiard championship trials last night.

Weston defeated Jack Henley, 50 to 47, in 81 innings, while Peters conquered Ray Palmer, 50 to 37, in 56 innings. Moriarty outscored Harry Ticks, 50 to 41, in 59 innings.

SANTA PAULA POLOISTS WIN

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Santa Paula, the team which probably will be taken intact as Argentina's representative in the coming international polo matches against the United States, entered the finals of the Argentine Open polo championships yesterday with an impressive 16-to-4 victory over Los Indios.

Santa Paula will meet the winner of tomorrow's game between Meadow Brook, the all-United States team, and the veteran Argentine combination of the Hurlingham club in the final match Saturday.

White Sox Release Rothrock and Selph

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Release to the Columbus Club, of the American Association, by the Chicago White Sox of Carey Selph and Jack Rothrock, was announced today in a bulletin issued by Judge K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner.

Selph played third base and second base for the White Sox last season. He was obtained from the Houston Club, of the Texas League. Rothrock was obtained late last season from Toronto and finished the season at third base.

ETNA, OAKLAND TEAMS CLASH TONIGHT

By TOM BIRKS

With their undefeated record to protect, the Etna Sycamores clash with the Oakland Community gridders under the lights at Etna High School field this evening in a Lightweight Conference tilt. With the club tied for top honors with the Rox Rangers, Coach Joe Zivic is not taking any chances in tonight's battle.

A week of rest has given the Etna mentor a great chance to get the Sycamores into shape. The Oakland club took a drubbing from the Scott Morgans Sunday.

LINEUP REVAMPED

Coach Silverstein has revamped the Community lineup and it will be a different set of gridders which will take the field this evening.

One other game is carded for this evening, the Ambridge Gauls making the trip to Homestead.

Sunday the big local sandlot attraction will find West View and the J. P. Rooneys battling it out at Greenlee Field. The last session found the Champions winning by a lone touchdown. Manager Buck Schulties feels that his team can reverse the decision this time. At Bellaire, the Eagles will clash with the McKeesport Olympics.

PAPALES SEEK GAME

The East Liberty Papales are looking for a game at home Sunday with a first-class attraction. Call Manager Mark Knapp at Hiland 7658-R between 5 and 7 this evening.

The newly-organized Shadyside Locklin football team, representing the Shadyside district, composed of former high and prep school players, wishes to book games with the leading lightweight clubs in the district. Managers wishing to book this attraction call Manager Dan Crissman at Mayflower 5314.

HORNSBY FACES ACID TEST

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The return of the prodigal son to St. Louis has furnished the biggest surprise of the off-season in baseball. The repercussions following the announcement that Rogers Hornsby was back with Branch Rickey have been of a variegated hue. And while some of Hornsby's very foolish and sometimes harmful acts have militated against him, there is a feeling among certain smart baseball men that the Rajah should be kept in the league.

Joe McCarthy

When the average person is "down" he is more apt to wish to make amends. Here is a case where a little real charity might work wonders. There is no doubt that Hornsby was spoiled to a large extent by adulation. The little-schooled Texan was catapulted from obscurity into the headlines overnight, and if he did spoil he had many predecessors with college degrees and whatnot who went over the same route as a result of too much publicity.

A PRIZE BLUNDER

One of the prize boners of baseball in the past 10 years was perpetrated by the stupid men who ejected Joe McCarthy from the National League. That mistake apparently has made certain moguls wary as to the superior intelligence of the American League. The rival circuit was quick to grab up McCarthy.

From the first day Marse Joe entered the senior league he was a distinctive asset. Joe required only five years to transform a gambling, careless collection of Cubs into a pennant winner. His reward was the "gate." McCarthy could not be natural did he not feel a glow of satisfaction when his Yankees upset his former employers in the recent unpleasantness.

SHOCK MAY HELP ROG

It is not the intention here to refer to Hornsby and McCarthy as parallel cases; in fact, the two offer contrasting pictures in the Heydler art gallery. McCarthy was not a first-class performer, but he ranks near the top as a leader of men. Hornsby is one of the sport's greatest hitters, but as a leader of players he has been a flop. The fact that Joe is "up" and Hornsby "down" would indicate that leadership is of more importance than baseball knowledge.

STOCK MARKET MAKES SLIGHT HEADWAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP.)—The stock market crawled through another slow-motion session today, occasionally showing a slight upward trend, but never getting very far from Tuesday's final quotations.

Helped by a generally favorable assortment of mid-week business statistics, the market appeared to profit by a small volume of early short covering. Brokers said trading was almost entirely professional, as it has been for some time. The voluntary receivership for the 'Frisco Railroad had virtually its sole reflection in bonds of that carrier, some of which eased moderately under light offerings. Wheat showed early firmness.

Imminence of the General Motors dividend meeting, scheduled after the close, may have acted as a deterrent to the display of much speculative energy, although most brokers were looking for nothing but a lazy market over the balance of the week. General Motors shares were steady.

Some of the carloading statements continued to show seasonal contractions, although a few roads handled more freight last week than in the immediately preceding period.

The 'Frisco action was accompanied by an announcement that the readjustment plan had been declared operative and that the management was confident this arrangement could be carried out through receivership proceedings. Slightly more than 60 per cent of the bondholders have accepted the plan. This is the second receivership for the road since 1900, the line having been sold at foreclosure in 1916. Cost of those proceedings was about $3,000,000 and it was largely to avoid such an expense item that the directors several months ago brought forward the readjustment proposal.

Strength of sterling exchange suggested the reappearance of official support from the British Treasury's stabilization fund. Money markets, again unaffected by first-of-the-month settlements, were featureless.

U. S. INDUSTRIAL GAINS HELD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Industrial production in October was approximately 13 per cent under a year ago as compared with a decline of 25 per cent during the January-September period, the Commerce Department announced today in the monthly business review.

Output in September and October was substantially in excess of the normal season gain and the adjusted index advanced 10 per cent.

The department said:

"Further moderate improvement in business activity occurred during the past month. September recording gains in industrial production, retail trade, foreign trade, employment and payrolls."

"In general, these were well maintained during October and numerous weekly indicators reflected some additional progress. Construction activity has continued at the even pace of recent months."

Employment conditions improved. Payroll disbursements were higher and for the manufacturing industries gained 5 per cent.

The review said:

"An advance of 24 per cent in newspaper advertising lineage in September marked the first gain in a period covering a half year. Following an uninterrupted decline of four months, the August total remained at the level of July, to be followed by an upward movement in September."

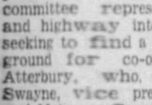
SEVERHEAD URTHER ADE GAIN

BERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—en. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, thinks that the latest upward trend in business will become more discernible again after the uncertainty concerning the election is over.

A leading Republican politician from Pennsylvania and advocate of the re-election of President Hoover, Gen. Atterbury, as a business executive and economist, nevertheless recognizes that the country is greater than any individual.



Mr. Rukeyser

Gen. Atterbury thinks that the turning of the political reins over to the opposition might delay business movements. He thinks it should be the part of wisdom to let new administrations in the future take hold on January 1 following the election.

MERGER DELAY LIKELY

As for business, Gen. Atterbury is a bull. He pointed out that railroad management had gone much further than is commonly realized in reducing operating expenses, and that accordingly any increase in gross volume of business would be quickly reflected in a substantial improvement in net. As for the Pennsylvania System, Gen. Atterbury said that it sustained the recent improvement in carloadings and the promise of continued improvement for the remainder of the year, might even enable the system to finish the calendar year without a deficit.

Regarding mergers, Gen. Atterbury indicated that he thought that consummation of the eastern consolidation plan was still some time off, particularly because of the present weakened financial status of the larger systems, which are in no position to make attractive offers to the smaller systems. He was inclined to think that the railroad weddings would have to wait until railroad credit had been rehabilitated.

URGES EQUAL TAXATION

As for railroad credit rehabilitation, Gen. Atterbury expressed confidence in the joint committee representing railroads and highway interests, which is seeking to find a common factual ground for co-operation. Gen. Atterbury, who, with Alfred H. Swayne, vice president of General Motors Corporation, initiated the movement, said that he hoped the committee would determine the real cost of truck transportation, including an equitable share of taxation and maintenance of the highways. Gen. Atterbury thinks it is childish to fight the truck or the bus as such, but thinks the railroads should be permitted to enter on equal terms all competitive forms of transportation.

In conclusion, the general summed up:

"I am optimistic on business. Cash is now piling up in banks as confidence is still on the fence. When political uncertainty is out of the way, the flow of funds into business and the pickup in trade may be surprisingly rapid."

Big Canadian Loan Is Oversubscribed

MONTREAL, Nov. 2.—At the end of the first day of the Canadian government loan campaign subscriptions to the 20-year issue totaled $15,000,000 and the entire $25,000,000 of the three-year issue had been oversubscribed approximately four times.

The total for the two sections of the loan, or $40,000,000 was about half the amount sought.

'Allegheny Steel Purchases Scrap

The Allegheny Steel Company has purchased approximately 10,000 tons of heavy breakable cast scrap for shipment into its plant at Brackenridge, according to the Daily Metal Trade. The price paid was $8.25 a ton, making the quotable range on this item $ to $8.50, a decline of 25 cents from the former range.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Held in a narrow trading area by the general disinclination of traders to extend their commitments pending the outcome of the election, the Curb market today moved through another very dull and uninteresting session.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list).

Insull Receivers Ask Share of Trust Fund

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Receivers for the Middle West Utilities Company today were seeking possible claims against a trust said to have been established by Samuel Insull for creditors with claims aggregating $16,000,000. Authority to file claims for a pro rata share of the trust was granted by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, acting on a petition brought by the receivers, Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch.

The petition alleged that the deposed "power king" had transferred millions of dollars worth of property to the trust.

NEVADA BANKS SEEK LOAN

RENO, Nev., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Under an official 12-day business and banking holiday, reorganization of the George Wingfield banks went forward today while officials awaited the return of Gov. Fred B. Balzar from Washington D. C., where he sought a $2,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The holiday was proclaimed by acting Gov. Morley Griswold after a conference with bankers largely because of the inability of livestock men to meet their obligations. Cattlemen have been hit by low prices and drought for three years.

One of Reno's four banks, two at Las Vegas, near the Hoover Dam construction, and two at Ely in the state's copper mining center ignored the holiday. A threatened run on the first National

Denies Couple Time o Themselves After They Are Engaged

CHAPTER XII.

Lennox held Elizabeth . . . saying something, perhaps. He never knew. He was asking her to marry him, of course. He was telling her he would love her all the days of his life; he was imploring her to look at him, he was saying amazedly, "How beautiful you are, Elizabeth!" Or perhaps he was silent. He never knew.

What he did know was that she was here, in his arms. That she belonged to him. That he was free—that he had escaped. Escaped what?

The dark wings that had brooded over him so long—had they not lifted? No, they had closed about him, they were folded around him and the girl in his arms; they held them there together in a black flame of darkness.

This influence, that he had felt dimly all his life, from which he had struggled, had somehow entered into him, was now a part of himself.

A stranger approached them. They did not see him. He looked toward the embraced figures, smiled and moved away. He saw two lovers, a wide deck beneath a sailing moon. He did not see heartbreak and beauty—tragedy and youth—youth—and the moment that cannot be held, that passes as a cloud over the moon's face.

LOUISA PLEASED

Presently, it had passed, and they were sitting in the steamer chairs, any one's chairs, talking, hand-fast, laughing, exclaiming. There were tears on his face and tears on hers. And they were smiling and saying, "When did you first?" and "Do you remember?"

Louisa Sheldon smiled. She told them she was pleased. She laid her cool lips on Elizabeth's cheek and shrank, affronted, from the fever she encountered there. She spoke to her son in her voice of temperate affection. She talked of a wedding, and did not mark how they drew a little apart and answered confusedly. They had not traveled with her thus far.

Elizabeth lay smiling in the dark, her eyes on the imagined ocean, beyond the porthole. She put her arms about her own body and tried to recapture the hurt his clasp had done her. She turned her face into the pillows, she spoke ridiculous, tender words, she closed her eyes and thought to relive the moment of the kiss. She thought—tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow. She ran a finger of her right hand about the fourth finger of her left, the ring finger. She sent her little heart out into the night to knock at his not distant door.

LENNOX TIRED

Lennox sat on the canvas camp stool, smoking, beside his porthole. He was as weak as if he had just awakened from a long illness. He watched his hand shake, the glowing end of his cigarette described erratic circles as he raised it to his mouth. His body was as light as down in a great wind. He was very tired. He tossed the cigarette through the porthole and made his way to his berth—lay there, his hands behind his head.

She was so sweet, so infinitely to be cherished. She was so perilous.

He tried to re-experience that first enchanted moment; endeavored to invoke the sense of escape, of terrifying release, when his body and mind had burned away in one swift uprush of flame and left him nothing but the essence of himself, merged into that heart which beat against his own, a little heart hammering for admittance.

He could not. He was weak; he was tired. Tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow.

He slept.

In his dreams that were not quite dreams something came to pursue him. Something followed him through his sleep; something leaned over his unconsciousness, there in the dark.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

He lifted his heavy lids, briefly. His mother stood there, not near him, but a tall, blurred shape against the square, pale patch of porthole, against a graying dawn.

He stirred slightly, yet it was as if he had struggled greatly. He slept again, without speaking. In his dreams he, too, pursued; he was both hunted and hunter. He fled from something nameless and unknown toward a small radiance—a little, tremulous cloud of light which hovered on the edge of dreams. If he could come upon it swiftly and lose himself within it, he would be saved; he would escape.

The announcement of the engagement, made public soon after their return, plunged Elizabeth into a sea of ceremonial calls, of formal entertaining. Lennox proved delightfully shy and grateful. "Isn't it awfully nice of them, darling, to take so much interest?" But Elizabeth, Mrs. Sheldon's friends found, was "difficult." They thought her cold, a little awkward. She responded to their innumerable, well-meaning felicitations with an abstracted smile, she shook hands absently, she spoke when spoken to with an air of docility. In reality she heard, saw, felt very little of their presence. Her body moved among the subduing surroundings of Washington square, but her blithe, startled spirit danced with the stars.

Upon their arrival home, Lennox entered his father's offices. Elizabeth saw very little of him. He came home to dinner, she sat opposite him at table, under the eyes of his mother and Henrietta, she listened to the grave, ponderous conversation conducted by Mrs. Sheldon. She listened, and did not hear. She knew she had only to raise her eyes from her plate to find his look upon her, conveying that secret message of perfect assurance. Even with her white lids downcast she could feel his gaze, heavy and warm and insistent, weighing her lids.

After dinner there might be callers, or a play, or a long, quiet sitting in the drawing room under Louisa's chaperonage.

The engagement established, Mrs. Sheldon felt it unnecessary to much absent herself from the young people. She seemed always to be with them. There was little opportunity for exchange of confidence between the lovers, less for love's food and drink, touch and kiss and handclasp. At night, when Louisa was trailing her long skirts up the stairway, Lennox held Elizabeth back, kissed her deeply and long, yet not deep enough, not long enough to heal the ache of the wearisome, unsatisfied day. In the morning they managed an early stolen rendezvous before he left for the office, sometimes coming home at night he would find her waiting in the hallway, restless, her eyes on the clock. But these fleeting encounters were not sufficient. Elizabeth took to her pen. Lennox to his. Almost every morning she would find a white envelope beckoning under her door, and while he was absent during the interminable hours she would answer, haltingly at first and with restraint, later incoherently and with passionate, blotted words. Not daring to slip into his empty room to hide the message she would secrete it about her little palpitant person and make an opportunity to give it to him on his return, the folded piece of paper whereon the dead words lived, for they were still warm from the contact with her heartbeats.

Synopsis

Mrs. Louisa Sheldon, aristocratic New York widow, concentrating all her efforts to bringing up her son, Lennox, now a Columbia student, decides that he must marry in a year or two after she discovers evidence that he had attended a party which included "girls of no advertised profession." The stern Louisa—first of the THREE WOMEN—feared her son might become, like his deceased father, a victim of wine and women. So she writes to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ella Howland, of Boston, inviting her daughter, Elizabeth, to become a guest for an indefinite length of time. The invitation is accepted. At first Lennox does not take to Elizabeth, but later they begin to like each other. Returning from a European tour, he suddenly proposes to her.

Now Go On

They were smiling and saying, "Do you remember?"

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Telephone Report Confirms Madge's Fears

I did not dare to look at Lillian after I had caught the quickly averted, flashing glance that her husband had sent her while answering the telephone call. I was curiously certain that the message he was receiving not only concerned my friend but brought evil in its wake.

Yet Harry Underwood's face was composed and his tone careless as he hung up the receiver after speaking but twice.

"Yes," he had said, and "I understand."

He turned to us as he rose.

"Somebody downstairs to see me who won't give his name," he said. "I suppose I'd better go down and see what he wants."

When Mr. Underwood came back, he opened and closed the door so quickly as he came in that the movement had the effect of being that of a man eluding pursuit, and I was sure that I caught a glimpse of a small, dapper, gray-haired, familiar figure just outside the door—that of the house physician.

I must be mistaken, I told myself, for there was no present need of a physician in our establishment, unless—I found myself gripping my chair tightly as Harry crossed the room to Lillian and, catching her hands, drew her up facing him.

SHOCKING NEWS

"Tell me quickly, Harry!" she said. "What is it? Marion?"

"Yes," her husband replied steadily, pityingly. "She has—"

"Not—oh! Harry, not—"

"No, No," he said quickly, "but dearest, you must be strong. There is work to do. She and Carolyn have disappeared. They cannot be found at the school. Mrs. Barnes just telephoned me, so that we can go down.

"Dicky! Get Madden quick, just outside the door, Madge!"

"What are we waiting for?" Lillian said in low tones. "Where is the car, Madge? Dicky, will you come with us?"

"Just try to leave us behind," Dicky said emphatically.

But I caught her hand in mine and held it firmly. Despite her almost unnatural self-control I felt her shaking as with an ague, and I wondered if her bodily strength would be able to support her spirit through this awful experience.

Dr. Madden had not yet spoken a word, keeping himself in the background and watching her closely I saw him now move swiftly to the bathroom, and come back almost at once with a tiny glass full of a colorless liquid.

"Drink this at once, Mrs. Underwood," he said with quiet authority. "And will you—" he turned to me—"get her a small cup of hot coffee at once, before she starts? Be sure that you have plenty of warm blankets, and stop at least once on the road for more coffee."

Lillian looked at him and passed her hands before her face as if she were brushing away a mosquito.

START FOR SCHOOL

"If the coffee is ready by the time I get to the front door of the hotel I will drink it," she said, "but I will not stop on the way. Is the car ready, Harry? You phoned for it before you came up, didn't you?"

Dr. Madden moved to the other side of me and spoke softly.

"Humor her, but give her one of these if her pulse slows. It is all right now. I will have the coffee ready at the car door."

He slipped away, and I went to the closet for Lillian's wraps and mine. I had seen his practiced fingers slip to her pulse, and was cheered by what he had said about it.

"Yes, I telephoned for the car," Harry said. "It will be here by the time we throw some things together. We may have to stay some time, you know."

Lillian looked at me, unconscious appeal in her eyes.

"Don't either you or Harry bother with anything," I said. "Dicky and Mary and I will put some necessary things in the bags and they will be ready as soon as the car is here."

Mary, who had been standing tensely watching, hurried into the bedroom ahead of me, and Dicky went to the door on the corridor leading to the Underwood suite.

"I'll attend to everything, old man," he said, but Harry did not hear him. He was holding his wife firmly in his arms as she said tensely:

"Can't we get there faster than the car? Isn't it possible to fly there? And you haven't told me yet what Mrs. Barnes said."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

By ANN HELFGOTT

Escaping for a brief, but busy hour, from an atmosphere fairly reeking of football excitement, all caused by the Pitt-Notre Dame game we, the members of the Enright Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theater Junior Komic Club, celebrated the Halloween season with a gala party at the theater last Saturday morning.

We are to be envied by those members who missed the party and for their benefit I shall try to list a few of my impressions of the celebration.

The theater staff had arranged an exciting hour filled with games and contests and many prizes for the fortunate winners in the various events. Probably the most colorful event was the Grand Costume Parade of all the members attending in fancy dress for the occasion.

IN COSTUME

Charlie Ross and Mary Jacqueline Ketter gorgeously attired as Mr. and Mrs. Bold-Man Pirate. They were unanimously accorded the honor of being the most popular boy and girl present.

Louise Peterson appeared at the party costumed as a jockey. She told me that this was due to her great fondness for riding.

I derived most amusement from the Pagano Twins who were made up as Uncle Tom and Aunt Jemima—or who was the female. I started looking around for the snow, ice, dogs and Little Eva—but remembered that I was attending a party.

Shirley Golbetz brought back memories of Victor Herbert's "Gypsy Love Song." Shirley's ebony, black hair was a distinct asset in the realism of her attire.

Peggy Ann Leach appeared as a Chinese laundryman, and I was tempted to say "no tickee, no washee," or "no washee, no China boy."

TURKISH BEAUTY

Marjory Gillen Leach as a Turkish damsel, exotic and mysterious behind her veil. Rita Behm as another of the Dutch children. Betty Maroney carrying with her flower scents of Japan. Dorothy Listenes as a ballerina in a charming costume. Evelyn Galanty as a funny clown. Esther Rabinovitz as another senorita. Jeanne Moroney as a bright smiling angel of Good Fortune. Betty Leech as a bad, bad old witch coming to work Black Magic. Dick Cunningham as a Spanish Don. Patsy Lou Cunningham as "Barnacle Bill the Sailor." Ruth Lakin as Pierrot, but without his beautiful Columbine. Helen Barber also was costumed as a dignified and haughty Don Juan. Catherine Franz as a gypsy beauty.

And regardless of the fact that I was not consulted in the selection of the best costumed members, I am still going to get in my vote for Betty Massa. I unreservedly cast my vote for her—it won't help now—for she impressed me as having stepped from a story book. Dainty, serene and every bit feminine in her lovely Martha Washington gown and silver wig coiffure. I fully expected her to be the winner in the girl's division and I feel much better now that I have shouted my praises.

To improve Any child's

APPETITE

If you want your child to eat more to gain and grow strong, begin this very night with the famous "California treatment!"

A sluggish appetite means a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children need is pure, unadulterated fig syrup.

The one way to conquer constipation If your baby, boy, or girl is bilious—pale-faced and dull-eyed from constipation—breath bad mornings, tongue coated all the time—don't give cathartics that weaken twenty feet of bowels! Instead, a little fig syrup that doesn't disturb either stomach or bowels, but does act on the lower colon—where the trouble lies.

Nature never made a finer laxative for children: and they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California fig syrup. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. Your child will soon be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the fig syrup a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

Houston Gets a Hearing

If He Proves His Charges Some of the Councilmen Will Be Placed in an Embarrassing Position.

The supporters of Mayor Charles H. Kline in City Council tried to hush the matter up. But they failed.

Houston now charges that Robert J. Alderdice's job as budget controller, specially created for him after he had failed of re-election to Council, is useless—and not only his job, but 35 per cent of the positions on the payroll.

The Kline councilmen tried to hush that up, too; but thanks to the protest of Robert Garland and Charles Anderson, independent councilmen, it has finally been decided to give Houston a hearing.

If Houston proves his charges, five of the Kline councilmen will be placed in a ticklish position. Their terms expire next year. They will jeopardize their chances of re-election if they fail to do something to correct the extravagance charged by Houston.

The advantage has so far lain with Houston.

A Firm Foundation

Under the Transit Commission's Plan the Subway Will Be Well Built and Efficiently Financed.

The City Transit Commission's report to Council that additional legislation will be requisite before the construction of the downtown subway will be justified is disappointing.

Last January, when the commission was pleading with Council for restoration of an appropriation that had been stricken from the budget, it was said that on account of low prices and unemployment the time was more opportune for planning an early start on the subway project than at any other period since the people voted $6,000,000 for the job in 1919. It was asserted that construction could be started within six months after final action is taken by Council on the necessary preliminary legislation.

Under the present plan there can be no hope of starting work for at lea[st] ... for the program calls for waiting until the people have ... a constitutional amendment permitting the assessment ... perty owners who will be benefited by the subway.

At the earliest, then, we c... not expect to get the subway started, under the Transit Commission's plan, until 14 years after the people voted for it.

There will be consolation for the delay, however, in the careful preparation that has been made, which assures that it will be well built and efficiently financed.

Florida Does Justice

A Good Example Is Set for Other States in the Punishment of Cruelty to Prisoners.

Florida has redeemed its fair name before the Nation by bringing to justice the former prison guard responsible for the agonized death of Arthur Maillefert, the New Jersey youth who perished last June in the Sunbeam camp "sweat-box."

Maillefert had been sent to the Sunbeam camp with other convicted men whom the state of Florida kept at outdoor work on roads and similar community projects.

Unfortunately, illness made him physically unfit for hard labor.

Under the pretense of punishing or deterring malingering, Maillefert's inhuman official captor had him put in a barrel, unclothed, with only his head and feet projecting, and shut him up alone in a hideous chamber called the "sweat-box," with a chain around his neck and wooden stocks clamped about his ankles.

The chain was passed across rafters overhead—and on the following morning poor Maillefert was found dead. His sick body had slumped down exhausted, and the iron chain had strangled him to death.

The utter brutality of young Maillefert's death resulted in state investigation of the Florida prison camp system. It resulted in the indictment of George W. Courson and Sol Higginbotham, guards at the Sunbeam camp.

On trial, the defense contended that Maillefert had committed suicide rather than serve nine years for robbery.

But state's evidence showed otherwise. The medical examiner who performed an autopsy on Maillefert's body described numerous bruises on the prisoner's back and legs. Some of these, he said, had been inflicted 48 hours before death—and he testified that Maillefert had evidently been starved during his last 24 hours of life.

On this evidence, Courson was convicted of manslaughter by the same jury that acquitted Higginbotham. Last week, Courson was sentenced to 20 years at hard labor, the extreme penalty for manslaughter.

"Florida's head is bowed in shame before the bar of the nation . . . No more brutal hanging ever was perpetrated from the yardarm of a pirate's ship. The hellish convict system of Florida is on trial."

The jury in this case has done well by Florida and the nation. The trial judge has done equally well.

It is now for courts and prosecutors in other states, where third degree methods ... prison brutality have obtained, to follo... Florida's example, and make an end for all time of these appalling cruelties.

Fishing Is Good, Too

A Local Party's Catch in Edinboro Lake Bears Witness That Autumn Is a Good Time for Angling.

Three gentlemen of Verona and a Harmarville companion are back from a fishing trip on Edinboro Lake, Erie County, with a fine catch.

Their prize fish was a muskellunge 53 inches in length and 46 pounds 10 ounces in weight, which was caught by using a large frog as bait.

They also caught two other muskies, 25 and 29 inches long, two 19-inch bass and 10 smaller fish.

Many persons who are fond of fishing are not aware that the best sport is to be had in the autumn.

Those who like to take their outings when the weather is cool might try it. Fishing is less dangerous than hunting, and the season for bass and muskies is open until November 30.

Holding His Own

Of soothing his children three.
The night is ringing with vocal strife
Tormenting his harried soul
As he longs for a bachelor's lonely life
And ponders on birth control.

For all the folks in the neighborhood
Are aroused by the frightful sound,
And peevish neighbors are not so good
When election day rolls round.
And his fatherly smile has flown,
But though he is holding a load of woe
At least he is holding HIS OWN.

Stray Thoughts

In India, most girls have their husbands picked out for them before they are born—a wonderful conservation of time, effort, worry and anxiety!

* * *

Husbands are like climate—all a matter of taste and of which kind agrees with you best.

* * *

* * *

There are SO many varieties: golf husbands, radio husbands, jazz husbands, home brewers, cash registers, tame husbands, wild husbands and "married bachelors."

Marriage is a state of mind, and lots of men who have gone through the wedding ceremony are only one-half per cent married.

* * *

Every husband delights to play "Philanthropist." He would rather "surprise" his wife with a gift of a $50 hat that makes her look like a rummage sale than give her $5 with which to buy one that matches her latest complexion.

* * *

Every husband always thinks of "the little woman" he married as something delicate and ornamental, but just the same he is never so thrilled as when he comes in and finds her peeling onions or hanging over the kitchen range.

* * *

No husband ever asks, "Where's my hat?" but always, "Where'd you PUT my hat?" When it comes to getting out of all the little responsibilities around the house, Houdini was a mere tyro beside him.

A woman can go on marrying as often as Solomon without ever once finding that happy medium between an "exposed nerve" and a lump of protoplasm—a butterfly and a bumble-bee, a hard-boiled egg and a peach souffle, for which every normal woman vainly sighs.

* * *

Sometimes it is very hard to believe that a woman was such a heart-collector in her girlhood days as she always claims, when you see what she chose out of the whole "collection."

* * *

Nothing makes a woman so contented with her own husband as to observe what "afflictions" other women have married. Every woman secretly wonders why some other woman "goes on putting up with THAT MAN!"

* * *

As "absolute necessities," husbands are slowly slipping into a class with umbrellas and overshoes. But, after all, it's the rare and beautiful luxuries that a girl really craves these days.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Two of the town's most colorful streets, to my notion, are South and West. Wide, sometimes cobble-stoned, South skirts the East River's waterfront, and West, the Hudson's. They are the only sections left "where bowsprits look into windows and windows into ships."

Life, without its smacks of grog, still retains a touch of the burly vigor of men with hair on their chests who go around the Horn on windjammers. There is the timbre allegro of a chapter from Jack London in the gummy catsup bottled eating hutches near docks.

Now and then a screaming hag, aflame with cheap gin, staggers the sidewalks to exchange robust epithets with seamen. She knows she is safer than in the perfumed area uptown. The worst she gets below Fulton is a triple-ply cussing. Uptown, the jug.

A humble mission flaunts a benediction in flaming red: "Jesus Saves!" At dusk pavements are a swagger of rolling gaits. Sometimes seamen, whose pent-up anger is leashed by ship discipline, meet. Without a word, and in a gullying rage, they fight it out in the street.

When the city is put to bed, they are silhouetted in a medley of relaxations—playing cards or sprawling on pier ends. Always near the susurration of the sea. On the surface is a rich contempt for casuals. But underneath is soft sentimentality. An eager tug for simplicity.

* * *

Residential areas in their crazy leap-frog have left the lower tip of Manhattan Island with scarcely a taint of domesticity. Yet, in the tideless calm of its commanding sweep of harbor and sea, it's the ideal home section and decidedly the most peaceful in town. After nightfall, the only noise is the echoing heel-click of a lonely Wall street night-watch, the only activity a manhole geysering a jet of steam.

* * *

A handful of straggling tenement dwellers are beached within a stone's throw of Battery Park, but everybody else joined the hegira northward. The last holdout was Henry L. Doherty, with his perch on a State street skyscraper crag. But he finally abandoned his eyrie for the modernistic charms of that new and glorified tribal rock on Park avenue—the Waldorf.

* * *

New York revolves in cycles. Neighborhoods infra-dig a generation ago are top swank today, notable examples are those slumset jewels—Sutton and Beekman places. I hazard the Park avenue of another generation will overlook the harbor. What are now rows of steamship offices and a rising sheer of business towers will be castles by the sea. Say by 1952.

* * *

Speaking of idyllically named residential areas, the mail was brightened today by this address: "Gardenglow St., Paris, O." Yet my choice for the most entrancingly named thoroughfare remains Shanghai's Bubbling Well Road. With Chicago's Lake Shore Drive, a runner-up. And there's a Cotswold trout village—"Skidding Skies."

* * *

Most river towns have a Front street jutting the levee. And all Front streets have a pea-in-the-pod similarity. In a few blocks' sweep they encompass the social strata. From Banker Henking's brick with hardwood floors far back on the knoll to the shuttered frame across the tracks from which ladies, with lips touched carelessly red, came to town only in curtained gigs. Sinclair Lewis spiked many adolescent dreams of "the great American novel" with "Main Street." Mine was to be "Front Street," but after "Main Street" I was tickled pink I kept on at my hacking.

* * *

In another bold but uncertain moment, I tackled a publisher—this was about 15 years ago—regarding a novel to be called "Forty-Second Street," which had been incubating since I came to brighten the town. Nothing came of it. Chiefly because the publisher did not think, and rightly, I had a hop to the ball. A book by that title was recently a deserved best seller. My books rarely get beyond titles. So here's another I've thought up — I guess not. Maybe I can sell it to Hollywood.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Peeves a plenty this year—

Dorothy Jane's pouting because she has to wear her last year's "formal" and can't join a sorority. Young Dick scowling darkly because he can't have a Tux and a roadster. All the youngsters, and many of the oldsters, sore because "there's no more money for fun."

And that was to be expected. We've been buying fun by the carload for a dozen dizzy years. Spending! Splurging! Grabbing at any new possession that would satisfy the restlessness within us—and calling that Life. Thinking that Living meant Spending. And now that spending is over—what's left?

Mighty little for most of us. The youngsters, especially. For they were bred to be spenders. It was the go-get-'em age. They were the Gimme Generation. No time—no chance—to make things for themselves. Nobody expecting them to make things for themselves.

HOW COULD BIG BUSINESS SUCCEED IF PEOPLE MADE THINGS FOR THEMSELVES?

It couldn't. So we sacrificed a generation of human souls to our worship of Big Business. Taught them to buy—buy—buy. Taught them that anything could and everything should be bought — and that a man should work to make money to buy. Taught them that beauty, smartness, fun, excitement, poise, power and position could and should be bought.

And now we can't buy and something seems all wrong. Of course it seems all wrong. For money can't buy Life. Money can't put anything into a man that will last. The only lasting fun, the only lasting power and contentment, are the fun and the power and the contentment that a man makes for himself without money. And the man who depends entirely on money to purchase Life is cheated when he has money and bankrupt when he hasn't.

You see it happening all around you—the bankruptcy of those who depended on getting and spending money. But the people who made life for themselves, they're managing somehow. They're still finding fun and excitement and interest in life. They'll always manage. You can't bankrupt a person who has learned to live in and / himself.

N... is this bankruptcy only happening in America. It's happening all over the world—wherever people have let Big Business get the best of them, let Machines take the place of their own hands and hearts.

There's that last thing Lawrence wrote, about the unhappiness of British workers:

"The young ones get mad because they've no money to spend. Their whole life depends on spending money, and now they've got none to spend. That's our civilization and our education: bring up the masses to depend entirely on money, and then the money gives out . . . .

"If you would only tell them that living and spending isn't the same thing! But it's no good! If only they were educated to live instead of spend, they could manage very happily on 25 shillings. . . . If they could dance and hop and skip, and sing and swagger and be handsome, they could do with very little cash . . .

"They ought to learn to . . . sing in a mass and dance the old group dances and carve the stools they sit on and embroider their own emblems. Then they wouldn't need money. And that's the only way to solve the industrial problem; train the people to be able to live and to live in handsomeness without needing to spend."

People have lived that way—joyously, contentedly, freely, excitingly, proudly—without money. Great nations . . . whole civilizations . . . have existed happily and richly without ever hearing of Big Business. OURS IS THE FIRST CIVILIZATION THAT HAS DEPENDED ENTIRELY ON MONEY. And now money has failed us.

So then what?

Once Over

By J. J. Murdy

Throughout your life you have been careless with your money, spending as you made it without much thought.

You have made little effort to accumulate a fund to take care of the inevitable rainy day when you reach the unproductive years.

Rather than deny yourself to save you have affiliated with certain organizations which provide homes for their indigent members.

You have made such connection with the feeling that when you are old these organizations, one or the other, will take care of you.

The majority being cared for in these institutions are persons who have suffered afflictions of one kind or another through life and whose incomes were never large.

But will your claim be a worthy one?

With the income you have had, it ought to have been possible for you to save enough to take care of yourself in old age.

But, instead, are you not planning to let your order assume the burden which you ought to have undertaken, and might have accomplished if you had been more sensible?

A Truce to Demagogy!

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Mr. Roosevelt, commenting on the political complexion of the functionaries of government, said that the Republicans had every branch, including the judicial—which is perfectly true. The Supreme Court is Republican, due to the fact that most members have been appointed by Republican Presidents.

Whereupon, a thoroughly hysterical political opposition, hearing more clearly the roaring of the waters of the Niagara they are approaching, declares, with much shouting and beating of tom-toms, that Mr. Roosevelt has attacked the Supreme Court.

Some gentleman is going to tell Calvin Coolidge about it. Oh dear! Oh dear!

So much for that.

The next few days are to be devoted by the Hoover speakers to warning about the dreadful things that will happen if Roosevelt is elected. Perhaps it is too much to expect a sense of humor in men grown hysterical; but it is a bit trying to find these gentlemen up to their necks in the wreckage of the Hoover panic, which is "getting no better fast," solemnly warning the people that if they elect Roosevelt we will have a depression!

* * *

"Road to Ruin"? If Roosevelt Is Elected!

Glancing over the headlines, we read: "Mrs. Pratt sees chaos ahead if Democrats win"—as though we have not had chaos ever since Mr. Hoover went into power. And Ogden Mills, whose insufferable blundering on the deficit so postponed the balancing of the budget that for a moment our credit fell throughout the world, solemnly informs us that he sees "the road to ruin" if Roosevelt is elected. Soon we shall hear from Mr. Hoover that men like Newton D. Baker, John W. Davis, Bernard Baruch, Owen D. Young, who are supporting Roosevelt and urging his election, are a lot of dangerous "reds" and "radicals."

But more important is the announcement of that distinguished newspaper, the Springfield Republican, that it can no longer support Mr. Hoover, and believes the best interest of the country demands the election of Mr. Roosevelt. This conclusion has been reached after both candidates have given the nation an exposition of their views. It says:

"Mr. Hoover has practically exhausted his capacity to serve the Republic effectively as its President."

And we have never heard that this distinguished New England newspaper, with a glorious history behind it, was ever suspected of being partial to the "radicals."

* * *

Senator Cutting Puts It Bluntly

Quite as significant is the speech just made by Senator Cutting, of New Mexico, a Republican, urging Roosevelt's election. He is a man of means with a red flair for public service, and he is such a "demagogue" that he has some interest in the average man. Like a great many others with a decent respect for the average man and his rights, Senator Cutting has grown weary over the cheap claptrap of a boneheaded cabinet about the "demagogy" of Mr. Roosevelt. He puts it bluntly:

"The attack upon Gov. Roosevelt for his devotion to the 'forgotten man' is ridiculous. We have reached a sorry stage in public life if a political leader who speaks for the rank and file is to be branded as a demagogue."

The average man, and most of us are included, cannot have failed to notice that under the ministrations of the Best Minds in power in the last 12 years when we have been moving in the direction of a financial oligarchy or plutocracy, that any public man who dares speak up for the rights of the under-dog is pounced upon savagely by the parrots of privilege as a "radical" or "red." This trashy stuff is served us regularly by some of our periodicals of "light and leading."

It will be a fatal thing in days like these if the great mass of the people come to the conclusion that this is the meaning of our institutions.

* * *

A Desperate Piece of Demagogy

And Senator Cutting says further:

"This country has all too many demagogues for special interests. We have few who are willing to fight for the rights of the public."

Most of these "demagogues for special interests" are on the stump today warning the people that any public man standing for the fundamental rights of the average man is a dangerous demagogue.

The supreme act of demagogy in this campaign came from Mr. Hoover when he concocted his amazing story of how he, solitary and alone, saved the gold standard when we were within two weeks of being forced off. Now that it has been shown from the records that the gold standard never was in danger; now that we know from the records that at the very moment Mr. Hoover was saving the gold standard, Ogden Mills told the Senate committee that we had all the gold necessary to meet our obligations; now that we have it from the record that at this very time Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve System, told the Senate committee there was not the slightest danger of our being forced off the gold standard—now that we know the facts we are beginning to know what demagogy is.

And there are people who have concluded that any public man capable of gambling with the financial fabric of the nation for the sake of votes, is a dangerous man to have at the head of the nation in days like these.

"The Demagogues of Special Interests"

The 11,000,000 jobless men and their thirty or forty million dependents cannot have failed to note the trend of the Hoover campaign. With the expressions of the Cabinet of All the Deficiencies, and the tone of the reactionary press supporting Mr. Hoover, they cannot fail to see that anyone who manifests a human interest in their welfare is a "demagogue;" that any statesman who proposes plans for the betterment of the condition of the average man is "unsound."

With the use of the blackjack of intimidation for employes, and the methods of terrorism for the weak-minded segment of the business world, it is proposed by those in power to continue the present special privilege program and make the people like it.

The only people in this campaign who have resorted to terrorism as a weapon are "the demagogues of special interests."

Jouett Shouse's Masterful Address

I hope everyone heard the masterful address of Jouett Shouse over the radio the other night; for among other things he exposed the utter hypocrisy of Mr. Hoover's claim that he wants to reduce the cost of government, but has been prevented by the Democratic House. We cannot do better than quote:

"The Hoover administration has not effected governmental economy; and with all the opportunity in the world it has not brought it about; it has not even made a beginning toward the consolidations of bureaus and commissions, and departments and governmental agencies. The opportunity has been Mr. Hoover's. For the first two years of his administration he controlled the legislative branch of the government. But nothing was done."

There is no meaner form of demagogy than misrepresentations of the facts, and if you eliminate all the misrepresentations from the speeches of the cabinet and all the deficiencies there is little left.

We have had enough of demagogy; the people are not deceived; and they are going to vote out the administration which has been the most tragic failure in our history.
